Richard Meador's daughter, Addra, was the right age to marry Francis. Both people were in the same generation. And the two families were obviously well-acquainted with each other.

Further information substantiates this hypothesis and this is by no means the only information available.

July 27, 1699 Francis Browne, John Fargeson, James Fullerton, John Hail appraise estate of John Wood (father of Elizabeth Wood who married Thomas Meador, mentioned previously).

The relationships of Francis Browne with the Haile and Meador lines have not yet been determined and neither has that of John Farguson. The Fargusons, however, had a close relationship with the Hailes as John Haile appraised the estate of John Farguson in 1718 and John Farguson (son of John) appraised the estate of John Haile in 1744. James Fullerton (son of James Fullerton who died 1678, wife unknown) md. Sarah Pickett (daughter of Henry Pickett). The Picketts show up often in records pertaining to the Meador and Haile lines. Sarah's second husband was James Webb, the son of John Webb and Mary Sanford. James and Sarah's daughter Penelope (usually given the name of Webb by genealogists, but James Webb was her step-father) married James Gatewood, son of John and Amy (?) Gatewood. After his death Amy married Joseph Baker. (Remember seeing him in the John Meador estate records concerning Susanna?)

March 5, 1669/70 Richard White, Henry Awbrey, and John Gatewood were witnesses to a deed from Nicholas Pultey to John Wells. (This land was formerly granted to Anthony North.)

Dec. 4, 1689 Richard Hale sold 200 acres to John Gatewood. (This land included the 100 acres Richard Haile received from Henry Awbrey for seating 5100 acres).

Oct 18, 1697 John Gatewood, John Meader, Richard Gregory appraised estate of William Jones.

June 11, 1705 Court order: Appraisal for estate of Simon Cobnall (Copnall) signed by James Fullerton, John Meador, John Gatewood and John Haile

July 19, 1726 William Allen, John Haile, Thomas Meadows, and John Brison appraised the estate of Eliza. Clinton

MEADOR-AWBREY CONNECTIONS

Thomas MEADOR died before April, 1662 in Old Rappahannock Co., VA. He married Sarah (?) who, after his death, married Henry AWBREY. Thomas Meador's and Sarah's (?) children were: John, Susanna, and Mary.

John married Elizabeth WHITE, daughter of Richard WHITE (cooper)and Addara(?).
Susanna married first John Evans, second Phillip McGuire.
Mary married Col. Francis Gouldman.

Sarah and Henry Awbrey apparently had one child, Richard Awbrey. In his will dated April 18, 1697, he mentions his son Henry, daughter Mary, daughter Dorothy, Elizabeth Evans, God daughter (She was the daughter of Susanna(Meador) and John Evans-therefore, Richard's niece), brother John Meador,Thomas Hucklescott, Thomas Gregson, Francis Gouldman, "Sister" Maguire, Phillip Maguire and wife Dorothy Awbrey. Dorothy North, wife of Richard Awbrey, married second Thomas Gouldman, and third Peter Ransome.

AWBREY-HAILE CONNECTION

Mar 7, 1671 Know all men that I Henry Awbrey of Rappahannock Co. for the good will and affection I bear unto my Godson Richard HAILE of the County aforesaid I give one heifer in manner and form following with all her increase both male and female unto my Godson Richard HAILE and his heirs lawfully begotten of his body and if the said Richard HAILE, JR.
dies without issue as abovesaid then the said heifer and her increase to return unto the said Henry Awbrey and his heirs forever further I the said Henry Aubrey doe order that the said heifer shall remaine at the Plantation of Richard WHITE where now she is with her increase for the use of my (son) Godsone Richard Haile and that the said Richard White shall have the male increase until the said Haile be ten years of age and no longer for looking after the said Beast and her increase until my Godson Richard Haile be twenty and one years of age the abovesaid heifer is a teale black and on the right eare and a hole in the left ear and an under keel and no further marke further the said Henry Aubry doth require that the male and female increase of the said heifer that belongs to the said Haile Junior should be marked as abovesaid. Wit: Richard White, Thomas Claiborne.

Richard Haile Jr. could not have been Capt. Richard HAILE since he was not yet ten years of age in 1671. JOHN, son of Capt. Richard, is estimated born between 1675-1678. (These dates are based upon a deposition by Mary, wife of John, given in Caroline Co., dated May 22, 1745

-this deposition places her approximate birthdate as 1678. No further records for Richard Haile Jr. have been found. It is assumed that Richard Haile Jr. was a son of Capt. Richard HAILE who died before reaching adulthood.

On February 5, 1684 Henry Awbrey deeded 100 acres to Richard HAYLE, part of a 5,100 acre patent held by Henry Awbrey, for the seating of the pattent.

July 13, 1698- Capt. Richard HAILE not prosecuting his suit against Mrs.
Dorothy Goldman, executrix of Richard Awbrey deceased, is non suited.

Richard MEADOR md. Ann MOSS (daughter of John and Mary MOSS, sometimes spelled Mess in the records)

In his will dated Dec. 12, 1715, witnessed by Erasmus Allen and Thomas Duden, Richard bequeaths his loving wife the plantation where he lives and after her decease to his eldest son William. To his younger son Richard all the land formerly that of his Grandfather White. If Richard died without legal heirs, the land was to go to youngest daughter ADDARA. There was also a bequest to his brother John and his wife was made sole executor.
May 15, 1716 William Pickett and John Pickett were security for Ann's administration of Richard's estate, recorded in Essex Co. VA.

Later court orders reveal that Ann married secondly John Bryson.
Unfortunately, some of the records show the name Elizabeth rather than Ann.
It cannot be determined if this was an error in the copying of the original papers. The fact remains that Ann (Moss) was the wife of Richard MEADOR and was named sole executor; and that John

Bryson and his wife Ann/Elizabeth are later named in the records as executors of the estate of Richard Meador. John Bryson could not have become executor of Richard's estate any other way.

There is a will recorded in Orange County, VA for a John Bryson of St.

Thomas Parish. It was dated Nov. 13, 1755 and mentions son John, daughter Mary Hackett. Beloved wife Ann Bryson and son John Bryson are named executors. The will, however, was not proved unto October 25, 1770 which seems to be rather late for the John Bryson in Essex Co. Ann was not mentioned when the will was recorded, so it is assumed she was deceased. John Bryson, the son went to Surrey Co., NC. To date efforts to accumulate information on the son have not been fruitful.

Note from Gene Rooks - The above records compiled by Jean Suddarth and graciously shared by her give strong evidence that Adara, wife of

Francis HAILE, who died in Bedford Co., VA in 1780, (son of John HAILE of Essex Co. and grandson of Capt. Richard HAILE), was Adara MEADOR, daughter of Richard Meador and Ann Moss, grandaughter of John MEADOR and Elizabeth WHITE, whose parents were respectively Thomas MEADOR nd Sarah ?, and Richard WHITE and ADDARA ? Your comments are solicited.

O.K. Here is my first short installment of the Francis Adara saga. Please give me comments before I put this out online.

Thanks,
Jean

From the time I learned of my connection with Francis and Adara Haile, the general concensus amount Hail researchers has been that Adara was a Dudley. I have followed every wild goose chase presented to me and have concluded that Adara was not a Dudley.

Five years ago while attempting to help a fellow researcher, I stumbled upon information that has led me in a different direction. It is my belief that Adara was a Meador. I have and am in the process of researching every line which connects to the Meadors or Hailes (even witnessess) in Essex and Old Rappahannock Counties, VA. Some of this information has been charted but it is by no means complete and some of it is still in need of verification.

Victor P. Meador's book, Our Meador Families of Colonial Virginia, has been invaluable in my research; he did a wonderful job. As in any research, however, I have discovered some information which remained obscure when his book was published.

It is my hope that Hail and Meador researchers will remain open-minded. Much of the early information cannot be documented, and therefore one must rely on circumstantial evidence. Any additional information that might be helpful will be greatly appreciated.

with him that night and the next, and the day after that he died. The deponent came home and returned and saw him buried and a funeral sermon was preached for him. Being asked if Robert Powell had any other child or children alive at that time of the name of John and Robert, says he had then but one child alive and that was James.

Mary (M) Stone

Sworn to 29 March 1745 before Robert Farish, George Hoomes, Thomas Johnson.

Mary Haile of Essex County, about 67, being interrogated on the part of the defendant if she knew James Taylor the Elder and John and Robert Powell his grandsons, answered she did. Being asked which died first, answered she lived very near to Robert Powell father of John and Robert. On Friday she was at Robert Powell's house when a letter came that Mrs. Powell's father James Taylor was very sick and desired to see her. The said children appeared to be well. Mrs. Powell intended to go down on Sunday to see him but that morning her youngest child was taken sick and prevented her. Her son Robert was taken sick about 10 Clock and her son John was taken sick about 2 o'clock the same day. One of the children died that night, another on Monday night and were all buried on Tuesday. The deponent was at their burial and a letter came there, the purport of which this deponent understood was that James Taylor was dead and that Mrs. Powell was desired to go down to his funeral, but this deponent did not read the letter nor does she remember she heard her say James Taylor was dead, only that Mrs. Powell on the receipt of the letter dried and said Oh, Lord, Have I lost my children and my father too. Being asked if she saw Mrs. Mary Stone at the burial of the children, says she does not remember she saw any woman there except Margaret Pruet. The deponent went away from the burial before night, carried the defendant James Powell, who was then a child, home with her to take care of him while Mrs. Powell his mother went down to her father's. At that time Robert Powell had no child living but one son James. James Taylor and Robert Powell lived about twenty two miles distant from each other.

Sworn 29 March 1745 before Robert Farish, George Hoomes, Thomas Johnson.

Depositions taken 30 March 1745 at the house of Rowland Thomas of Caroline County:

Mary Thomas of Caroline County, aged about 80 years, examined on the part of the plaintiff if she knew which died first, her former husband James Taylor the Elder or his two grandsons John and Robert Powell, sons of Robert Powell and Sarah Powell; answers that on Wednesday or Thursday before James Taylor's death, Mrs. Powell mother of John and Robert came down to see him and told this deponent she had buried three of her children, John, Robert and one unbaptized; that Mrs. Stone was then there and told this deponent the same but whether the said Stone and Mrs. Powell came down together or not this deponent don't remember. Taylor lived till the Saturday afterward and then died, to the best of her remembrance. She don't remember she ever heard about that time nor till lately that James Taylor died before the children. James signed and published his will on the Wednesday night before he died.

Mary Stone of Caroline County, aged about 68 years, interrogated on the part of the plaintiff if she knew James Taylor the Elder, answered she did. Being asked if she knew John and Robert Powell, deceased, sons of Robert Powell and grandsons of James Taylor, answered she did. Being asked if she knew which died first, James Taylor or his grandsons, says Robert Powell the father and his wife came to this deponent's house and told her they had lost a young child. This deponent and her husband John Stone went to see the child buried and found John and Robert sick. John and Robert died soon after and this deponent was at their burial, where a letter came to inform Mrs. Powell, mother of John and Robert, that her father James Taylor was like to die and desired to see her. The next morning she and the deponent went down to the house of James Taylor and found him very sick and sat up

THE HAILE FAMILY
OF ESSEX COUNTY, VIRGINIA

by T. H. Warner

The purpose of this search into the history of the Haile family of Essex County, Virginia, was to ascertain the ancestry of Lena Broaddus Fox, wife of Hugh Fox, of Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

Her lineage definitely descends from Captain Richard Haile.

In 1652 one, Thomas Haile, was a resident of the Northern Neck of Virginia. During that year he was one of the many signers of the declaration of allegiance to the Commonwealth in England. In that year this declaration was signed at a Northumberland Court.

There was also a Francis Haile of the Northern Neck, who, in 1663, patented 1800 acres of land.

Whether or not either of these was a parent of Captain Richard Haile is not known.

There appeared in that part of Rappahannock County which later became Essex County one, John Haile of Piscataway Creek, who left only one daughter, Anne Haile, who married Thomas Cox by 1706. (Essex Orders 321. Deeds 14, 497-500.)

This John may have been a brother of Captain Richard Haile.

Captain Richard Haile had arrived in that section long known as the head of Piscataway Creek by July 10, 1680.

On that date Henry Awberry, a Justice of the Court, an Indian interpreter, a Burgess, and one of the most notable characters in all the early history of these parts, patented 6630 acres of land. This patent included three tracts - one for 1050 acres, one for 400 acres, and a third for 5100 acres. This last tract lay between the branches of Hoskins Creek and the branches of Piscataway Creek and the branches of the Mattaponi River. (Patent Book 7, page 47. Virginia State Land Office Richmond, Virginia.)

Richard Haile seated this 5100 acre tract for Henry Awberry, cleared the land, built a house and fences as required by law, and lived there three years or more, for we find in Deed Book 7, page 177 that Henry Awberry in 1684 gave 100 acres of land to Richard Haile for seating a tract of 5100 acres; and on the next page (page 178) we find that Thomas Saddler sold to Richard Haile and Mary his wife 100 acres lying between Hoskins and Piscataway Creek and on the south side of Mill Creek, which said Creek is commonly called Jones Mill Creek.

Deed Book 7, pages 10 and 11, in 1685, Nathaniel Baxter gave to Richard Haile (2) and Mary, his wife, 500 acres of land on the condition that Richard Haile furnish the said Baxter with"sufficient dyet, washing, lodging, and apparel so long as the Nathaniel should live." Three hundred acres of this land was on Piscatacon and two hundred acres was on the south side of Piscatacon.

Nathaniel Baxter, Jr. was born during February 1663 in this country. (Deed Book 7, page 211.) On October 20, 1666, Nathaniel Baxter patented 500 acres on the east side of Piscatacon Creek. (Deed Book 7, page 662.)

The land which Richard and Mary Haile received they assigned to Thomas Sadler in exchange for other land.

Richard Haile sold 200 acres to John Gatewood in 1689. (Deed Book 8, page 102.)

On June 10, 1693, Captain Richard Haile was in court. (Essex County Orders Book 1, page 106) This is the first time (found) that he was called "Captain". At this time his good friend, Henry Awberry, was a Burgess from Essex County, and must have been largely instrumental in raising him to this military rank.

In 1694 he patented 720 acres of land. The location of the lands that he held prior to this, I have been unable to ascertain, but this patent of 720 acres is fairly definitely placed for it descends to his grandchildren.

In 1696, he gave this land to his son, John Haile (4). (Deed Book 9, pages 130-1).

Other references to Captain Richard Haile are found in Essex County Orders, Book 2, page 90 and Book 1, page 206.

Captain Haile had one son, John, and a kinsman, Jonathan Haile (3), who was a blacksmith by profession. In 1735 he sold 110 acres on Gilson's Creek (Mount Landing Creek) where he had been living. His wife was apparently dead at that time.

In 1727 Jeane Olive in her Will referred to Jonathan Haile as her son-in-law. This Jeane Olive also had a son, Henry Brown. Jonathan's wife was probably a Miss Brown, sister to Henry Brown. In 1727 Jeane Olive also mentioned a granddaughter, Anne Haile.

Jonathan Haile made his Will April 17, 1737. in which he named his grandson, James Haile, and willed that if he died without issue all his lands should go to John Haile, Jr., the son of Captain Haile. (Will Book 6, page 83, and Will Book 6, page 342. Recorded June 22, 1737.)

Before Jonathan Haile's death, he and Thomas Bourne sold to Thomas Waring land that they held together in King and Queen County. (Will Book 9, page 280.)

John Haile (4), the son of Cap't. Richard Haile (2), in 1703 sold 100 acres of land, it being a part of a larger patent taken up by his father, lying in Essex and King and Queen Counties and on Portobago Path and the branches of Belforly Run that"cometh out of the Mattapony River." This land must, therefore, have been near the present road from Miller's Tavern to Powcan Post Office.

On June 10, 1708, John Haile, the son of Captain Richard Haile, sold 252 acres of the 720 acre patent that had been taken up by his father, Captain Richard Haile. This Deed states that John was the only son and heir apparent of Captain Richard Haile. (Deed Book 13, page 112.) This land was adjoining the land of John Loving. Loving's land was near what is now known as Whitlock's Corner.

In 1742 John Haile, Sr., (4) gave lands to three of his sans, John, Jr., (6), Thomas (7), and Benjamin (8). He stated that this land was also part of the 720 acre patent taken up by his father, Captain Richard Haile. To Thomas he gave 120 acres. This land, speaking in modern terms was the field just east of the store at Meade, and south of the spring swamp, north of Piscataway swamp.

The swamp leading from the Piscataway pocoson to the canning factory just east of Dunbrooke was called Mariner's swamp in the old days. John, Jr., (6) was given 100 acres of land on the west side of it near Dunbrooke, and Benjamin (8) was given 180 acres on the east side of this swamp extending about from the road to piscataway Creek. It was apparently adjoining Benjamin's to the north and the east that there lay the 252 acre tract that had been cut off.

The branch that runs up to the south side of McDonald's residence today was referred to by old John Haile as "my spring branch." This would indicate that the home of John Haile, Sr., was where Mrs. Emma McDonald now lives. Latitude N.37°, 52', 51"; Longitude W.76°,57', 35". (See Deed Book 22, pages 404-7) (See Orders of Essex County Court Book 1, page 299, and Deed Book 13, pages 392 and 432.)

John Haile, Sr., (4), the son of Captain Richard Haile, mentioned six children in his Will dated August 17, 1744. (Wills of Essex County, Book 7, page 216.) He left sons Francis (5), John Haile, Jr., (6), Thomas Haile (7), Benjamin Haile (8), and daughters Mary Edmondson (9) and Susanna Allen (10). Of these Thomas Haile (7) and Elizabeth, his wife bought 180 acres from his brother, Benjamin. (Deed Book 35, page 156). Thomas had a daughter who married Mark Ball. (Deed Book 30, page 136) Latane owned his land. (Deed Book 30, page 358)in 1770. Thomas witnessed the Will of John Haile in 1760. (Will Book 11, page 299)

At the death of John Haile (4), his wife was living. She and his son, John, were made executors of his estate. (Will Book 7, page 144.)

From the deeds of John Haile (4) we know that his wife's name was Mary. This Mary made her Will on July 14, 1753. It was recorded on July 17, 1753. In it she gave a slave to her grandson, Avis Haile; she gave her feather bed to her granddaughter, Martha Greenhill. Her crops, she gave to her son, John Haile. Susanna Allen, one of her daughters, was a witness to her Will. (Will Book 9, page 240.)

John, Jr., (6), the son of John (4), the son of Captain Richard Haile (2), in 1730 endorsed the bond of Patience Gatewood, the executrix of Richard Gatewood. (Will Book 5, page 3.) He became surveyor of roads in 1748. (Essex County Order Book 15, page 240). He married Mary Dix, a daughter of Thomas Dix, Sr. (Will Book 14, page 138.)

John Haile (6) made his Will dated December 11, 1760. It was recorded April 20, 1761. It had a codicil dated 4-1761. He named his sons, Richard Thomas Haile (11), Jonathan Haile (12), Avis Williamson Haile (13), (14), and daughters Sarah Blayes (15), Elizabeth (16) and Mary Anne Croxton (17).

Mary Anne Croxton (17) was the wife of John Croxton of Cherry Walk Farm.

On July 31, 1775, John Croxton made a Will in which he gave his lands and house, Cherry Walk, to his oldest son, Carter Croxton, to him and his heirs forever. He willed that to each of his sons, Richard Croxton and Avis Croxton there should be paid 40 pounds in current money by Carter Croxton.

All of his children were under age. He requested that Richard Thomas Haile take care of them until they were of age. The witnesses were William Croxton and Tom Croxton. (Will Book 13, page 32.)

Richard Thomas Haile reported the account of the orphans of John Croxton in the August Court of Essex County in 1781. (Order Book 29, page 372 and also page 447.)

Richard Thomas Haile (11), the son of John Haile (6), the son of John Haile (4), the son of Captain Richard Haile (2) left a Will with codicil dated September 18, 1789 in which he named his wife Mary Haile. To his son John Haile (18) he gave his desk, his house and lands after Mary's death to descend through John (18) to his grandson Richard Thomas Haile (24). He bequeathed other property to his daughter Joanna Haile (21), who later married Zacharia Crittenden; to his son Benjamin (23); and to his son Richard (19). The name of Wheeler (20) is scratched out. His will is witnessed by Richard and Benjamin Haile, probably two of his kinsmen, as two of the other witnesses were King and Queen men. The Will was recorded October 20, 1795.

The name of Wheeler Haile was written in the Will as a son by his father, but was afterwards heavily scratched through with the intent of voiding the bequest. The codicil of the Will named his son

Wheeler. (Will Book 15, page 193.)

He named another son, Lewis (22).

On March 8, 1781 Richard Thomas Haile (11) furnished 850 pounds of grass beef at 3d. per pound, total £2,6,3 for Continental use. (Order Book 29, page 520.)

By February 3, 1808, Lewis Haile (22) and Richard Haile (19) had died intestate, and their slaves were divided among Zacharia Crittenden (21), Wheeler Haile (20), John Haile (18), and Benjamin Haile (23), the brothers of the deceased and the sister who had married Crittenden. (Will Book 17, pages 332 and 333.)

In 1809 the estate of Mary Haile is settled by Benjamin Haile (23), her son. (Will Book 17, page 130.)

Wheeler Haile married Mary and sold 50½ acres on the southeast side of Latane's Mill between the road to Minor and the south fork of Piscataway. (Deed Book 36, pages 140-42.) Wheeler Haile's land reached north to near Hoskin's Creek. (Deed Book 36, pages 494-495; and Deed Book 35, pages 386-7.)

Benjamin Haile (23) married Katherine, a daughter of John Fergusson (Will Book 12, page 382.) This John Fergusson may have been the son of John Fergusson who married Ann, the only surviving daughter and heir ofStubble stubbleson, deceased in 1684. They had lands on Mount Landing Creek in 1684.

Richard Thomas Haile (11) had land on Piscataway Creek adjoining Thomas Roane's purchase on 1767. (Deed Book 30, 163.)

John Haile (18) Sr., the son of Richard Thomas Haile (11), the son of John Haile (6), the son of John Haile (4), the son of Captain Richard Haile (2). was the grandson of John Haile of 1754 bought 188½ acres of land from Thomas Roane. 100 acres of it was formerly the land of his grandfather, John Haile deceased. Richard Thomas Haile was the son of this John Haile who bought of Roane. (Deed Book 34, page 310.)

the beforementioned deed referred to a place near Dunbrook where a school house had stood. (Deed Book 34, page 310.) 1796. It was doubtless here at this schoolhouse on Roane's land that the Hailes had gone to school for many years prior to the Revolution.

This John Haile (18) placed his son, Richard Thomas Haile apprentice under John Pitt Lee to teach the boy the work of being Clerk of Court. This service indenture was entered into on November 19, 1794, and was to terminate on November 24, 1800, when Richard Thomas Haile was to become 21 years of age. (Deed Book 35, page 137.)

John Haile (18) became under Sheriff of Essex County under William Roane, Sheriff, on January 20, 1777.

Again, at November Court 1778, on the motion of James Edmondson, Sheriff, John Haile (18) was appointed Deputy Sheriff of this County of Essex and took the oath prescribed by law. (Order Book 29, page 383.)

These were trying times when America was beginning to assert her independence. It was Roane, Haile and Edmondson who captured and brought to trial many Tories who were found in this county.

The Will of John Haile (18), Sr., dated March 3, 1809 and recorded September 17, 1810, reads as follows:-

"In the name of God Amen. I John Haile, Senr., of Essex County and State of Virginia, being in my sound and perfect senses, thanks be to God for the same, do think proper to make this my last Will and testament, hereby revoking and disannulling all former Wills by me heretofore made --- Imprimis, I recomment my soul to the supreme being, Trusting that my sins committed here may be forgiven, and my body to the earth to be decently interred at the discretion of my executor hereafter named.

Item - I give and Bequeath to my son Richard Thomas Haile a negro man named Abraham, to him my said son and his heirs forever, the said Abraham having fallen to me by the division of my father's estate.

Item - I give and bequeath to my daughter, Elizabeth Hundley, a negro girl named Maria, to her, my said daughter and her heirs forever, the said girl, Maria, having also fallen to me ny the division of my father's estate.

Item - Should either of my beforesaid children die without heir lawfully begotten of their bodies, then and in that case, I give the two negroes and the increase of the girl Maria to my son John Haile, Jr., and his heirs forever.

Item - I give and bequeath to my son John Haile, Jr., all the property that I die possessed of, except the two negroes before bequeathed, to him my son John and his heirs forever, to include both real and personal.

Lastly I nominate and appoint my son John Haile, Jr., executor to this my last Will and testament in testimony whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name affixed my seal this third day of March 1809.

John Haile, Sr.

Signed, Sealed and acknowledged and delivered by the testator as and for his last will and testament in our presence whose names are placed in his presence and at his request.

Will Book 17, page 210, Essex County, Virginia.

Now on September 15, 1810, only two days before this Will of John Haile was put to record, we find John Haile, Jr., conveys by deed to R. G. Haile one-half equity in any right that John, Jr. may have in the estate left him by the last Will and Testament of John Haile, Sr., his father. This deed was filed at the same time that the Will was filed.

A close examination of John Senior's Will shows that his son, John, Jr., was to heir the rest of the estate. There was some mistake made in writing the Will, and the deed from John, Jr., (26) to R. G. Haile (27), explains the nature of the error - that is that the name of R. G. Haile (27) was not mentioned at all in the body of the will, and had not John, Jr., deeded to R. G. Haile one-half equity in the estate of their father, R. G. Haile could have had the Will upset.

From the old R. G. Haile Bible, we see that he refers to his "Brother John Haile's children" and names them. This establishes the fact that R. G. Haile (27) was brother to John Haile, Jr., (26)

Richard Thomas Haile (24) married Judith Todd Noel, a daughter of James Noel, deceased, in 1805, and heired 400 acres of land from his grandfather, Richard Thomas Haile, deceased, after the death of Mary Haile, his grandmother, who was yet living in 1805. He heired 1100 acres in St. Anne's Parish from James Noel in right of his wife, Judith Todd. (Deed Book 36, page 170. Deed Book 37, pages 12, 273-275, 281.)

On October 4, 1836, the heirs of Richard Thomas Haile and Judith, his wife, were

Elzer Fogg and Eliz T., his wife
Joseph M. Armstrong and Susan A., his wife
Maria D. Haile
James N. Haile
John N. Haile
Robert L. Haile
Bernard H. Haile
Richard T. Haile
Mona D. Haile
John Haile
Robert S. Haile

(Deed Book 44, pages 191-196)

Judith Todd Haile, the wife above mentioned, died April 5, 1859, age 75 years, 10 months and 25 days. (See Essex County Death Register.)

Subject: HAILE

Gene and Jean,

I'm grateful to both of you for humoring me on the matter of HAILE's in upper Tidewater. Whereas I previously had only a passing interest, I now find that I'm becoming a bit intrigued with getting to the bottom of it all. Even though intrigued, I think it's well to re-emphasize that I have no ax to grind; or as former Sen. Howard Baker (R-TN) was fond of saying -- I don't have a dog in this fight.

While it's true that the earliest _deed_ involving a Richard Haile is dated 1674/75 in Old Rapp. Co., a Richard Haile appears on a 1663 statement of accounts -- owing 349 lbs of tobo. -- in adjacent Lancaster Co. -- from which Old Rapp. had been formed (1656). Moreover, a Richard Haile was among the witnesses to the will of a John Cox when it was executed in 1669; it was later probated in Old Rapp. Co. As you noted, a plantation of Richard Haile was cited in a 1672 Old Rapp. Co. deed -- Gouldman to Dyer -- as lying on/near Mill Creek. To the best of my knowledge, only one Richard Haile was anywhere in this part of VA at that time; hence, it seems entirely reasonable to presume that each of these references is to the same Richard Haile who acquired the property in Old Rapp. Co. in 1674/5. As such, we can suggest with some confidence that he was born not later than 1642, and quite likely a few years before that.

Someone named Haile had a son -- "Richard Haile, Jr." -- who was under 10 in 1671 when he was given a heifer by his god-father, Henry Awbrey. As you _quite properly_ point out, Jean, he did not necessarily have to have been the son of an older Richard Haile: All he had to be was younger than another Richard Haile who was resident in the same jurisdiction. We, of course, don't know how much younger than 10 the younger Richard was in 1671; all we can safely say is that he was born not _earlier_ than 1662. Like you, I find that this is the _sole_ reference to a Richard Haile being identified as either a Sr. or a Jr. As you quite correctly point out, Jean, if _either_ of the Richard Hailes died -- OR moved out of the same jurisdiction -- OR began using some other means to differentiate -- then we would not expect to see any more Sr. or Jr. It's also perhaps worth mentioning that, by custom/tradition, the onus was on the younger man to make the differentiation; hence, one often finds, for example, "John Smith and John Smith, Jr." -- with the older of the two apparently feeling no obligation to modify his name . . . after all, he had it first.

The key point here, though, is that for some period of time -- at least in the 1660s and 1670s -- we had two Richard Hailes resident in Old Rapp. Co. The question then becomes twofold: For how long did this go on, and were they related? I think the preponderance of credible evidence supports the notion that the younger Richard Haile was a son of the elder Richard. That leaves us with the rather more difficult first issue. Let's "review the bidding" by looking at references to Richard Haile following those already mentioned, above:

In 1679 the records of Old Rapp. Co. recite a deed whereby a William Akres and wife, Catherine, assigned to a Richard Haile a portion (192 of 592 acres) of a 1665 patent to the said Akres, with the property described as being on the main branch of Piscataway Creek and adjacent to that of a Mr. John Gregory; witnesses were a Charles Shepherd and a John Price. Catherine's dower release was conveyed via a power of attorney to a Thomas Gaines, witnessed by a Thomas Edmondson and a Dorothy Clements. The wording of the deed identified the balance of the tract (400 acres) as having been sold (200 acres each) to a Francis Marriner and a James Fullerton. The mouth of Piscataway Creek is just below present-day Tappahannock, VA, in Essex Co.; from there it stretches eastward some two-thirds of the way across Essex Co.

In 1682 a "Richard Haile of Farnham Parish, Rappahannock" executed a deed of gift to his "son-in-law Richard Taylor" for 1 yearling mare colt; witnesses were a Philip Pendleton and a William Bendery. This potentially is a very, very crucial item. To examine its ramifications fully will require some space and time -- and I think will be better understood after we finish what we're about -- so it seems to me best that we address this matter later on, below.

In 1684 we have the deed from Henry Awbrey to a Richard Haile for 100 acres, evidently taken from a 5,100-acre patent/grant. Although not mentioned in your e-mails, it's perhaps well to understand that this property had been acquired by Henry Awbrey only in 1680 and was described in the patent as lying between Piscataway Creek and Hoskins Creek. In your posting, Gene, it's twice mentioned that this 100 acres was conveyed in connection with "seating" the tract. Now, Jean, you come along and say that "Richard Jr. did not seat the tract of land for Henry Awbrey." OK, which is it?? Bear in mind that "seating" did not necessarily mean owning or even living on the property. "Seating" a tract simply meant complying with the requirement that a percentage of the tract be cleared and cultivated within a specified time following the issuance of the patent -- I believe it was 5 years; failure to do so could be ruled "desertion" and subject the property to being "escheated." _Somebody_ "seated" Mr. Awbrey's land for him; as a long-term Justice and otherwise heavy-hitter in the neighborhood, you can take it to the bank that he would not personally have done the "heavy lifting" necessary to "seat" the tract. It was a quite common practice to offer someone a small portion of the land in return for "seating" it. I also suggested -- I thought quite reasonably -- that it was unlikely that the elder Richard Haile would have done the seating; presumably, he had his own property to tend to. IF indeed _any_ Richard Haile did the clearing and cultivating of the small percentage of the tract necessary to establish Mr. Awbrey's right to keep it -- i.e., "seating" -- it almost certainly would have been the younger Richard Haile. Now, IF that's the case -- and given the absence of a Sr. or Jr. designation in the deed, I would contend that it's a reasonable basis for a suggestion that it MAY have been the _elder_ Richard Haile who had died by this time.

In 1684, also, the records of Old Rapp. Co. recite instances wherein a Richard Haile and a John Haile were selected as jury members. Here, again, of course we have no Sr. or Jr. designation for Richard. I think it's likely that this John Haile was the son of the elder Richard, and would suggest his having been born also in the early 1660s.

As you noted, Jean, in 1685 the records of Old Rapp. Co. recite a deed whereby a Richard Haile and wife, Mary, sold to a Richard Worsdall a "plantation of 100 acres" in Farnham Parish on the south side of Mill Creek and being formerly the property of a Thomas Sadler and known as Jones' mill; witnesses were a Katherine Edmondson and a Thomas Edmondson. In addition to your remarks regarding the trading of properties, Jean, this would seem clearly to have been at least a portion of the land owned by Richard Haile as early as 1672 [see previous deed Gouldman-Dyer]. Mill Creek was/is a tributary of Piscataway Creek, with the juncture occurring some three miles inland from the mouth of the latter.

In 1689 the records of Old Rapp. Co. recite a deed whereby a Richard Haile sold to a John Gatewood 200 acres; witnesses were an Edwin Thacker and a Thomas New. The published abstracts do not offer any description whatsoever of this property. In the previous e-mails it's stated that "Richard Hale sold 200 acres to John Gatewood . . . (This land included the 100 acres Richard Haile received from Henry Awbrey for seating 5100 acres)." I must admit to a little confusion, since elsewhere in the e-mails it's also said that Richard Haile traded away the 100 acres acquired from Henry Awbrey to Thomas Sadler some five years earlier. How does this work???

It's at about this point in time that things begin to get even dicier.

In 1690 and 1691, a Richard Haile appears four times in the Old Rapp. Co. court order books: (1) as a juryman; (2) appointed -- with a Francis Brown, Jr -- to inventory/appraise the estate of a John Bennett; (3) appointed "surveyor of the high ways" vice Thomas Wheeler; and (4) -- in August 1691 -- as the plaintiff in a lawsuit against a Henry Burdett for slander. The two MOST interesting entries in these books at this time, though, were at the session of Sep. 2, 1691. A "Mrs. Haile enters Mr. Dennis McCarty as her attorney." Married ladies only had need of attorneys when they were widowed married ladies, since otherwise they had little/no authority to act in legal matters. So which Mr. Haile had died?? At the same session, the lawsuit of Richard Haile vs. Henry Burdett for slander -- carried over from August -- was dismissed on the basis that Richard Haile failed to appear to prosecute the suit. Coincidence?? Now let me be quick to acknowledge, Jean, that I'm aware that perhaps 10-20% of all cases filed were later dismissed due to the absence of the plaintiff when the case was called. This may be as simple as Richard Haile having been ill, or away, or having lost interest, or having settled out-of-court, or . . . or. You would acknowledge, surely, that it IS an interesting conjunction of incidents.

Now we come to 1693 and a reference to a "Capt. Richard Haile" who -- by his attorney, James Baughn -- filed suit against a William Copeland in Essex Co. -- formed 1692 from Old Rapp. Co. I've no particular wish to flog this horse much more; suffice it to say that IF this were the elder Richard Haile -- recalling that he was born before 1642 -- he would have been the oldest newly appointed militia captain in the colony of Virginia, at age 50 plus!! Moreover, and IF it were the elder Richard Haile, he'd been on close terms with Henry Awbrey -- arguably among the most powerful men in the Upper Tidewater -- since as early as the mid- to late-1660s . . . but yet we're asked to accept that it had taken him 20+ years to wangle a commission as a militia captain?? This is close to failing the "make sense test." On the other hand, Henry Awbrey's confirmed god-son, the younger Richard Haile, would have been just about the right age.

In the same year (1693), the records of Essex Co. recite a deed whereby a John Baughn and wife, Mary, sold to a Joseph Beland 200 acres, with the property described as adjacent to "Awbreys 5000 divident," and to properties of a Capt. Richard Haile and a Mr. Richard Gregory -- and as being part of a joint patent with brother James Baughn; witnesses were a Thomas Hucklescott, a Thomas Parker, Sr., and a Thomas Gouldman. But wait -- here is Capt. Richard Haile's property hard-by the 5,000-acre patent of Henry Awbrey. Wasn't that Richard Haile property long since traded away??

Still in 1693, the records of Essex Co. recite a deed whereby a James Taylor of King & Queen Co. sold to a Capt. Edward Thomas and a Mr. Edmund Pagett, Wardens of South Farnham Parish, 2 acres on the southwest side of Hoskins Creek "on road to Capt. Richard Haile and adjacent to properties of a John Evans and the said Haile; witnesses were a Thomas Edmondson and a Mary Edmondson. Recall that the 450 acres acquired by a Richard Haile from Theophilus Whale/Wale in 1674/5 was on the south side of Hoskins

"pocosin." A "pocosin" is a marshy area, akin to a swamp. "Pocosins" would occur only adjacent to or very near a large body of water, like a bay or a river. The mouth of Hoskins Creek is at the present-day town of Tappahannock; it follows that the Hoskins pocosin would have been very nearby. BTW: James Taylor conveyed the property via a power of attorney to a William North of Essex.

In 1694 the records of Essex Co. recite a court order directing a Capt. Richard Haile, a James Baughn, a Francis Brown, and a Richard Taylor -- any 3 of them -- to inventory/appraise the estate of a Joseph Goodrich, on behalf of a Thomas Parker and Francilia, his wife, Executors of Joseph Goodrich. Note the presence -- now in his majority -- of Richard Taylor who was identified 12 years earlier as a "son-in-law" of a Richard Haile.

In 1694, also, the records of Essex Co. recite a certificate issued to a Capt. Richard Haile for importation of 5 persons.

Finally -- BUT CRITICALLY -- in 1694 the patent records of Virginia (Patent Book 8, page 386) recite the issuance of a patent to a "Capt. Richard Haile" for 720 acres between the Rappahannock and Mataponi Rivers, described as adjacent to _____ Gouldman, _____ Robins, and Major Robert Beverly, dec'd -- including 450 acres originally granted to a Theophilus Whale and a Daniel Swillivant on Sep. 23, 1674, with the additional 270 acres being due for the importation of 6 Negroes. Somewhere along the line, the date of this patent has been erroneously conveyed as 1684; however, the first entry in Patent Book 8 is dated 1689, so obviously the 1694 date is the correct one. The correct date of this patent is CRITICAL for two reasons: (1) It removes any date earlier than 1693, above, for the first appearance in the records of a Capt. Richard Haile; and (2) it is a patent by a "Capt. Richard Haile" of the same 450 acres which was acquired by a Richard Haile 20 years earlier. IF -- IF -- the two Richard Hailes are one and the same man, then it _must_ be the elder Richard, since the younger Richard could not possibly have acquired property in 1674/5. By the same token, though, doesn't it seem the least bit odd that the elder Richard would have waited 20 years to patent the property?? Such a lengthy delay is totally inconsistent with the accepted practice of the time. In fact, it's _so_ totally inconsistent that I believe this documentation adds weight to the notion that these were two different men: That a younger, "Capt. Richard Haile" had come into possession of the property and perceived the need to patent it.

In 1695 the records of Essex Co. recite a deed whereby a James Baughn and wife, Mary, and a John Baughn and wife, Mary, sold to a John Dicks 500 acres on the south side of the Rappahannock River, with the property further described as adjacent to properties of a James Fullerton, a Col. _____ Goodrich, and a Capt. Richard Haile; witnesses were a James Legg and a John Lloyd. Recall that a James Fullerton held property on Piscataway Creek adjacent to that acquired by a Richard Haile in 1679 from William Akres.

As you pointed out, in 1696 the records of Essex Co. recite a deed of gift executed by a Richard Haile to "son John Haile" for 720 acres -- being a patent to Richard Haile in 1684 (sic); witnesses were a Thomas Edmondson, a James Edmondson, and a Mary Edmondson. At the time this deed of gift was filed, the data from the original patent also were recorded for reference. Consequently, we know that this patent incorporated the 450 acres acquired from Theophilus Whale/Wale -- which we know was on Piscataway Creek -- with the balance (270 acres) "due for importation of 6 persons." In the absence of a description of the 270 acres, but given that the two tracts evidently were combined into a single patent, it seems reasonable to suggest that the two were contiguous and, thus, on Piscataway Creek. RECALL that with the corrected date of the patent this deed was made only two years later -- rather than 12 years later.

In 1697 a Capt. Richard Haile made three more appearances in the Essex Co. court order books: (1) he acknowledged the deed to his son, John Haile; (2) he was cited as having a "servant girl Hannah Lambeth; and (3) he was a defendant in a suit by a John Moss and wife, Mary. It _may_ be of some significance that John and Mary Moss appear to have been -- in terms of age -- contemporaries with the younger Richard Haile.

Then, in 1698, we have the dismissal of the 1697 suit by Capt. Richard Haile vs. Dorothy Gouldman, relict of Richard Awbrey. I'm quite aware, Jean, that -- as many historians have noted -- Colonial Virginia may well have been the most litigious society and period, ever . . . anywhere. Even at first glance at any set of court order books -- much less 20+ years worth of glancing -- one can confirm that. I'm also well aware that it was not at all unusual for family members to drag each other into court. Still and all, plaintiffs had to have some cause for action, whether real or imagined, and yes, "we may not always know the reason". . . but there always _was_ a reason. In the overwhelming majority of suits, the reason was either an alleged debt or an alleged property dispute. I was merely attempting to point out that, irrespective of the basis of the suit, it's infinitely more reasonable to think that the younger Richard Haile -- god-son of Henry Awbrey -- would have been much more likely to have had a dispute with the estate of Henry Awbrey's only son. Of course, such an observation is only relevant IF one is prepared to accept the possibility -- remote or otherwise -- that the younger Richard Haile MAY have survived to maturity. In the absence of any comparable _reasoning_ to the contrary, I'll stick with my original observation.

Finally, we have the 1703 Essex deed by John Haile, "son and heir of Capt. Richard Haile" wherein he conveyed 100 acres formerly granted to Richard Haile and lying partly in Essex and partly in King and Queen. I don't know where this 100 acres came from. I _do_ know, however, that if it indeed straddled the Essex-K&Q line, it did NOT come from the 1694 patent to Capt. Richard Haile, since there's ample evidence to demonstrate that the property in that patent was well within the boundaries of Essex. Moreover, as King & Queen existed when the patent was filed in 1694, the patent almost certainly would have indicated that the property straddled the boundary. Perhaps a deed has been missed, somehow -- or perhaps it's property which came into a Richard Haile's possession via a wife -- for there is nothing comparable in the patent records pertaining to any Richard Haile.

* * * * *

Now then, Jean, you've told me that "After the [1671] deed of gift to Richard Hail Jr., there is only one Richard Haile in Old Rappa and Essex Cos. and that is Richard the elder as can be proved by the deeds if you follow them." Very well, I've followed the deeds and then some. With all respect, by any standard of proof with which I'm familiar, the deeds and other data "prove" precious little; indeed, if they "proved" even a little bit more we'd all have very little or nothing to discuss.

Instead, what the data can do are to support at least two somewhat plausible premises:

(1) Yours -- the gist of which I gather is that: A Richard Haile (b.<1642) lived in that part of Old Rapp. Co. which later became Essex, and had at least two sons -- Richard, Jr. (b.1661-1671) and John; that Richard, Jr. died sometime after 1671, but not much afterward; and that John survived to marry Mary _____ and reside in Essex until his death ca.1744.

OR this:

(2) The same Richard Haile had the same two sons -- Richard Haile, Jr. (b.ca.1662-3) and John Haile -- before dying no later than 1693/4.

(a) The younger Richard Haile attained his majority ca.1683 and married a woman named Mary _____, not later than 1685 when she's mentioned in the records, but more likely ca. 1681-2. It's possible that she was a young widow of a _____ Taylor, by whom she had a son, Richard Taylor. Perhaps through his connection to Henry Awbrey, Justice, the younger Richard Haile obtained a commission as a captain in the Essex Co. militia in the early 1690s, or ca. age 30. The younger Richard Haile and wife Mary were the parents of at least one son, John, who must have been born ca. 1682-3, as evidenced by the 1703 deed. Capt. Richard Haile apparently died prior to 1703, as also evidenced by the 1703 deed. It perhaps was this John Haile, son of the younger Richard, who appeared on the 1704 Quit Rent Roll in King & Queen Co.

(b) John Haile, son of the elder Richard, probably also was born as early as the early 1660s. Through the death of his father and brother, he came into possession of various properties in the vicinity of Piscataway and Hoskins Creeks, where he lived out his life. He was married to a Mary _____, born ca. 1678; but given the difference in their ages, this may have been a second marriage for John.

Now then: No one will be ahead of me in the line of folks saying that the latter premise is no more "provable" than the former. Simply put: the incontrovertible data necessary to demonstrate the truth of either of them evidently is not to be had, or at least has not surfaced in any of the e-mails, nor through what I've been able to find. Having said that, though, I would suggest that a preponderance of the credible evidence -- albeit circumstantial -- seems to better "fit" the second scenario than the first. As with all matters like this one, which hinge on circumstantial evidence, my mind remains quite open for any other bit of data which might swing the balance in another direction.

Now for the Taylor connection -- From a very cursory look at the Taylors in that part of the world, I come away with this picture:

A James Taylor -- said to have been the emigrant -- came to VA in the mid-1600s and settled along the Rappahannock River. He's said to have married twice: (1) to a Frances _____ by whom he had a son, James Taylor, Jr., and two other children; and (2) to a Mary Gregory, whom he married in 1682 and by whom he had 7 more children. About 1680, the elder James Taylor acquired considerable properties "in the freshes of the Mataponi River," apparently not far from where the present counties of Caroline, King William, and King & Queen converge -- although at the time (1680) the area was within the bounds of New Kent Co. This elder James Taylor is said to have died April 30, 1698. His children were:

-- James Taylor who m. a Martha Thompson.
-- _____ Taylor
-- _____ Taylor
-- Anne Taylor
-- Elizabeth Taylor
-- Edmund Taylor
-- Mary Taylor (b.ca. 1688) who m. a Phillip Pendleton
-- _____ Taylor
-- _____ Taylor
-- John Taylor (1696-1780) who m. a Catherine Pendleton

It was this elder James Taylor (?? - 1698) whose death was a key issue in the 1745 chancery suit which occurred in Caroline Co. From that suit, it's established that among the above unnamed children of the elder James Taylor was a daughter named Sarah Taylor who married a Robert Powell. Robert and Sarah (Taylor) Powell were the parents of at least three sons: John, Robert, Jr., and James Powell. According to the chancery suit, two of the sons, John and Robert, Jr., died at almost the same time as their maternal grandfather, the elder James Taylor. The issue, in fact, hinged on who died first -- him or them.

Among those giving depositions in the matter were:

-- A Mary Haile of Essex Co., age about 67, who most agree was the recent widow of John Haile of Essex.

-- A Mary Thomas of Caroline Co., age 80, who stated that she had once been the widow of the elder James Taylor. That would make her nee Mary Gregory, the second wife of James Taylor. Most accounts state that Mary was the daughter of a John Gregory and wife, Elizabeth, of Old Rapp. Co., and a sister of: Richard Gregory, later Justice in King & Queen Co.; and Elizabeth Gregory who m. a Thomas Edmondson. Recall that the Piscataway Creek property which Richard Haile acquired in 1679 from William Akres was adjacent to that of "Mr. John Gregory," almost certainly the father of this Mary (Gregory) Taylor. Recall, also, that a 1693 deed -- cited above, Baughn to Beland -- cited the property of "Capt. Richard Haile" as adjacent to that of both "Awbreys 5000 divident" and a "Mr. Richard Gregory." I gather that it's the daughter of this Richard Gregory, Sarah, who married into the Meador family.

With all this in mind, now look again at the 1693 Essex deed cited above and here for convenience:

James Taylor of King & Queen Co. sold to a Capt. Edward Thomas and a Mr. Edmund Pagett, Wardens of South Farnham Parish, 2 acres on the southwest side of Hoskins Creek "on road to Capt. Richard Haile and adjacent to properties of a John Evans and the said Haile; witnesses were a Thomas Edmondson and a Mary Edmondson.

I would suggest that it's odds-on that this James Taylor and the one discussed just above, who died five years later, are one and the same. I've found no indication of any other Taylors in the immediate vicinity. Yet, we have a 1682 deed by a Richard Haile conveying a yearling colt to his "son-in-law," Richard Taylor. The most likely premise is that one of the sons of the elder James Taylor married a Mary _____ and died before ca.1680; thereafter, Mary m. (2) Richard Haile and brought with her a young son, Richard Taylor. From a timing standpoint, this must have been one of the two unnamed children of the elder James Taylor by his first wife, Frances _____, since it was at about this same time that the elder James Taylor married (2) Mary Gregory. These earlier Taylor children are thought to have been born in the late 1650s/early 1660s; presumably, so too was Mary ____ who appears to have married one of them. While I'm aware that "May-December" marriages were not at all unusual in those days, I nevertheless would point out that Mary (_____) Taylor was a contemporary of the younger Richard Haile, rather than the elder Richard -- who was literally old enough to be her father.

The nature of the gift also argues for the notion that Mary was young and her son, Richard Taylor, perhaps no more than ca. 5 years old. As we saw in the case of the 1671 gift by Henry Awbrey to the younger Richard Haile, gifts of young stock were traditionally reserved for young children -- sometimes as young as Christening age. Such gifts also were commonly made to young step-children at the time of a parent's remarriage, as a gesture symbolic of and tantamount to adoption. That seems to have been the case with the Richard Haile to Richard Taylor gift.

I'm worn out . . . for now. If you find any merit at all in this and would like to carry on the dialogue, I'd be pleased. At the same time, I'd certainly understand if you did not.

Thanks again for the chance to have my say.

First of all, I have the information you cited concerning the 1663 state ment of accounts. I am not totally convinced that he was the only Richar d in and around the area. There was a Richard Hayles who came to Virgini a in 1622 on the Elianor with William Elberry. I do not know if this is the Richard Hayles who shows up in records about the same time period, i f the Elberry is a version of Awbrey. Or if this Richard had a son Richa rd. According to the Awbrey family histories, Henry came into the coloni es and was not born here. What I do know, is that Henry's brother, John and his family resided in Westmoreland. (And there is a Richard Hayle sh owing up in records in Westmoreland. Although my records are very few fo r Westmoreland I would reserve that judgment. It is also possible that t his is the Richard Haile of Essex although I don't know.

Secondly, I am also aware of the will you mentioned--John Cox. I am not sure this is our Richard either.
There are no apparent connections with any of the people mentioned in th at will. There could be a connection with the surname of Cox which has y et to be determined. There were two lines with the surname White. To dat e, I can make no connection between them. There were also two lines with the surname of Moss (which could be the Henry Mees). There is also no apparent connection between the two lines. The only other surname that c ould possibly connect them in some way, is the surname of Moseley; and I'm not even too sure about that at this point. If it does, it will not be a direct connection. I am in the middle of working on it. The mark wh ich Richard Hales used in witnessing this will is remarkably different f rom the marks on other documents.

I am also aware of the statement of accounts in Lancaster Co. for 349 lb s of tobo. (1663) A few years ago, I found a record in Duval's VA Coloni al Abstracts. In it, he mentioned a Richard Haile - it was referring to a court record with an indentured servant, Elinor Brown. I contacted the Mary Ball Washington Museum and they could find no records of a Richard Haile in Lancaster Co. A distant relative went to the VSL and looked at the document; both she and the librarian determined that it was definit ely not "Richard" so you will have to forgive me if I don't put a lot of credence in that record without seeing the document itself.

If you want to play devil's advocate, take this into consideration. In 1 737, Essex Co., we find the will of Jonathan Haile. He shows up quite a bit in the court records and I am fairly certain that he is related to J ohn who died in 1744. Since his will mentions grandchildren, it is fairl y safe to assume that he is pretty much of the same generation as John b ut there is no evidence as to how he actually fits. We know that he is N OT John's brother because we have a deed which says John was the only so n of Richard. So, maybe you can find his lineage. (It could tie into the the other Haile line but he is not that John's son either).

I am aware of the son-in-law business. I have looked and continue to loo k for an answer to that. I agree that he could have been a step-son (I have approached it both ways) but I disagree with you that Richard Taylo r is connected with the James Taylor line--at least not in an obvious wa y (there are some roundabout Gregory connections) because that was my f irst thought as well. Neither is Mary a Powell or a Taylor as far as I h ave been able to tell. I have spent a lot of time searching this informa tion and you are not going to find it by looking in records for two days

. You are also not going to find it by looking Hailes/Hail/Hale/Hayle up in an index and you are not going to get anywhere without actively rese arching allied lines. There is also another possibility--Richard Tyler.
The name "Taylor" and "Tyler" are used interchangeably; later deeds pred ominately show "Tyler". There are connections with this line into the Ga tewoods and Boughns who are tied in with the John Hail line (d 1744). Lo oks to me like b oth of us have about the same amount of proof--absolutely none. That's w hy I have reserved judgement on this issue until I can find something mo re tangible.

In the matter of Mrs. Haile mentioned in the 1691 court orders is somet hing else again. Had you looked more thoroughly, you would have found th at there were two John Hailes. During the 1680s you can safely assume th at it was the one who was not the son of Richard. In the early 1690s it is difficult to distinguish between the two Johns and impossible to tell which one was on a jury, therefore, I have opted to only include inform ation which I am sure is for the correct John (or Richard as the case ma y be). This John had one surviving heir which was his daughter Ann--she married Thomas Cox. Cox-again. March 12, 1715/16 Essex Co. deed in which "Thomas Cox and Ann his wife the only surviving daughter and heiress of John Haile deceased of Farnham Parish in the County of Essex in Virgini a planter sell to "Samuel Clayton of St. Stephens parish ini the County of King and Queen in Virginia", for L60, 100 acres in Farnham Par. (Rec . Mar 20 1715/16).

Jan 10, 1698/9 there is an entry in the court orders "Upon the peticon o f Ann Haile, Admcon. is granted her on ye Estate of her former husband, Jno Clarke deced, giveing security according to Law." There was a John C larke who died before Mar 6, 1688 in Old Rappahannock. However this Ann was not named as admx. of John Clarke's will until 1698/9. Meanwhile, we also have Jonathan hanging around and he was married. And he had a gran ddaughter named either Ann or Amy-it could be either, it's difficult to read.
At any rate, my point is that when you find a record that says "Mrs. Hai le" you don't automatically assume that it was the wife of Capt. Richard or anyone else(and as long as I have been working on my Hail line, I ha ve not seen a McCarty connection in any way--on deeds, through marriages
---in any way). That is not to say there isn't, but I've never seen one.

You say, "Married ladies only had need of attorneys when they were widow ed married ladies, since otherwise they had little/no authority to act i n legal matters." I swear, the colonials were less chauvinistic than you are. You need to go back into your records and do some browsing. Accord ing to law, the wife had to release her dower rights when her her husban d sold property.You will find Power of Attorneys all over the place in t hese instances and guess what? Sometimes women even appeared in court! A nd guess what else! Sometimes they were even named sole executors of the ir husbands estates! You are making an assumption that a Mr. Haile had t o have died for her to appear; usually the court records mention that if it's for the admin of an estate; the particular record gives no informa tion whatsoever as to the reason he was named her attorney. Not only tha t, had she been the executor of a will, it would have been necessary for someone to post surity for her.

I also don't know if you are aware of this but in colonial times the eld ers were respected for their knowledge and were placed in positions of a uthority. The knowledge that they gained throughout their lives was resp ected (unlike today). I don't believe colonials played political games t o the hilt as we do today so your statement about Richard's connections don't hold water for me.

The following is copied from the microfilm at VSL which should be obviou s since I can't read all the words.

July 10, 1703 "To all Exparience popell to whom these presents shall co m I John Haille of the County of Essex, son and hare of Capt. Richard Ha ille deceased send greeting-Know ye that I the sd John Haille for divers good causes & vallubles considerations thereunto moving and especially for and in consideration of two thousand pounds of tobo: now in hand the ____ whereof I do hereby aknowledge and every part and parcell thereof do acknoledg my selfe fully satisfied contented and paid have bargained sold ____ ____ and confirmed and do by these presents bargin sell ____ assure and conf irm unto John Loving of the sd County one hundred acres of land liing an d being in King & Queen County it being part of a greater _____ granted to my father Capt. Richard Haill by patent lying part in King & Queen C ounty and parts in the abovesd County of Essex and beginning at a marked whight oak....." This is from the microfilmed copy from the VSL. I didn't feel like typing the land description in but thought this would b e enough. It is my opinion that John had a better idea of where his fath er's land was than we do - almost 300 years later.

First of all, in my information which I sent to Gene, I did not state th at it was fact that Richard Jr. was the son of Capt. Richard Haile but appeared that he might have been.

I do not believe that Richard Jr. seated the 5,100 acres for Henry Awbre y. I believe it was the elder Richard. Have you never heard of indenture d servants? I do know at one point he had a female indentured servant so as long as we are assuming things, why not assume he had some males as well? Since we were not there, however, we cannot determine in what mann er the land was seated..

The original patent for the 5100 acres was granted Oct 4, 1675. The 1680 patent was a consolidation of part, if not all the land previously gra nted to him. (Reference to your statement: "this property had been acqui red by Henry Awbrey only in 1680". According to Cavaliers and Pioneers:

"Virginians were prompt to acquire land that previously had been patente d, and the records show that much lapsed and escheat land was patented a gain. After patenting and surveying a tract of land a patentee was requi red to settle the land within three years of the date of the patent and to pay the annual rent of one shilling for every fifty acres. The title to lapsed land, as land was called that had not been settled within thre e years, returned to the crown, and could be claimed by the first person to petition the General Court"
It also states, refering to the abuses of land pattents, "These abuses d id not concern the crown immediately, for as long as land was being pate nted-regardless of who came to own it or whether it was settled and impr oved- the king could expect revenue from the rents, whereas land that wa s not patented paid him nothing." which probably explains why the 5100 acres wasn't seated until 1684 and nothing appeared to have been done. I also see no definition of seating. Can you provide the documented legal description of seating at that time?

If, based on your calculations, Richard Jr. was born in 1662, then I fin d it highly unlikely that he would father a son at the age of 13 or 14. I based John's birthdate on Mary's deposition and the fact that the De ed of Gift from Capt. Richard bears a date of 1696 which would make him 20, if he were born in 1676. As I said, it's extremely difficult to dist inguish between the two John's but there were two of them. It would be nice to have copies of Hennings Statutes to check out what the legal age was in 1696 but unless you have it, I guess we are out of luck. As far as your theory is concerned, about Richard Jr. being the father of John, I have as difficult time accepting it as you have accepting mine.

It was also commonplace for alternatives to be stated in a deed of gift should the recepient die (as in the deed of gift from Henry Awbrey) par ticularly when the recepient was a child. This was not so in the case of Richard Taylor. Since property, be it land, stock, or even personal pos sessions were valuable, I find it a little strange that provisions would not be made in the event of the child's death. Even more common than Ma y-December marriages was a male taking a much younger wife; which would extend the child-bearing years; ie, James Taylor.

While we're at it, there is a birth record in Barbados for a Richard Hay le 1635 or so and his mother is named as Mrs. Hayle. Why don't we just g rab that date as the elder Richard's birthdate? That makes about as much sense as the rest of the assumptions that have been made. And there is about as much proof too.

Let me also state at this point that I do not use Fleet's abstracts or D orman's unless absolutely necessary. What I do use is Sparacio's books; the information is published in its complete form. If I have a question, something looks strange, or it's important, I get the original. I have copies from the microfilm at the VSL of the deeds for Richard and John but I am not going to sit here and type the deeds in for e-mailing in th eir entirety. If anyone is interested, I have given them the dates and t hey can order them or order the microfilm. Lord, I'd never get any resea rch done.

The copy of the original grant to Capt. Richard is included with the dee d of gift to John. I will type that in for you. I also have the original .

To All &c. Whereas &c. Now know yee that I the said Sr. Edmond Andros, K nt., Governour &c. do with the advice and consent of the Councill of Sta te accordingly give and grant unto Capt. Richard Haile of the County of Essex Seven hundred and twenty acres of Land lyeing in ye Forrest betwee n Rappae: and Mettapony Rivers bounded (vist.) Begining att a corner wh ite Oake & running thence North North West to a Stake by a red Oake by a Ferney Branch, thence along a line of Robins Land East North East to a white Oake and red Oake, thence North North West to a Stake by a red Oak e by a Ferney Branch, thence North West to the land of Major Robert Beve rly deced, to two corner Oakes by an Indian Path, thence with that Land South to three coraner Oakes, thence South West to a red Oake, thence So uth West by an old line to a Branch to a corner white Oake, thence South East to four Oakes by a Branch and thence by the said Gouldman's line E ast by North to ye place it began; Four hundred and fifty acres of Land, part thereof gr anted unto Theophilus Whale and Daniel Swellivant by Pattent dated ye 23 d day of September 1674 and the residue being overplush Land within ye a ntient bounds of ye said Pattent and due unto him ye said Capt. Richd. H aile by and for ye importation of Six persons into this Collony, all who se names are to be in ye Records, mentioned under this Pattent; to have & to hold &c., to be held &c, yeilding & paying &c., Provided &c., Given under my hand and seale of ye Collony this Twenty sixth day ofOctober i n ye sixth yeare of ye Reigne of our Soveraign Lord and Lady, William an d Mary, by ye Grace of God &c., 1694.

If you will note-both the deed and patent refer to Capt. Richard. There are several deeds which refer to John (d 1744, Essex Co.) as being his s on. If you follow the deeds all the way through John and Mary's children , you will see what I mean. He was definitely Capt. Richard's son. I ne ither have the time nor the inclination to provide them to you. Therefor e, my conclusion is and will remain that John who married Mary was NOT t he son of Richard Jr. As mentioned before, there just wasn't enough time between their births for Jr. to have sired a child.

We have based Richard Jr's. age on the worst possible scenario; that he was near ten years of age, nine at the most. Maybe he was even actually five or six. In addition, we have the old style date so that the deed wa s dated 1671/2 so in this senario, his birthdate could have been 4-5 yea rs later than has been estimated and the elder Richard's could have been c 1645-1647. If that were the case, he would have been about 39 years o ld when the seating of Henry Awbrey's 5100 acres took place.

I work full time so I don't have time to go into all the deeds. I have a lready done that for my own benefit so I feel that we are at an impasse.

I am not going to change my opinion and you aren't going to change your s. What I really think is that you like to debate.

Hello to all you many "children" of Francis and Adara!

Thanks for all the messages! My goodness, don't we abound? I decided to go ahead and post my line on the List in the interest of time.

I'm descended from Francis' and Adara's daughter, Mary Haile, who married Gwin/Gwyn Dudley. Gwyn Dudley appears in Franklin county records at the time of its formation from Bedford county in 1786, and the two stone chimneys of his home are still standing on a hill overlooking the Blackwater River in Franklin county, with his initials and the date inscribed in the top of one of them. Mary died and Gwyn married second, Mary Pasley. They all lived in Franklin county, Virginia, down to my own mother who was born in that county, as well. Francis and Adara show up in Bedford county records prior to the separation of Franklin but I often wonder if they did not live on the southside of the Staunton (Roanoke) River, as well.

Gwyn and Mary Haile Dudley had a daughter whom they named Adara. It is sometimes spelled Adria, Adra, Adrey, Adrian, in various records. Until I located Francis and Adara, I never knew what the correct spelling really was. Adara Dudley married 1st, William English, and 2nd, William Kemp. The descent from there is as follows:

William and Adara Dudley English, m. ca. 1793
Lucy English and Charles H. English m. 23 Feb., 1833
George William English and Nancy Jane Dillon m. 07 Nov., 1866
Fanny Louisa English and John William Peggans m. 18 Jan., 1904
Edna Wilmeth Peggans and Otis Christopher Dyal m. 29 Feb., 1936
Linda Jo Ann Dyal Johns, born 1951, Fort Lauderdale, Florida

So, there it is. One more child of Francis and Adara on the loose.

I've found practically nothing on Francis and Adara in Bedford or Franklin county records other than Francis' will...any ideas on where they lived or their lives there? The problem is there are reportedly several different lines of Hales in that county. As I said, Mary and Gwyn lived on the southside of the Blackwater River near Kemps Ford and above Hales Ford. My line lived at Gwyn Dudley's old homeplace for several generations. It passed to several of the descendants in my line.

Thanks again for your messages! I'd love to hear more on Francis and Adara.

Hi, Melanie!

I would love to somehow get all the descendants of Francis and Adara sorted out and accounted for...I've had so many messages from different lines since I did that post that I am still shocked at how many of us are out there and online. No, I don't know Ms. Worthington but if she is a descendant of Gwyn I would like to know about her line. Is she a descendant of his first wife, Mary Haile, or the second one, Mary Pasley? I'm also in the DAR, but not on Gwyn's service. I should do a supplemental on him but have never gotten around to it. Shame on me. Is Ms. Worthington online? I'd love to "talk" to her and hear all about her descent and any other information she may have on him.

I'm in Lake City, Florida, the Edward Rutledge Chapter, DAR.

Thank you so much for writing!

HAILE, HAIL, HALE

THE NAME HAILE APPEARS AS EARLY AS THE 13TH CENTURY IN ENGLAND. THE SPELLING HAS TAKEN MANY VARIATIONS SUCH AS HAYLE, HAIL, HALE, HAILE, HEALD, AND HALES. THE FIRST RECORDED RECORD OF OUR PRESENT DAY HALE FAMILY IN THE UNITED STATES IS FOUND IN VIRGINIA.

CAPTAIN RICHARD HAILE WAS ACTIVE IN VIRGINA AROUND THE 1670'S. HIS WIFE'S NAME WAS MARY AND THEY HAD A SON IN 1680 NAMED JOHN. THEY POSSIBLY HAD A SON NAMED RICHARD WHO MAY HAVE DIED BEFORE ADULTHOOD, POSSIBLY A DAUGHTER WHICH MARRIED RICHARD TAYLOR, POSSIBLY A SON NAMED JONATHAN WHO WAS A BLACKSMITH AND DIED BEFORE 1735. CAPTAIN RICHARD PURCHASED 720 ACRES OF LAND IN 1694 IN WHAT IS NOW ESSEX COUNTY, VIRGINIA. HE MOST LIKELY WAS A MILITIA OFFICER; THE PROTEGE OF HENRY AUBREY WHO MADE HIM A LAUDED GENTLEMAN. HENRY AUBREY WAS A BURGESS FROM ESSEX COUNTY AND WAS THE GODFATHER TO RICHARD JR. THEY BUILT ADAM SPRING WHICH IS A PLANTATION THAT IS STILL STANDING TODAY. JOHN WAS THE ONLY ONE CALLED OUT IN THE WILL WHEN RICHARD DIED.

JOHN HAILE, SR. WAS BORN IN 1680 AND OWNED LAND IN ESSEX COUNTY VIRGINIA IN 1702. ESSEX COUNTY WAS FORMED FROM RAPPAHONNOCK COUNTY IN 1691. JOHN HAILE DIED IN 1744. HIS WILL WAS PROBATED IN ESSEX COUNTY VIRGINIA ON OCTOBER 16, 1744 AND IT MENTIONS HIS WIFE BUT NOT BY NAME. HER NAME WAS MARY - POSSIBLY FULLERTON BORN IN 1678. THE WILL ALSO MENTIONS HIS "SIX CHILDREN NOW LIVING". THEY WERE AS FOLLOWS: FRANCIS, JOHN, THOMAS, BENJAMIN, MARY HAILE EDMONSON, AND SUSAN HAILE ALLEN.

FRANCIS HAILE WAS BORN IN 1718 AND DIED IN BEDFORD COUNTY, VIRGINIA AND HIS WILL WAS PROBATED THERE IN 1780. HIS WIFE WAS NAMED ADARA (POSSIBLY MEADOR) AND THEY HAD EIGHT CHILDREN. THEY ARE AS FOLLOWS: RICHARD, STEPHEN BORN ABOUT 1745, LEWIS, ELIZABETH, MARY, RUTH, USHELY, AND MOURNING.

STEPHEN HAILE, SR WAS BORN ABOUT 1745 AND MARRIED NANCY ARTHUR. NANCY DIED PRIOR TO 1806 IN VIRGINIA. STEVEN MOVED WITH HIS CHILDREN FROM BEDFORD COUNTY, VIRGINIA TO PULASKI COUNTY, KENTUCKY ABOUT 1806. HE MOVED WITH TEN CHILDREN. THEY ARE AS FOLLOWS: THOMAS, LABOURN, JOHN, JAMES, SUSANNAH, SARAH, ANNA, WILLIAM, STEPHEN JR, AND BENJAMIN. STEVEN DIED 1815 IN PULASKI COUNTY, KENTUCKY. HIS LAST WILL WAS RECORDED IN PULASKI COUNTY APPOINTS HIS SONS THOMAS, LABOURN, AND JOHN AS EXECUTORS. INVENTORY AND APPRAISEMENT AS FILED MARCH 7, 1815. THE INVENTORY INCLUDED SEVEN SLAVES.

WILLIAM HAILE WAS BORN ABOUT 1775 IN BEDFORD COUNTY, VIRGINIA. HE MARRIED SUSANNAH MAXEY ON OCTOBER 24, 1796. THEY HAD AT LEAST TWO SONS, CHRISTOPHER; BORN MARCH 8, 1796 AND WILLIAM, BORN 1804. HE DIED FIVE YEARS BEFORE WILLIAM JR WAS MARRIED. WILLIAM JR WOULD HAVE BEEN ABOUT SEVENTEEN. CHRISTOPHER WAS THE OLDEST SON. HE AND HIS MOTHER WERE THE ADMINISTRATORS TO WILLIAM'S ESTATE WHEN HE DIED ON APRIL 20,1821. CHRISTOPHER HAD FIVE CHILDREN AND MANY GRAND CHILDREN. SEVERAL OF THE GRAND CHILDREN MOVED TO PUTNAM COUNTY, INDIANA.

WILLIAM HAILE WAS BORN IN 1804. HE MARRIED MARY AKER ON APRIL 7, 1826 IN KENTUCKY. THEY MOVED TO MORGAN COUNTY INDIANA BEFORE 1860 AND THEN ON TO PUTNAM COUNTY INDIANA.THEY FINALLY SETTLED IN THE TOWN OF FINCASTLE WHERE HE WAS A FARMER. MARY WAS BORN IN KENTUCKY AND WAS THE DAUGHTER OF JOANNES AND SUSSANNA DRESSLAR AKER ORIGINALLY FROM PENNSYLVANIA. WILLIAM AND MARY HAD NINE CHILDREN: ELIZABETH□BORN 1827, JOHN H BORN 1830, JEFFERSON BORN 1834, MARGARET BORN 1836, STEPHEN BORN 1838, JANE BORN 1842, WILLIAM SCHUYLER BORN 1845, SUSANNAH BORN 1846, JOSEPH BORN 1848. SUSANNAH MARRIED A MAN NAMED WILLIAM SADLER AND HAD EIGHT CHILDREN. WILLIAM HAIL WAS 76 AND LIVING WITH THEM IN PUTNAM COUNTY INDIANA DURING THE 1880 CENSUS. JOHN H MARRIED JURETTA BURTON AND HAD SEVEN CHILDREN. THEY POSSIBLY STAYED IN KENTUCKY.

WILLIAM SCHUYLER HAIL WAS BORN IN KENTUCKY OCTOBER 13, 1845. HE WAS A VETERAN OF THE CIVIL WAR AND WAS ENLISTED IN KENTUCKY IN THE 29TH INFANTRY. THE 29TH INFANTRY DID NOT MUSTER INTO SERVICE, SO ALL OF THE RECRUITS WERE DISPERSED TO OTHER UNITS. WM SCHUYLER WAS MUSTERED INTO THE 2ND KENTUCKY CAVALRY. HE LATER RE-ENLISTED IN THE 2ND KENTUCKY VETERAN VOLUNTEER CAVALRY. THIS UNIT WAS INVOLVED IN THE BATTLES OF SHILOH, PERRYVILLE, STONE RIVER, CHICKAMAUGA, LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, AND ALL OF THE BATTLES OF THE ATLANA CAMPAIGN. BY THE MILITARY RECORDS HE WAS FIVE FEET NINE INCHES TALL AND□HAD GREY EYES AND LIGHT HAIR. HE LEFT THE MILITARY IN 1869 AND MARRIED SUSAN OLIVER ON DECEMBER 25, 1871. SUSAN WAS BORN MAY 19, 1852 IN INDIANA. HER PARENTS WERE BOTH BORN IN NORTH CAROLINA AND MIGRATED TO PUTNAM COUNTY. A CHANGE IN THE SPELLING OF HAIL TO HALE OCCURRED IN PUTNAM COUNTY. THE FAMILY RUMOR IS THAT THERE WAS A DISAGREEMENT BETWEEN THE FAMILY DURING THE CIVIL WAR. THE FAMILY IN THE NORTH CHANGED THE SPELLING OF THE LAST NAME TO THE PRESENT HALE. THE FAMILY, WHICH STAYED IN THE SOUTH RETAINED THE HAIL SPELLING. THERE WERE SEVERAL RELATED HALE FAMILIES IN PUTNAM COUNTY WHEN THE HAILS MOVED THERE. BRIEF LIFE SKETCHES

COX AND HAIL FAMILIES

BY

HENRY JEFFERSON COX; DECEMBER 1, 1940

In the following pages, I shall attempt to outline, to the best of my knowledge and belief, short sketches only, of my relatives, both ancestors and descendants, reaching several generations.

THE COX FAMILY:

My grandfather, William Cox, and grandmother, whose maiden name was Maria Claire, were living in Pulaski County, Kentucky, near Somersat at date of my birth, 1860. However, it is thought both were born in Virginia.

They continued to live there until the year 1873, at which time, after their children were all married and scattered, and they, themselves, being considerably aged, moved to Southwest Missouri, to be near their eldest son, Marcellus; who at that time was located there on a farm, two miles southwest of Marionville, Lawrence County.

They had reared a large family; Marcellus, William Perry (My father), Ballard, Jake, Sciatha, Winford, Brent, Frank, and James.

Grandfather had been a farmer, and a schoolteacher in Kentucky; but at that time had retired.

Their remaining years were spent in a small cottage almost at the door of their son; they were well cared for to the close of life; both, aged more than three score and ten years. Grandmother died July 2, 1880, aged 72; and grandfather in 1883, aged 84. Both were interred in the Grammer Cemetery near Marionville. During their later years, our family was located on a farm nearby.

Grandmother's brother, Daniel Claire, and family, Aunt Maria, and son, Frank, lived only a short distance from them.

Grandfather Cox, at that time, had two brothers; Jake and Squire, living in Indiana.

THE HAIL FAMILY:

Stephen Hail, Jr., who was my mother's grandfather, moved from Virginia to Kentucky in 1806, and in the latter state, according to the court records, he owned, at one time, 1200 acres of land (probably Government grants for services during the Revolutionary War.)

My grandfather, Christopher Hail (son of Stephen Hail, Jr.) was born in 1802. He and grandmother, whose maiden name was Nellie Neale, were living near Somerset, Kentucky, when our family left the states, in 1863.

I never saw either of them thereafter, and I remember very little as to their personal appearance.

My age, at that time, was only three and one half years. Yet I can still vision their old home, and especially the two story house; and the nearby family spring, and the brook that flowed from it; in which I so often played.

Mother visited them several times, and kept in close touch with them by letter after we moved to Missouri.

Grandfather Hail had two brothers: Bill and Russell, also one sister, Cynthia; for whom my mother was named.

Grandfather Hail and Grandmother reared a large family: William Wade, Christopher, Susannah, Cynthia (my mother), Amanda, and Hannah.

I now have a letter, of date October 17, 1879, written by grandfather Hail to my mother and his son-in-law, Marcellus, while we were all living in Southwest Missouri; in which he closed with the following:

> "Farewell to you, all,--children and grandchildren. This is my last letter ever to write."

Only a few months thereafter, he passed away, aged 77. Grandmother had died a few years before. Both were interred in cemetery out four miles north of Somerset.

TWO COX BROTHERS AND TWO HAIL SISTERS

My father, William Perry Cox, married Cynthia Ann Hail, and his oldest brother, Marcellus Cox, married Susannah Hail; all of whom were residents of Pulaski County, Kentucky. Both families continued to live in Kentucky till the fall of 1863, at which time, there were five children in each family. Those of our family: James Franklin aged 10, Christopher Marion, 8, Mary Margaret, 6, Henry Jefferson, 3½, and Daniel Winford, 1. In Uncle Marcellus' family, were the following: Ella, aged 12, Doc iam), 10, Amanda, 8, Lucy, 6, and Thirza, 3½. Their mother had died three years

My father and Uncle were both farmers, and hoping to find better farming co moved together from their native state in two horse, covered wagons, a distance of several hundred miles; and time spent on the road, approximately, six weeks.

The two wagons were pretty well loaded with ten youngsters. We passed over three states and three large rivers before reaching our goal, or destination; which was St. Charles County, in East Missouri, eighteen miles north of St. Louis, and two miles west of the Mississippi River.

River-bottom land there at that time was priced at one hundred dollars per acre; too high for the farmer or ordinary means to purchase. Both families rented farming land.

My Uncle, after a three year stay, moved from there to the "Lone Star" state, for a short sojourn of eighteen months; after which he returned to Southwest Missouri, Lawrence County, two miles southwest of Marionville; and not long thereafter, purchased a 40-acre farm, at which he lived till all his children were married and had homes of their own. Late in life, while on a visit to see his eldest daughter, Ella Cox Hazelton and family; then living near Turon, Kansas, he passed away; after, only a few days illness, year 1908, aged 88, and was interred in Neola Cemetery (Kansas).

My father thought it best to remain in East Missouri in St. Charles County and had rented a 400-acre farm home on which there was a 50-acre orchard, also a large residence (three story), and a sufficient number of rooms to accommodate three or four families. During our last four years there, my father put in a large acreage to crops; corn, hay and broom-corn; and kept five or six hired helpers all the time. He also dealt heavily in live stock; mules, cattle and hogs. However, the Mississippi River bottoms soon proved to be very unhealthy. In the fall in 1866, I suffered a long, serious siege of typhoid fever; the after effects of which left me a life-long cripple. In 1867, my oldest brother, James Franklin, aged 13 years and 10 months, died, following a few weeks sickness of typhoid.

Then, only three years thereafter, in August, 1870, my father, aged 42 years and 10 months, was stricken with fever, and he too, within a few weeks, passed away. Father and son were both interred in St. Charles Cemetery.

Late in December, 1870, following the death of father, my mother with six children moved to Southwest Missouri; and purchased a farm home of 80 acres of land, two miles west of Marionville, in Lawrence County; and only one mile north of the home of Uncle Marcellus.

Two of the six children in our family at that time: William Perry Jr. and Ella Maria, were born in East Missouri; the former, January 5, 1865 and the latter, July 16, 1868.

Brother Kit (Christopher Marion), the oldest of the children then living soon became our farm manager; and with the help of three younger brothers: Jeff, Dan and Will, was very successful as a farmer for a number of years.

After 1877, for a period of six or seven years, brother Dan and brother Will were at home with Mother, and were in charge of the farm. After August 1, 1879, I was never at home any more, except temporarily.

Brother Kit had married, 1878, and was living several miles away. Finally, mother sold her farm, bought a house and lot at Marionville, and lived there for several years. However, she spent her last few years on a farm four miles west of Marionville, with brother Dan and wife, Alice; where she passed away, after a short illness, 1913, aged 78, and was interred in Marionville Cemetery. She had just returned home following a few months visit with me and family, at Dyer, Tennessee.

THE CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN

OF

WILLIAM PERRY AND CYNTHIA HAIL COX

JAMES FRANKLIN:

He was the eldest of seven children, born 1853, in Kentucky, and died in East Missouri, 1867, aged 13 years and 10 months.

CHRISTOPHER MARION AND FAMILY:

Kit, the second eldest of the family, was born in Kentucky, Sept. 30, 1855, and was only 15 years of age when our father died. However, he remained at home and worked on the farm in Southwest Missouri until he was past 21 years of age. At about 23, he married Miss Mattie Taylor, who had been his school-mate and class-mate, for four or five years, in our home district school -- Elm Branch and Fairview.

Shortly after his marriage, they purchased a farm home of 80 acres on Honey Crook; four or five miles northwest of our home, to which he and Mattie moved at once. They lived there continuously for the next twenty or twenty-five years; they worked hard, and made good on the farm. They reared a family of five children: Cyrus, Bertina, Eula, Luther and Estelle.

After these children were all grown, Kit and Mattie sold the farm to their eldest son, Cyrus. They then moved to Southwest Kansas, and purchased a 320-acre tract of land, near Liberal; on which they lived several years; then sold a part of it, and bought town property, and lived at same a few years, until their death.

Brother Kit passed away 1923, during the last year I was teaching at Gainesboro, Tenn. He was suddenly and fatally stricken with heart trouble, aged 67.

His wife, Mattie, four or five years younger, passed away within the next few years.

They were interred at or near Liberal, Kansas. They were both very religious during their later years.

CYRUS AND WIFE:

Cyrus and wife (whose maiden name was Bessie Hillhouse), purchased from his father the old home place, and have lived on same continously for the past twenty-five years; and have made good on the farm; and now own much larger acreage.

They reared a family of two children: James and Rosemary.

James, now twenty-two years of age, is still at home and helps his father in the farm work.

Rosemary, the daughter and eldest of the two, married in 1934, Jerry Eseau, of Oklahoma, where they now live in Tulsa.

Jerry, at present time, is traveling salesman.

1900-1910 Hugoton, Ks.

BERTINA AND HUSBAND (KING COLLIER):

Bertina, brother Kit's oldest daughter, married King Collier of Lawrence County, Missouri; one of the neighbor boys. Several years thereafter, they moved to Hugoton, Kansas, where they now live. They have two children: Joyce, the younger, now in High School, and Jerry, at present, working in Hugoton Post Office.

LUTHER COX AND FAMILY:

Luther was the younger son of brother Kit and wife, Mattie. He married Miss Pearl Browning, who was the daughter of Joe Browning of Lawrence County, Missouri. They also, moved to the west and soon thereafter, Luther purchased a large farm of several hundred acres, near Turpin, Oklahoma, and only a few miles south of Liberal, Kansas, where his father was then living. Luther, Pearl, Cyrus and Bessie, all together, visited Capitola and me at Selmer, Tenn. two or three years before we moved to Washington, D. C. in 1932. Luther drove through from Oklahoma and came by Aurora, Missouri, for Cyrus and Bessie.

Luther and Pearl have three children: James H., Maurine, and Mary Louise.

James is married and lives on a farm near his father.

Maurine is also married and has a four-year-old daughter.

Mary Louise, his youngest, is now a high school girl.

Luther lives in the wheat belt and for several years has seeded large acreage of wheat, and had large yields; but of late the lack of rain, and bad dust storms in that section almost put the farmer out of business.

For the past four or five years, Luther has been in the grocery business in Turpin, but still operates his farm as a side-line.

EULA JUNE:

Eula was born in Lawrence County, Missouri, and was brother Kit's second oldest daughter. She married E. J. Skaer several years ago. They now live in Houston, Texas. My last time to see Eula was at Aurora, Missouri. At that time, she and her sister, Bertina, both single, were engaged in the Millinery business in Aurora.

Her address is 1610 Drew Street, Houston, Texas.

ESTELLE:

Estelle, the youngest of the family of five children, is also married, and lives in the same apartment building near her sister, Eula June.

Her husband's name is W. H. Wier Brown. They have two children: Bertina June, aged 16, and Herbert Wier, Jr., aged 13. Their address is 1610 Drew Street, Houston, Texas.

MARY MARGARET COX (MOLLIE)

Mollie Cox, my oldest sister, was born in Kentucky, December 30, 1857, and moved with the family, 1863, to East Missouri, and in December, 1870, aged 13, came to Southwest Missouri, Lawrence County.

For the next five years, she, with the family, lived on the farm, and during said years, she was of great help to her mother in house-keeping. Her girl friends and associates during those years, were largely her double cousins: Amanda Cox, Lucy and Thirza. Her last two years in school were both in our home school district at Fairview; taught by F. A. Taylor of Lawrence County.

Soon thereafter she was married to this same F. A. Taylor. Arthur, the name by which he was better known, was both farmer and school-teacher. However, after their marriage, he gave up teaching and gave his entire time to the farm. Arthur was an own cousin to Kit's wife, Mattie Taylor; and at that time, he owned a good farm on Honey Creek, four miles north of our home, to which he and sister Mollie moved at once.

They lived there until her death, December 12, 1883, approximately eight years.

During these years, two children: Minnie and Marion were born to them. Not long thereafter, sister Mollie became an invalid and gradually grew worse till death, aged 25.

MINNIE TAYLOR GUTHRIE

Minnie was the oldest of sister Mollie's children, and was born in Lawrence County, Missouri, date of birth January, 1876, and was only a child when he mother died, 1883.

Following my return from school, 1884, the year I taught in Marionville Collegiate Institute, Minnie was home, and I saw her right often. Later, 1893 and 1894, the two years I was back there in business, Minnie was still single and visited us often but soon thereafter she married Harry Guthrie of Marionville.

They finally moved from Missouri and are now living at 4305 Donker Avenue, Los Angeles, California. Minnie and Harry have both lived in Southern California since 1927. They have two married daughters: Birdie Margaret and Emma June, both now living there near them. Birdie married Emmett Petars, a painter and decorator. They have one child: Robert Wayne Petars, aged 23, who is now an employee with the Union Hardware Company.

Emma Jean, the other daughter, married Albert Schloessor, now in the employ of the Chevrolet Auto Company. They have two daughters: Mercedes, aged 17, and Betty Joan, aged 15.

WILLIAM MARION TAYLOR

William Marion Taylor, brother of Minnie Taylor Guthrie, and only son of sister Mollie and Arthur Taylor, was born in Lawrence County, Missouri, May, 1882, and lived there at home with his father until he was 18 or 20 years of age.

For several years, Marion had suffered with asthma. He finally decided to try out the West, and for a time he was in the Far-Western States, and kept in touch with home folks by letter. However, after a while, his letters ceased to come. His father made every effort possible to learn something of Marion, but all efforts were in vain. His boy had passed away.

Rumor reports finally reached his father that a young man, thought to be Marion, had died suddenly at a Railroad Station in one of the Western States.

HENRY JEFFERSON COX AND FAMILY

Henry Jefferson Cox, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, near Somerset, March 30, 1860, and lived in my native state only 3½ years. In 1863, I was one of ten youngsters in the long move in two-horse covered wagons, from Kentucky to East Missouri, at which place we lived several years.

At the age of six or seven years, I attended my first school and accompanied by brother Kit and sister Mollie. The first day left some lasting impressions on me.

I remember well the teacher, Mr. Mudd, and that all pupils were required to study lessons aloud so that the teacher might hear their voices and thereby know they were preparing lessons. Each one tried to be heard.

However, my school days in East Missouri were cut short by a long siege of typhoid fever which was cause of my physical handicap.

We lived in East Missouri only seven years.

In December, 1870, we moved to the Southwest section of the State, and soon thereafter purchased an 80-acre farm home, near Marionville. I was to realize the need of an education, and due to my physical condition I could never become a successful farmer. I then took advantage of all our home district schools, until September, 1877, at which time, I began a two year course in the Marionville Collegiate Institute, two miles only from home. At close of these two years preparatory work, I entered the Missouri State University, at Columbia, Boone County, September, 1879, and was there continuously till June, 1884. I worked pretty hard during these five years and received as compensation three degrees: Bachelor of Arts (A.B.), Bachelor of Pedagogy (Pe.B.), and Bachelor of Agriculture (Ag. B.).

I had already decided to follow teaching as a profession.

In September, 1884, soon after my return home, I began my first year school teaching in "Marionville Collegiate Institute," (M.C.I.), as it was then known.

At close of one school year, ten months, in my home town school, as teacher of Eng., Math., Latin and Greek, I came to Savannah, Tenn. and taught my first two years there as co-principal with an old University friend, H. T. Wood. Shortly before school opening for my third year at Savannah, I married a Savannah girl, Capitola A. McDougal, daughter of Dr. J. F. McDougal and wife, whose maiden name was Mary Carmack (Aunt of the late Edward Ward Carmack of Tennessee).

Capitola was born in Lawrence County, Tennessee, at Wayland Springs, Octer 28, 1861. In 1870, the family moved to Savannah, County seat of Hardin County. She finished High School at Savannah, when the school there was at its best, and was then known as Hardin College.

She had taught several rural schools before her marriage. In fact, she was well equipped for school work, and became a most valuable co-worker in our schools. Her father and mother, now both deceased, reared a large family, of which only two survive: Arch (D.A.) and Capitola. D. A. McDougal, (Attorney), aged 75, holds a government position in the Department of State. He and family now reside in D. C.

During the long period of 44 years in which I was engaged in school work in Missouri and Tennessee, we taught (nine or ten month terms) in twelve different locations, and closed our last year May 15, 1932, at Selmer, Tenn., County seat of McNairy County.

To us were born 5 children: Henry Aubray, Mary Cynthia, James Franklin, Ella, and Mildred Carmack. All but one are now living. Ella died in infancy.

In May, 1932, we sold our Tennessee home and moved to Washington D.C., that we might be with or near our children. We now live in Arlington County, Northern Virginia, near the Potomac River, at 944 North Pollard Street.

H. A. COX

Aubray, our oldest son, was born at Savannah, Tennessee, October 2, 1888, and received his early education in the elementary and high schools in which his father was principal, and his mother always one of his teachers, throughout the grade work. At the age of seventeen, he completed the 4 years high school at Selmer, County seat of McNairy County, Tennessee, 1905. He then attended the Southern Normal University at Huntington, Tenn., for one year, after which he made special preparation for a Civil Service examination in stenography and typewriting, and took his test for same soon thereafter at Nashville, Tennessee. Within a few months, he received notice of his appointment to the Bureau of the Census, in Washington, D. C., and at once began his work. He enrolled, also, as a night student, in George Washington University Law School; and in February, 1912, he received his degree (L.L.B.) from same. In March, he married Miss Mary Elizabeth Moore, a Virginia girl, and in July of the same year, they moved to Montrose, Colorado, where Aubrey had obtained a position in the U. S. Land Office. In 1913, he passed the Colorado State Bar Examination with relative standing of fourth, in a class of 75 successful applicants. He then practiced law there for four years, then returned to Washington, D. C.

In March, 1919, he was appointed District Counsel of the U. S. Reclamation Service with headquarters at Mitchell, Nebrasks. In October, he was transferred to a similar position on the Pacific Coast, at San Francisco, California.

In 1922, he returned to Washington, D. C., as Special Attorney for the Federal Trade Commission. Then for one term of Congress, 1925 & 1926, he was Assistant Legislative Counsel for the House of Representative, and engaged in drafting proposed legislation for Congressional Committees.

From 1927, to the present time, he has been actively engaged as an attorney for the Government in the preparation for trial and trials of tax cases in various courts and before the Boards of Tax Appeals.

Also, in connection with his work, he has been required to make numerous trips to the Pacific Coast, and one trip to China and the Philippine Islands. He is now (1940) Head of the Review Division in the Office of the Chief Counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue. Residence, 4807 Iowa Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C.

ELIZABETH MOORE COX

Elizabeth was born in Virginia, and the family lived in Rishmond several years, at which place she took Elemantary School work. Later, her father, Samuel Moore, moved to Arlington County, in Northern Virginia, and while living there, she completed high school work in the District of Columbia.

Then, after she and Aubrey were married, and had lived several years in the west and had returned to Washington, year 1922, she took a course in law at George Washington University Law School and received LL. B. degree. She is now, 1940, engaged in Law practice in the District of Columbia, and is President of the "Women's Bar Association" there.

They have two children: George and Eleanor.

George was born in Montrose, Colorado, but received his elementary and high school work in the District of Columbia. He then took one year school work at Rollins College, Florida, and soon thereafter married Miss Pattie Hughes of Washington, D. C. Later, they moved to California, and purchased a home there at Round Mountain.

After a three-year sojourn, they became somewhat dissatisfied and returned to Washington, D. C.

They have three children: Geraldine (Gerry), David and Betty Jean. They are now located in El Reno, Oklahoma, where George has a position in Government Service.

Eleanor, the younger of the two children, was born in Montrose, Colorado, but received her elementary and high school education in Washington, D. C. Since completing high school, Eleanor, has devoted the greater part of her time and thought specializing in painting, modeling and sculpture. Recently, she won first prize ($50.00), as a student in Corcoran School of Arts in Washington, D. C. She now has in her home studio, a nice collection of her own artistic handwork, indicating talent. Her work has been exhibited at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, in Washington and in other special public exhibits. She has studied under the direction of several nationally known sculptors, and is now (1940) taking a special advanced course, in stone and wood carving and bronze casting at "Stella Elkins Tyler School of Art" of Temple University at Philadelphia.

MARY C. COX

Mary was born at Adamsville, McNairy County, Tennessee, February 9, 1890, and received her elementary education largely at Savannah and Adamsville under the care and supervision of her mother, then in charge of the Primary and Elementary work in our school. At Selmar and Kenton, she finished a 4 year high school course in June, 1908, and received a high school diploma at Kenton, Tennessee. She also took some additional higher work in 4th year.

The following school year, she was in Radnar College, at Nashville, and at close of same was given (by the college) an excursion, on a 30 day sight seeing trip; together with one hundred or more class-mates, and teachers, to the Mid-West, and Far-West, to the Pacific Coast.

After which, she equipped herself for a school teaching, by taking special state examination and received both high school and elementary certificates.

She then taught four school terms in rural work and three years with her father in high schools; following which she retired from teaching, took Civil Service Examination and soon thereafter received an appointment at Washington, D. C., in the Department of Labor, June 1918, and has continued in same to date, 1940.

JAMES F. COX

James was born at Saltillo, Tenn., July 1, 1892, and began his school life with his mother as teacher September, 1898, at Savannah, and completed eight grades of the elementary course at Selmer and Kenton in June 1907; he then took high school work two years at Kenton and one year at Sharon.

However, at the close of three years high school work, he took a three month business course at Lexington, Ky. While there he specialized in stenography, and at close of term, August 12, 1912, received diploma. After a few months, he took Civil Service Examination in stenography and typewriting at Nashville, Tenn. and soon thereafter received an appointment to U. S. Navy Yard, Charleston, S. C. which position he held for six years. While in Charleston, he was married to Miss Rita L. Beckman, and to them were born three sons: James Franklin, Jr., Rutledge Livingston, and William Ashe, all of whom are now grown and living in Charleston.

In April, 1920, he resigned from government service, and returned to Tennessee. At that time, I was closing my last year teaching at Saltillo and was planning to move to our newly purchased farm, three miles south of Jackson, Tenn. James went with us to the farm and was a farmer one year. The following year, 1921, he went to California, and was there for nineteen months, in government and private employment. In 1923, he took a Civil Service test in San Francisco for stenography-typist, and as a result received an appointment in government service in Washington, D. C. Several months later, he was transferred to the Canal Zone, Republic of Panama, which position he resigned, after nineteen months, to accept private employment in Cartagena, Colombia, South America. This position he held for four years, then returned to United States, 1929, and since then has been in the employ of the government in Washington, D. C. continuously.

MILDRED COX CORLEY AND FAMILY

Mildred, our youngest living daughter, was born October 6, 1900, at Clifton, Wayne County, Tennessee. She took her elementary school work at Kenton, Sharon, Bradford and Dyer. She then completed three years high school at Adamsville, and the following three years she attended Memphis Conference Female Institute, at Jackson, Tenn. at which she took one year more in high school work and the latter two years she continued her studies in music, and, in addition, took a business course.

She then taught music for one year, at Dowelltown, Tennessee; after which she decided to become a full-fledged pedagogue, and taught school for five nine-month terms in succession; two of which were at Dowelltown, with her cousin, Mary McDougal White, and husband James White, principal of the school.

She then taught three years more in Selmer High School, the last year of which was with her father as principal (1925 & 1926).

On September 8, 1926, only a few months following her last year in school work, she was married to Floyd Corley, a young farmer of De Kalb County, and was at that time living with his mother, than a widow, near Dowelltown.

Following their marriage, Mildred and husband lived there on the old home place for several years; until her husband's death, December 30, 1932. At that time, they had two children: Anne and Floyd, Jr.

Not long thereafter, Mildred purchased a home in Dowelltown, near the old home place at which she and her two children now, 1940, live.

Anne, age ten, and Floyd, eight. They visit with us a few weeks every summer.

DANIEL WINFORD COX AND FAMILY

Brother Dan was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, October 27, 1862, near Somerset, and was the youngest of our family at the time we moved from Kentucky to East Missouri, 1863. In 1870, when we moved to Southwest Missouri and had purchased our farm home, he was then approximately 11 years of age but soon became of great help in the farm work for the next 15 years.

After brother Kit's marriage, Dan and Will were our farm managers for several years and were at home, one or both, with mother and sister Ella during the 5 years I was in the University.

However, Dan visited me once, while at Columbia and entered school, but soon became dissatisfied and returned to the old farm home at Marionville. Later, he made several trips to Kansas and visited some relatives out there. He was the last or our family to marry.

He married Miss Alice McNatt, daughter of Allen McNatt of Lawrence County, a cousin of Wash McNatt, who had married our cousin Amanda Cox several years previously.

During the two years brother Will and I were in the grocery business at Marionville. Dan helped us in the store and drove the delivery wagon. Later, he was in business several years at Mt. Vernon, Aurora, and last at Marionville. Because of failing health, he was forced to retire; after which, he and Alice moved to a little farm home 3 miles south of Aurora at which place his condition grew worse and within two or three year, he passed away, year 1927, aged 65. They had two children: Bernice and Allen. Allen, the younger, seriously afflicted from infancy, died while yet in his sons, only a short time after the death of his father.

Bernice, only a few years older than her brother Allen, was away from home the last time I visited the family, 1926. At that time, to the best of my recollection, she was teaching school there in Lawrence County or was employed at Kansas City, Mo. I never saw her after she was grown and away from home.

She married Jesse Lanning, an automobile salesman in California. They now live in their recently purchased home at 2694 18th Avenue, San Francisco. Her mother, Alice, lives with them. I hear of them often by letters from Alice.

WILLIAM P. COX

Will, my youngest brother, was born in St. Charles County, East Missouri. January 5, 1865. After moving to Southwest Missouri, he was helpful to brother Kit, and later to brother Dan as a co-worker on the farm, for a number of years, until mother sold the farm and bought town property at Marionville. He then purchased one-half interest in a grocery store with his brother-in-law, John C. Stafford, who had married his sister Ella a few years before.

In 1890, he married Miss Lottie Rogers, daughter of O. J. Rogers and Mattie Rogers, of Marionville, and continued in business there until 1895, and at which time, hoping to recuperate in health, he sold out and moved to San Antonio, Texas. Not satisfied there, they moved to a nearby mountain town, and engaged in general merchandising for eight years. He then closed out there and was in grocery business only a few months at Miles Station, Texas, before his death, November 14, 1905, aged 40, and was interred at Marionville, Mo.

Lottie, his wife, and the five children moved to Green Forest, Arkansas, at which place John C. Stafford and family were living. Several years later Lottie married C. C. Kirkham, and they now live at Santa Ana, California, 407 W. 1st Street.

To Lottie and brother Will were born: Everett, Ella May, William Lee, Reba Faye and Edna Louise.

EVERETT CARROLL, the oldest of Will and Lottie's children, was born in Marionville, Mo., and lived there during his first four or five years, and then in Texas, the next eight or nine years till after his father's death, 1905; when the family moved to Green Forest.

Everett then came to Tennessee, lived with us, and went to school while there, during one school year, beginning Sept. 1906, my first year at Kenton.

He then visited his uncle Fred Rogers in Illinois, and soon thereafter married a St. Louis girl.

They now live at 8810 Second Avenue, Inglewood, California.

Their daughter, Dorothy Louise, married Ross Sawyer, of Los Angeles, California, and to them were born two children: Carolyn and Richard Lyne.

ELLE MAY, the older daughter of brother Will and Lottie, was born at Marionville, Mo. and was a very little girl, at the time of my last years there in the grocery business, with her father, 1894 and 1895. I recall that Ella came right often with her mother Lottie to our store for candy and on one occasion she ran away from our home, nearby, and came alone. Then, approximately sixteen years thereafter, she married C. A. Holmes, of Avon, Ill., April, 1910, and to them were born two children: Harold and Lesley.

Harold married Hayle Vallatte of Wheaton, Ill.

Lesley also is married and to this union was born one child: Lesley Morris, in 1925, Ella married a second time: L. R. Gordon, and now lives at Avon, Illinois.

William Lee Cox was born at Marionville, Missouri, and was quite young when the family moved from there to the Lone Star State, where they lived 9 or 10 years. After their return to Green Forest, Arkansas, he married Vinnie Beck, 1915, who lived only a very short time after her marriage.

William Lee (Bill) enlisted for the World War, 1917, and served two years in the Army; seven months of which were over-seas.

After the War, 1927, he married Mrs. Daisy Steadman, of Santa Ana, California, who had recently come to the United States from London, England.

W. L. Cox is now working for a retail lumber Company, located at Burbank, California, 9 miles from his home. Their present address:

W. L. Cox
3924 Park Place
Montrose, California

Reba Faye Speer, younger daughter of William Perry Cox and Lottie Rogers Cox, was born in Texas, year 1902; and shortly after her father's death, 1905, her mother and family moved to Green Forest, Arkansas, at which place they lived for several years.

In 1920, Reba Faye married King Speer of Harrison, Arkansas. To them were born two children: Faye Louise, and donald Claud (at Harrison, Ark.)

Faye Louise is now aged 19 and graduated last year, 1939, in High School, at Flagstaff, Ariz. As a student, she was honored with a gold medal for highest marks in English and Typing in a class of fourteen.

Reba's husband, King, took a business course in College in Springfield, Mo., and specialized in Telegraphy; soon thereafter he took work in Union Station at Kansas City, Mo., and later was with the Western Union Telegraph Co. 17 years. He then accepted work with the Santa Fe Ry. Co. and is now located at Grand Canyon, 89 miles from Flagstaff. Reba Faye and children, Faye Louise and Donald Claud, live at Flagstaff during the school term and at home, Grand Canyon, during school vacations. Her present address is 704 Santa Fe Avenue, Flagstaff, Arizona.

Edna Louise Cox Mashburn, youngest child of William P. Cox and wife, Lottie, was born in Texas

She married F. A. Mashburn of Green Forest, Arkansas, May 11, 1924, and later moved to Southern California. They have one child: Loren Estelle. Address: 407 West First Street, Santa Ana, California.

ELLA MARIA COX

Ella, my youngest sister, was born in East Missouri, July 11, 1868, and was only two and one-half years of age when we moved to Southwest Missouri, 1870.

For the next twelve or fourteen years, she lived on our farm home with her mother and family. However, she took considerable interest in education; and was in attendance regularly at all our district public schools, and the greater part of all private schools within our home district.

She also attended one school year at Marionville Collegiate Institute, (M.C.I.), the year I taught there and boarded at same place with me.

Late in July, 1885, following that school year, she married John C. Stafford of Marionville. John went into the grocery business and soon thereafter sold Brother Will one-half interest in the store. However, Sister Ella died only two years and nine months after their marriage; leaving one baby boy, Carroll Jefferson.

A few years after Ella's death, John married Miss Betty Logan; quit the grocery business, and purchased a farm, near Green Forest, Arkansas and moved to it.

Carroll Jefferson, my nephew and namesake, now 52 years of age, is married and lives near his father. He married November, 1908, an Arkansas girl whose maiden name was Mae Villanes, and to them were born 5 children: Louise, aged 25; Frances, 21; Fayrene, 8; J. C. (Jr.), 27; and Frederic, 17.

Only J. C. and Louise are married.

J. C. has two children: Sidney Sue and Bettie Lee.

ELLA COX HAZELTON & FAMILY

Ella was the oldest daughter of Uncle Marcellus and Aunt Susannah Hail Cox; and was born in Kentucky, 1850. She moved with the family in the covered wagon to East Missouri, 1863; and three years later to Texas, then back to Southwest Missouri, 1868.

Within a few years, she was married to Alf Hazelton, a farmer, then living in that section of the State. Cousin Alf, at one time, became interested in the lead mines at Leadville, Colorado, and worked out there for a short time.

1900 Byers KS In 1899, the family moved from Missouri to Byers, a small town 30 miles from Turon, Kansas, and purchased a farm home nearby. Eleven years thereafter, 1910, Cousin Alf died, and Cousin Ella moved to Turon; bought property there, so as to be 1910 Turon near some of her children.

Cousin Ella passed away, aged seventy-seven, 1927.

To them were born seven children, now somewhat scattered: Allie, Lenna, Lucy, Ona, Otis, Bert, and Marcellus.

ALLIE HAZELTON

1899 Turon KS Allie, the youngest daughter, was born in Southwest Missouri, and married James T. Meek. In 1899, they moved to Turon, Kansas. In 1903, Cousin J. T. Meek became 1940 Turon rural mail carrier, out from Turon, and served a period of 30 years; at which time, 1933, he was retired on annuity of $100.00 per month. They still live in Turon, and have operated the Turon Hotel there for the past 25 or 30 years.

They have two sons: Van and Glen. Van is now single; and is manager of the Meek Manufacturing Company located there in Turon.

Glen is married and has two children: Peggy and Maurice. He is a travelling salesman, and lives in Hutchinson, Kansas. Recently Glen and family, en route to New York Fair, via Washington, made us a short visit.

LENNA HAZELTON, sister of Allie Hazelton Meek, married Ralph Jones, and they live Turon in Turon, near Allie and James. They have no children.

I am greatly indebted to Cousins James T. Meek and Allie for information as to several of our Kansas relatives.

LUCY HAZELTON, daughter of Cousin Ella Cox Hazelton, married Joe Zongker and now live at Wichita, Kansas; 75 miles from Turon. Recently I received a long letter from Cousin Lucy, telling me of herself and family. They have lived in Wichita for 30 years. Her husband, Joe, has been employed with Coleman Lamp Company there in Wichita for the last 18 or 20 years.

1940 Wichita They have 3 sons and 1 daughter. Their sons, all live there in Wichita. The oldest is in the Drug Business. The second son owns a shoe store and his younger brother works with him in the store.

The names of the 3 sons are: Paul, Everett and Arla. Their address is 1810 W. 2nd Street, Wichita.

Their daughter married a Mr. Lipton and they live on a farm at McPherson, nearby, with their two children.

Byers ONA HAZELTON married Charles Swafford, and they live on a farm near Byers, 30 miles from Turon. They have 4 children: Windel, Esther, Bettie Jean and Doris.

OTIS HAZELTON, eldest son of Cousin Ella and Alf, married and reared a family of 5 children: Arthur (deceased), Lester, Clyde, Caroline and Cleo. They live at San Diego, California.

BERT HAZELTON, married Amanda Norman of Aurora, Mo. They have 3 children: Lee, Evelyn, and Inez. They all live at Bayfield, Colorado.

MARCELLUS HAZELTON is married and has two daughters: Ophia and Mavel, and now live at Agato, Colorado.

DOC (WILLIAM CHRISTOPHER) COX & WIFE ANNA MCNATT & FAMILY

Cousin Doc Cox, the only boy of Uncle Marcellus' children, was born in Kentucky, 1852, and moved with the family to East Missouri; then to Texas and back to Southwest Missouri, 1868. Cousin Doc lived there and worked on the farm with his father until he was several years beyond his teens. He married Miss Anne McNatt, a cousin to Wash (G. W. McNatt who had married his sister, Amanda, several years before.) Cousin Anne was a school mate of sister Mollie and lived only two miles from our home.

Not very long after their marriage, Cousin Doc and Anne moved to Kansas, and purchased a large prairie farm near Turon, on which they lived continuously until their death. Cousin Anne passed away, 1929, aged 75; and Cousin Doc, only a few years later, 1935, aged 83, at Amarillo, Texas; while visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Mollie Black, 823 W. 8th Ave.

They reared a family of 5 children: Mollie, Tennie, Thirza, Campbell and Eula.

Mollie Cox, their oldest, married Lewis Black, 1905. They live in Amarillo, Texas, at which place they have both been Chiropractors for over 20 years. They have two children: Jeannette and Bertran. Jeannette was married to Fred Richards, 1929; Bertran is now single and 25 years of age. All three now in Chiropractic College, St. Louis, Mo.

Tennie, Cousin Doc's second daughter, married John Wilhite. They have one married daughter, Gladys; and all now live at or near Stafford, Kansas.

Thirze, sister of Tennie, married Ollie Marcum, but is now a widow and has three children: William C. Marcum, Fern and Marie. Both daughter are married.

They all live at Kingman, Kansas.

Campbell Jacob, Doc's only son, married, but lived only three years thereafter; died of pneumonia, 1933, leaving no children. His widow married again and now lives in Sandusky, Ohio.

Eula B., youngest child of Wm. C. Cox, was born in Kansas, 1898. She married Wm. V. O'Connell, a teacher. At the present time, he teaches dramatics in Illinois State Teacher's College. I hear from Eula right often by letter in which she tells me of herself and family. They have two sons: William V. Jr., aged 16 years, and a younger son, aged 4.

Eula is preparing a write-up of the Coxes. Their address, DeKalb, Illinois, 909 W. 9th.

COUSIN AMANDA COX

Uncle Marcellus' daughter, Amanda, was born in Kentucky, 1855, and at the age of thirteen, her father, after a short stay in East Missouri, and one and one-half years in Texas, moved to Southwest Missouri, 1868, where she lived on the farm, until her marriage to G. W. McNatt, of Aurora, Mo.

Her husband, Wash, was in the mercantile business at Aurora for several years; after which he purchased a farm home, three miles north of Aurora, on which the family lived for a number of years. Then, late in life, they left the farm and moved back to Aurora and purchased a good home there, at which they spent their few remaining years. I visited them there, 1926, while on my last visit to see Brother Dan and Alice. Cousin Wash and Amanda were both in fairly good health at that time. However, only six years thereafter, Wash passed away, aged 78, and Cousin Amanda survived him approximately 6 years. Her death came suddenly February, 1938, aged 83.

They left behind two sons and two daughters: John, Ona, Arthur and Pearl.

John, their eldest son, married Ola Berkey, and lived there in Lawrence County near Aurora, on his own farm. His wife died soon after the birth of their youngest daughter, Zora Gale.

To John and Ola were born four children: Carol Munday, Fern Calhoun, Thelma Stewart and Zora Gale.

The three older daughters are now married; and the youngest, Zora Gale, is not married; and has lived in the home of her Aunt Pearl and Uncle Willard Faulkner, from her early babyhood.

Cousin Ona, eldest daughter of Cousin Wash and Amanda, was born in Lawrence County, Missouri, and married A.J. Scott of Aurora. She and husband, Jack, have resided in or near Aurora for these many years.

To them were born 3 children: Mildred, Mary and Howard.

Mildred Scott, married Joe McPherson, and soon thereafter they moved to Washington, D. C. While there for 5 years, Joe attended George Washington University Law School, and received L.L.B. Degree, and later became partner in the "Schutts & Bowen Law Firm" at Miami, Fla. Mildred died nine years ago.

Mary Scott married Siegal Bock and they now live in Tulsa, Okla. To them was born one son, who died at age of seven years.

Howard G. Scott lives in San Antonio with whom his parents, Jack and Ona, have spent the last few winters.

Arthur McNatt, younger son of Wash and Amanda, married Nellie Gamble, relative of John Britain, and lives on his own farm near Aurora, Mo. To Arthur and Nellie were born 4 children: Rex, Eldon, Alverta, and Ona Marie.

Pearl McNatt, younger daughter of Cousin Amanda and Wash McNatt, was born in Lawrence County, Mo, and married Willard H. Faulkner of Aurora; at which place they still live.

Willard has been in the Mercantile Business there at Aurora for more than 15 years. He has also served as Mayor of the town for the last six or eight years.

Cousin Pearl and Willard have no children of their own, but have mothered and fathered their niece, Zora Gale McNatt, as their own from infancy to womanhood. Zora is now an employee at Aurora Bank.

JOHN AND LUCY BRITAIN

Cousin Lucy Cox Britain was born in Kentucky, 1857, and moved with her father and family to East Missouri; then to Texas, and finally in 1868, back to Southwest Missouri, at which place she lived until her marriage to John Wesley Britain of Republic, Green County, Missouri. John was a farmer. Following their marriage, they moved to his farm home, two or three miles out from Republic, at which they lived for a good number of years. They finally left the farm, purchased property in Republic, and moved to it. John then became a partner in a large Mercantile Business for several years; also, owned stock in the Bank of Republic. Cousin John passed away three or four years ago, aged 76.

Cousin Lucy, now aged 83, still lives in Republic with her unmarried daughter, Bettie. John and Lucy reared a large family of four sons and three daughters: Wash, Will, Frank, Raymond, Clara, Loretta and Bettie; all of whom are now living. They also have 6 or 8 great grandchildren.

WASH BRITAIN, the oldest of the children, lives at Halltown, Lawrence County, Mo. and has been there in the Milling Business for many years. He has a family of five sons; four of whom now live in Houston, Texas. He also has two daughters, both married and live near him.

WILL BRITAIN, brother of Wash, lived in Westplains, Mo. for a number of years. Recently after the death of his wife and a grown son, he went to Houston, Texas, where he now lives with two of his children.

FRANK BRITAIN is married, has a family of 3 children and lives in Houston, Texas. He has a 17 year old son. His present address is 1808 Marshall Street.

RAYMOND, also married, lives in Houston and has one boy two years old.

LORETTA married A. C. Pasche and lives in Houston, 707 Teetshorn Street. They have one little girl: Bettie Jean, aged 5 years.

CLARA married Fred Short of Republic, Mo. and still lives there near her mother. Her husband has been in the Hardware Business at Republic for a number of years.

BETTIE, the only one of the family not married, still lives in Republic with her aged mother. However, Bettie has not been idle; but has had work in the "Bank of Republic," almost continuously for a number of years. I hear of Cousin Lucy right often by letters from Cousin Bettie.

THIRZA COX WAID AND JAMES

Cousin Thirza, the youngest of the family, was born in Kentucky, and moved with her father, 1863, to St. Charles County, East Missouri, then to Texas; and back to Southwest Missouri, 1868. At which place, in Lawrence County, near Marionville she lived with the family on a farm; until her marriage to James Waid of Lawrence County, Missouri. James, when a young man, had served for a time as Texas Ranger, and for which service he has continued to receive a pension of $72.00 per month, and is exempt from taxes. They lived in Missouri for several years; then 1906, they moved to Stanfield, Oregon, where they now live, and own a good home. Thirza is now 80, and Cousin James, 88 years of age. They have reared a family of three sons and three daughters; Joie, Lenna, Claude, Lula, Amanda and Vernon.

JOIE WAID, the oldest, was born in Missouri, 1881, and graduated at M.C.I, Marionville, Mo. 1903, aged 22. He then taught school seven years continuously, in Missouri and Oregon until his death, 1910, aged 29.

LENNA, next in age of the six in the family, was also born in Mo. and moved from there to Stanfield, 1906; at which place she now lives, and from whom I have just received a good long letter, telling me the where-about of their family. Lenna is unmarried, and still lives at home with her aged parents but has led an active life; employed in general merchandising seven years; telephone office work, ten years; in a variety store, 1 year; and at the present time, Assistant Postmistress in Stanfield Post Office.

CLAUDE, second eldest of the three sons, works on a farm with his brother, Vernon. Claude married and had four sons, but lost one of them in 1923 and his wife only two years thereafter. The other three sons are still living; one of whom is now married.

LULA, a younger sister of Claude, is married and now lives at "Hid-A-Way" Springs, a Summer Resort, 80 miles from Stanfield, Oregon. They lease the Springs; also own and operate a stock ranch near-by. They have one grown son, who has just finished high school.

AMANDA, the youngest daughter, is married and lives near Heppner, Oregon, on a large wheat ranch. Her husband, Harry Duvall, is a real estate salesman at Heppner. They have one daughter, married and now living at Portland, Oregon. This daughter has two children: a girl, aged three years, and a boy, two years of age.

VERNON, the youngest child, is married and lives near Stanfield. He has one son, James, aged three years. Vernon's wife, a university graduate, teaches foreign languages; and a "Commercial Course," in Stanfield High School.

UNCLE BALLARD COX AND FAMILY

He was a younger brother of my father, and was born and reared in Pulaski County, Kentucky; date of birth, 1829.

He married Emily Price, daughter of Buck Price and lived there till the Civil War. He enlisted in the war at the beginning, 1861, and served in same approximately four years. He was in the Federal Army at the battle of Mill Springs, Kentucky, in which General Zollicoffer was killed; also in the Georges B. McClellan Peninsula Campaign, and for war service he received a life pension of $72.00 per month.

Shortly after the close of the war, he and family of 5 children moved to East Missouri, and lived there a short time. They then moved to Indiana, and lived near Terra Haute, on Wabash River. Later the family moved to Kansas; and after a few years sojourn there, all the family except a daughter, Barbara, moved to Southwest Missouri; and not long thereafter, Uncle Ballard purchased town property at Marionville, Mo.; adjoining my mother's home. Within a few years Uncle and Aunt, both passed away; aged about 80 years each. They had reared a large family: Frances, Barbara, Green, Boen, Elizabeth, John, Jake and Estelle.

I was associated right often with almost all the family during my two years there at Marionville in Mercantile Business, 1894 & 95. Uncle Ballard was one of our best customers, and we always cashed his $216.00 quarterly pension checks.

COUSIN FRANCES COX MCKINLEY & FAMILY

Cousin Frances was the eldest daughter of Uncle Ballard and Aunt Emily. She was born in Kentucky, 1848, and was with the family when they moved from Kansas to Southwest Missouri. Soon thereafter, she married Paul McKinley of Lawrence County. After her marriage, she and Paul lived a few years, out three or four miles from Aurora, toward Marionville; at which home I spent one night with them, during my boyhood school days. Later, Cousin Paul became a preacher; then they lived continously in Aurora.

They both passed away several years ago. They reared a large family of eight children.

EFFIE ELLON, who married C. A. Anderson, and now lives at May, Texas.

EMILY CATHARINE, who married F. A. Bigelow, Aurora, Mo. She is now deceased.

MINNIE FLORENCE, married I. T. Lemaster and lives at May, Texas.

AUDREY AGNES, married F. A. Kirkpatrick and lives at Bakersfield, California.

OLIVE MANIS, married J. H. Cline, and lives at Los Angeles, California. She is now deceased.

MARY FRANCES, married W. R. Gamble and lives at Turon, Kansas.

ROBERT R. MCKINLEY, married and lives at Bakersfield, California.

COUSIN BARBARA COX AND FAMILY

Barbara Cox was a daughter of Uncle Ballard Cox, and was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, 1850. She moved with the family to Indiana and later to Kansas, at which place she was married to John Baily.

To them were born nine children: now ranging in ages from 47 to 64 years: Victor, Dot, Clarence, Queen, Earl, Snowden, Claude, Orda and Ever. Earl and Clarence, deceased. Cousin John Baily died 1904, and Cousin Barbara, 1911, both aged approximately 60 years.

To Victor, their eldest; and wife, were born: Loys, Mac and Lotus.

To Dot (Mrs. Wheeler) was born Elden,

To Queen: Sadie, Lowell, Clifford and Sylvia.

To Snowden: John, Nova and Ninfa.

To Claude: Margaret, Rena, Cena and Curtis.

To Orda Burrows: Everett, Geneva, and Ruby.

To Ever and wife: Jewell, Clifton and Claude.

Orda lives at Phoenix, Ariz.; Victor, Dot, Queen, and Claude, at Rock, Kansas; Snowden at Shaddock, Okla.; and Ever at Woodson, California.

LIZZIE COX AND FAMILY

Cousin Lizzie (Elizabeth) Cox, daughter of Uncle Ballard Cox, was born in Kentucky, and moved from Kansas with the family to Southwest, Mo., near Marionville; at which place she married Tom Adams, and lived for several years there in Lawrence County, four miles south of Marionville. They finally moved to Pasadena, California. They reared 4 children: Tina, Levi, John and Edith.

TINA, (now deceased) married Enoch Huffins.

LEVI married Anna Greathouse.

JOHN and EDITH, both married and live at Pasadena, California.

GREEN COX AND FAMILY

Cousin Green Cox, was Uncle Ballard's eldest son, and was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, 1856. Green was with the family in the several moves: from Kentucky to East Missouri, to Indiana, to Kansas, then to Southwest Missouri. Several years thereafter, he married a Lawrence County woman, and lived at or near Aurora. Later, he moved from the County to a farm near Joplin, Missouri, and lived there until his death. He passed away , 1938, aged 82 years.

He and wife reared a family of 4 children; Berta, Carrie, Ezra and Glen. The two sons are now dead. No record of Bertie. Carrie married Marion Stimpson and now lives at Tucson, Arizona.

COUSIN BOEN COX AND FAMILY

Boen Cox, younger brother of Green, was born in Kentucky, in year 1860. He and I were very nearly the same age.

Boen moved with the family from Kentucky to East Missouri, Indiana and Kansas. Later, he returned to Missouri, and lived there for several years before his marriage. He married Emma Berry of Lawrence County, Missouri. They reared a family of 5 children: Maude (deceased), Della, Elmer, Bert and Ralph.

DELLA married a Mr. Tunnel of Aurora, Mo. and lives there.

ELMER, BERT and RALPH, (deceased.)

Boen and wife, Emma, passed away several years ago.

JOHN P. COX AND FAMILY

Cousin John P. Cox, son of Uncle Ballard Cox, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, 1866, and moved with the family to East Missouri and from there to Indiana, then to Kansas, and finally to Southwest Missouri; at which place, he married Eliza Grammer, whose home was there in Lawrence County, Near Marionville.

To them were born 5 children: Ballard, Elbert, John Pare, Viola and Essie.

Soon after their marriage, they rented Uncle Marcellus' old home place, and lived there a few years. They then purchased a farm home approximately one-half mile out from Marionville; and only 10 or 12 years thereafter, Cousin John passed away; aged 33. Cousin Eliza and her 5 children lived there together on the farm until her eldest son, Ballard, was grown and married. She then rented the farm to him, and with the other 4 children, moved to Springfield, Missouri, for better educational facilities. She lived there 9 years and during those years, Cousin Eliza was an employee in a large department store. At or near the close of 9 years, she quit the store work, sold her farm to Ballard, and returned to the old home at which she now, aged 73, lives, with Ballard and his two grown sons. Ballard's wife, Anna, died fifteen years ago.

BALLARD, eldest of the 5 children, is now 52 years of age, and to him and wife, Minnie, were born 8 children: Viessa, Leon Parker, Catharine, Anna Mae, Mettie, Robert E., Richard A., and Jackie E.

VIESSA COX MILLER, aged 25, eldest daughter of Elbert Cox. To them were born 3 children: Jackie, Barbara and Narvella.

LEON PARKER and wife, Ruth, have one child, a little girl.

CATHARINE E. COX married Jack Brotherton. They have one baby girl.

The other five of Elbert's children are all under age 18 and at home.

JOHN POPE COX, third son of Cousin John Cox and Eliza. He and wife, Bessie have 2 children: Louise, aged 14, and Ellen Anne, 8 They live in Springfield, Mo.

VIOLA B. COX, married Lacy Eastman. They live in Phoenix, Ariz., and have one daughter, Viola Catharine, aged 16. Lacy is now Supervisor of Education.

ESSIE M. COX married Robert E. Evans, and they have 3 children: Harold, aged 20; Harry, aged 15; and John, 12. Harold is now in Texas Tech College. Their home is in Fort Worth.

JAKE COX AND FAMILY

Cousin Jake Cox, Uncle Ballard's youngest son, was born in Kentucky, and moved with the family to East Missouri; then to Indiana and finally to Southwest, Missouri, where he married a Lawrence County girl, Ollie Howerton, and located on a farm near Aurora. They reared a family of 5 children: Alva, Forest, Flossie, Leonard and Artie.

ARTIE, the eldest, married Albert Gereke. In 1908, the family moved to Kansas and lived on a farm near Byers until Cousin Jake's death, several years ago. His wife, Ollie, survived him only a few years. The children all live there near Byers.

ESTELLE E. COX

Cousin Estelle (Tillie), Uncle Ballard's youngest daughter, came with her father's family from Kansas to Southwest, Missouri, when Tillie was a only a little girl. She lived there at home, in Marionville, with her aged father and mother for several years after all the brothers and sisters were away from home. During the ten years, 1894 and 1895, when I was in the grocery business at Marionville, Cousin Tillie was still at home, and was of invaluable assistance to her parents, aged almost 80 years.

Within the next few years, Tillie married Milton H. Wolfe of Lawrence County. They now live at Willard, Mo. and have a family of three children, address R. R. # 2.

UNCLE JACOB COX AND FAMILY

This is the family of your grandfather

Uncle Jake Cox was a brother of my father, William Perry Cox, and was born, 1832, and reared in Pulaski County, Kentucky. At the age of 19, he married Sarah Starns. After the close of the Civil War, he and Aunt Sarah with their children moved to Indiana, near Terre Haute. Later they moved by way of Southwest Missouri to Central Kansas, near Stafford, at which place he purchased a large acreage farm home. Uncle Jake Aunt Sarah, only a few years. I remember seeing them only once, and my recollection of them is faint. They reared a large family: Isabel, Joel, George, Mollie, James, Emaline, Minnie, Charles Eddie, William Leroy, Eva (Tep), and Della May.

ISABEL COX NELSON:

Cousin Isabel was born in Kentucky, 1854; was the eldest of eleven children and moved with the family, soon after the close of the Civil War, to Indiana; then from there via Southwest Missouri to Kansas. She married Grundy Nelson. Later, they lived one or two years in Lawrence County, Missouri, near Mt. Zion; after which they returned to Stafford, Kansas, and remained there till death. Cousin Isabel died 1896, aged 42. They reared a family of 6 children: Cora, Bertha, Rose, Fred, Jacob, and Inez.

Cora married C. O. Morgan, both of whom are now dead. Bertha died early in life. All the other four children are married and live on farms near Stafford, Kansas.

Rose married Harry Sherman. Fred married Flossie Bear. Jacob married Sarah Newell. Inez married Millard Woods. all deceased

I visited Cousin Belle and husband, Grundy Nelson, once while they lived there in Lawrence County, near Mount Zion, six or seven miles from home.

Grover Allen Zink
Lutesville

JOEL COX:

Joel was oldest son of Uncle Jacob Cox and was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, 1856. He moved with his father's family, from Kentucky to Indiana; and twenty years later moved to Turon, Kansas. He married Jessie Miller, and they continued to live there until his death, aged 72, 1929. His widow, Cousin Jessie, now nearly blind, is still living there five miles out from Turon.

To them were born three daughters: Elma Cox, Dora Cox and Lena Cox; and each of these Cox girls married one of three Zink brothers. Elma married Jesse L. Zink; Dora, Grover Zink; and Lena, Virgil Zink; and all live near Turon, Kansas.

Dora and Lena live at Turon - 1981

GEORGE COX AND FAMILY: died 12/83

Cousin George, second in age of the sons of Uncle Jake Cox, was born in Kentucky, 1859, and when only a small boy his parents moved to Indiana. In 1884, they moved to Kansas, where he now lives in Stafford, twenty miles from Turon. George married Alice Nelson, and to them were born six children: namely, Connie, who married A. B. Tubbs, and now lives near Turon; Hattie, still single, at home with her father, aged 80 years. Ora married Leonard Schmidt. Georgia, John and Harold all at home, in Stafford.

there 3 living - 1981

MOLLIE COX BROWNING AND FAMILY:

Mollie Cox, daughter of Uncle Jake Cox, was born in Kentucky, 1861, and moved with the family to Indiana, and then to Kansas, 1884, near Stafford. She married Charles Browning, and to them were born five children: Guy, Pearl, Ray, Herbert and Hazel. all deceased

The last four are all married. Pearl married Will Nelson, of Stafford, Kansas. Ray married Josie Welty, and they live at Ensign, Kansas. Hazel married James Robertson of Stafford. Guy is still single. Cousin Mollie Browning and husband, Charles, are both in very poor health, and aged approximately 80 years. Their home is 8 miles out from Turon.

COUSIN JAMES COX AND FAMILY:

It so happens that I know more of him than I do of the other sons or daughters of Uncle Jake's family.

Cousin Jim was born 1864, and came, when a young man, from Kansas to Southwest Missouri on a visit. He went to Green County, near Republic, and visited Cousin Lucy Cox Britain, who had recently married John Wesley Britain; and at that time, she and John were living on a prairie farm three miles out from Republic. He then worked with John a short time, but later was in the employ of John's father, also a farmer, and living nearby. While there, he married Miss Amanda Britain, a sister to Lucy's husband; and they continued to live at her home for years, after the death of Amanda's father and mother. Later in life, when both were considerably aged, they purchased property in Republic, at which they lived continuously throughout their declining years.

Cousin Amanda passed away, at her home in Republic, almost suddenly, 1934. Cousin James survived her approximately only 2 years. His death, aged 74, occurred soon after a slight stroke of paralysis, followed by an auto wreck, on return trip, after a short visit to Kansas.

I visited Cousin Jim and Amanda at Republic, only a few years after their marriage. To them were born two children: one son, Lester E. Cox, and daughter, Ethel. Both of them are now living in Springfield, Mo. Lester married, approximately twenty years ago, a daughter of Robert E. Lee of Springfield. For a number of years, Lester has been interested in radio work; and at the present time, as Company Manager, he has installed several broadcasting stations; two of which were in Springfield, his home town, one in East St. Louis; one in Kansas City; and one in Pittsburg, Kansas.

To Cousin Lester and wife were born two daughters; Virginia, aged 18 years and Catherine, 10; and one son, aged 16, who is now in school at Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga.

Cousin Lester comes to Washington, D.C., right often of late, on business relative to radio broadcasting. His address, 308 South Jefferson Avenue.

ETHEL COX, daughter of Cousin James Cox, married several years ago, C. N. O'Bryant and lived in Republic for a number of years. Recently they moved to Springfield, with their two children.

MINNIE COX DURHAM AND FAMILY:

Cousin Minnie, daughter of Uncle Jake Cox, was born in Indiana, 1868, and moved with her parents to Kansas, 1884. She married George Durham, and lived at Stafford. She died, 1932, aged 64; and her husband George, in 1938. To them were born 5 children: Blanche, Clyde, Willard, Mamie and Clifford.

Blanche married Harden Newell, and they live at Minneola, Kansas.

Clyde married Maude Nelson and now lives at Turon, Kansas.

Willard married Dora Pederson and lives at Turon.

Mamie married K. Sandburn of Stafford.

Clifford, married and lives near Stafford.

all deceased

Charles Eddie and William Leroy, two of Uncle Jake's children, died in infancy.

Emaline, daughter of Uncle Jake Cox, born 1866, in Indiana, was burned to death, aged 16.

Eva Line (Tep), daughter of Uncle Jake Cox, was born in Indiana, 1873, married James Marcum, and lived near Turon, Kansas. They had no children of their own, but reared 3 others.

Della May Cox, youngest child of Uncle Jake, was born in Indiana, 1876, and married Charles Amos, after moving to Kansas. To them were born one child: Eva May.

Eva married Milburn Shanks. They all live at Stafford, Kansas.

AUNT SCIOTHA COX BATES AND FAMILY: m. age 20 - 4 Feb 1855

Aunt Sciotha was my father's sister, and was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky. She married Mitchell Bates, who was also born there near Somerset , 1835. Only a short time after we moved to East Missouri, Uncle Mitchell and Aunt Sciotha moved there, about 1865, and lived with us, in our home. The house was a very large three-story all rock building. At that time, they had three children: Tom, Martha, and Doc.

Tom and Martha live at Hennessey, Oklahoma, and Doc Bates at Phoenix, Arizona. Tom Bates is married and has a married daughter, Vadio. She married Wennett McMillon. Martha married a Mr. Kuhn, and now lives with Tom and daughter.

Uncle Mitchell died there within a few years. Later, Aunt Sciotha married John Harrison, soon after the death of my father, 1870. John Harrison had worked for my father on the farm and had lived with us for several years.

To John and Aunt Sciotha (now deceased) were born: Nellie, Pauline, Perry, and Edward. Nellie married H. H. Paulson, and lives at 2118 West Charles, Grand Island, Nebraska.

DANIEL WINFORD COX AND FAMILY: named Amos Davidson son was Perry b. June 8 1859 d 1860

Uncle Winford Cox, brother of my father, William Perry Cox, was born 1840, at or near Somerset, Kentucky; and while there, when a young man, married; and to this union was born one child, Edward. Soon thereafter, they separated, and Uncle Winford, a few years later, went to Indiana, and then to Southwest Missouri; at which place, he married Jennie Fitzhugh, of Lawrence County, a school-mate of my sister Mollie, and lived near us.

After marriage, they lived for a few years at Wheatland Hickory County, Missouri; then moved to Weaubleau, a nearby town, and lived there continuously until Uncle Winford's death, 1920, aged 80 years.

After they moved to Wheatland, I never saw either of them again. However, brother Dan and family lived there near them at Weaubleau, for a number of years, and through him I often heard from Uncle Winford, Aunt Jennie and family.

Recently I have received two or three letters from Aunt Jennie, in which she told me of herself and family. She is now aged 80 years, and still lives at the old Weaubleau home, and has two married daughters, Lennie and Virgie, and a son, Albert. Albert Cox lives at Los Animas, Colorado. Lennie married Frank Gerber, and they now live in Rolla, Missouri. Virgie married a Gentry and now lives at Loveland, Colorado.

UNCLE JOHN BRENT COX AND FAMILY:

Uncle Brent Cox was a younger brother of my father, William Perry Cox, and was born in Kentucky, year 1849, at or near Somerset. In 1875, he married Safrena Belle Osborn (born April 7, 1856), and soon thereafter, they moved to Clay Center, Kansas, at which place, to them were born seven children: Olla Lee, John William, Maude May, Oscar, Martha Belle, Myrtle Anna, and Harvey Herman.

All seven children are now living. Later, Uncle Brent and family moved to Columbus, in Eastern, Kansas, at which place he purchased a large prairie farm, on which he and Aunt Safrena spent their closing years. Years ago, brother Dan and I made a short stop-over at Columbus, and met Uncle Brent out on his farm, 1½ miles west of Columbus, and talked with him only a short time; but promised a longer visit, on our return, following a short stay in Kansas City. However, it so happened our return route was changed. Uncle Brent died July 13, 1932, aged 83 years, and Aunt Safrena, his wife, had passed away, 1929. Both were interred at Columbus, Kansas.

Olla Lee Cox, Uncle John Brent's eldest daughter, was born Sept. 24, 1876, at Clay Center, Kansas, and married George Fielding Clark, Dec. 27, 1896, at Columbus, Kansas. Later they moved to Oklahoma, and now live in Oklahoma City, 714 N.W. 17th.

To them were born: Thelma Maude, Theresa Belle, Mona Emily, Lota Merle, and George F. Clark, Jr. John William Cox, eldest son of Uncle Brent, born 1878, at Clay Center, Kansas, and married Maude Juniper, 1902, in Hartshorn, Indian Territory. Address now Miami, Oklahoma, R.F.D. To them were born: Brent Cox and Fred Cox. Brent is married and has one child.

MAUDE MAY COX:

Maude May, second eldest of Uncle Brent's daughters, was born 1880, at Clay Center, Kansas, and married Newton D. Way, 1899, at Columbus, Kansas. They now live in Portland, Oregon. To them were born: Claude Way, Helen and Dale.

OSCAR COX, son of Brent Cox, was born 1882 at Clay Center, Kansas, and married Nova Ward, 1905, at Columbus, Kansas. They have one child: Claude Cox. Present address, Chehalis, Washington.

MARTHA BELLE COX, daughter of Uncle Brent, born 1885, at Clay Center, Kansas, and married John Shipley, 1910. They have no children and live at Randle, Washington.

MYRTLE ANN COX, daughter of Uncle Brent Cox; born 1889, at Clay Center, Kansas, and married George McAllister of Chehalis, Washington. No children; but have one adopted boy. They live near Bend, Oregon, Route 3, Box 261.

HARVE HERMAN COX, youngest son of Uncle Brent's family, was born 1887, at Clay Center, Kansas, and now lives on the old farm home, near Columbus, Kansas. At last account, he was still unmarried, and aged 53 years. Address: R.F.D. No. 8, Columbus, Kansas.

Recently, I have been in correspondence with a granddaughter of Uncle Brent (a daughter of Olla Lee Clark), whose name, now is Mona Clark Van Arsdale; who has been kind enough to tell me many things as to Uncle Brent's family: the children and grandchildren.

MONA EMILY CLARK, daughter of Olla Lee and George F. Clark, born in 1904, at Rossville, Oklahoma. Married Paul T. Van Arsdale; and they now live at Wichita, Kansas. I have received a photograph of herself and Paul, happily situated, in their new brick domicile. She writes me that she also is now preparing a record of the Cox family. Address: 439 South Roosevelt, Wichita, Kansas. P.T. Van Arsdale 623 N. Westlink 67212 AC 721-0682

GEORGE FIELDING CLARK, JR., youngest of the family, married and has two children. They live in Oklahoma City.

THERESA CLARK, second eldest daughter of Olla Lee and George Fielding Clark, married and has one grown daughter: Gloria Belle, aged 16 years. They all live at the home with father and mother, in Oklahoma City.

THELMA MAUDE, AND LETA MERL, whereabouts of whom I have no record except that one lives in Michigan and the other in Wisconsin.

UNCLE FRANK COX, a younger brother of my father, William Perry Cox, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, near Somerset, and lived there near Uncle Marcellus' home, and died, early in life, year about 1860.

UNCLE JAMES COX, my father's brother, was born and reared in Pulaski County, Kentucky. At an early age, near the beginning of the Civil War, 1861, he enlisted for service; and was wounded in a battle at Franklin, Tennessee; and was taken to a hospital in Nashville; and soon thereafter passed away.

UNCLE WILLIAM WADE HAIL AND FAMILY:

Uncle Will Hail, my mother's eldest brother, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, near Somerset; and continued to live there in the County. He owned a large 500 acre farm, four miles out from Somerset, on which he and wife, Aunt Margaret Gragg Hail, lived for a number of years; and until her death, 1883. To him and Aunt Margaret were born nine children. Following Aunt Margaret's death, Uncle Will moved from the farm to Somerset, that he might have better educational advantages for his children. After moving to town, Uncle Will engaged in Hardware and Furniture Business; and was interested for a time in a Flour Milling Company, of which he was President. He also continued to operate his farm.

Shortly after moving to town Uncle Will married Mrs. Mary J. Murfry, and approximately 12 years thereafter, 1895, Uncle Will passed away. Aunt Mary Hail, aged 91, now lives alone, at the old home there in Somerset.

Three years ago, my son, Aubrey, and I, on a return visit to Tennessee, stopped over at Somerset and met Aunt Mary Hail at her home. Of the nine children born to Uncle Will Hail and Aunt Margaret, only two are now living: Mrs. J. T. Hail Daugherty and a brother, Charles Bascom Hail.

Mrs. Daugherty: (Only living daughter of William Wade Hail), and husband J. T. Daugherty, now live on a farm near Monticello, Kentucky. They have only one child: a son, who is now married and is living in Monticello.

C. B. Hail, son of William Wade Hail, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, four miles out from Somerset, at the old farm home of his father and mother. In 1897, aged almost thirty years, he married Balzara Haynes of Pulaski County, and they now live in North Central Tennessee, at Oneida.

To Cousin C. B. Hail and wife, Balzara, were born three sons and two daughters; James Ronald, D. Melrose, Charles Paul, Marguerite, and Ruth Iris.

James Ronald Hail, Attorney-at-law-- eldest son of C. B. Hail, aged 39 years, married Miss Mackey, and now resides in Knoxville, Tenn. They have one son, aged 8 years. Cousin James is engaged in Law Practice; and for three or four years was employed in the T.V.A. D. Melrose, son of C. B. Hail, a younger brother of James R. Hail, is aged 35, married and in business with his father at Oneida, Tennessee. They have no children.

Charles Paul, youngest son of C. B. Hail, aged 27 years, unmarried and was an employee at Binghampton, New York; also while there he specialized in salesmanship. He is now located at Des Moines, Iowa.

Marguerite (daughter of C. B. Hail and wife, Balzara) married a Mr. Cecil. She took a business course at Lexington, Kentucky, and latter taught music; but is now an employee in the bank at Oneida, Tennessee. Her husband is a teacher, and is a graduate of the University of Indiana, at Indianapolis.

Ruth Iris, youngest daughter of C. B. Hail, has had three or four years of College work. She is a music teacher; and is now teaching in Knoxville, Tennessee, and is unmarried.

AMANDA HAIL BRYANT AND FAMILY: b 1829

Aunt Amanda Hail, sister of my mother, Cynthia Ann Hail, and a daughter of Christopher Hail and wife, Nellie Neal Hail, was born and reared in Pulaski County, Kentucky, near Somerset. She married Morgan Bryant, of Pulaski County; and not long after the death of her father, she and Uncle Morgan got possession of her father's old home, out four miles from Somerset on Mt. Vernon Road, at which they lived throughout life. Uncle Morgan died, 1890, and Aunt Amanda, eight years thereafter; both aged approximately sixty years. They reared a large family, only three of whom are now living; Mrs. Nannie Gilliland, Mrs. Jennie Sloan and Mrs. Parilee Shepard. Three others passed away only a few years ago: Mollie, 1929; Sam, 1935; and Belle, 1936.

A baby girl died in infancy, and 3 others in early life.

Cousin Nannie Bryant married H. A. Gilliland, in Kentucky, 1874, and moved to Walnut Grove, Mo., 1882; where she now lives. Her husband died there several years ago.

To them were born 5 children: Grover, Morgan, Alma, Nellie and Dora. The two sons are now deceased; Grover died a few years ago, at St. Louis, Missouri, leaving a wife, but no children. Morgan died 1928, in California, leaving a wife and four children.

Alma, Cousin Nannie's eldest daughter, married J. P. Wheeler, and to them were born three children: Hugh, Bertha and Gayle.

Alma lives near Greenfield, Missouri. Hugh died, 1935, in California, leaving a wife and one daughter. Hugh had served in a Medical Corps during the World War, and later owned and operated a Clinic in San Francisco. Bertha married and now lives in Long Beach, California. Gayle, the youngest daughter, married Dr. Harry T. McArris, a Methodist preacher, and lives in Denver, Colorado. They have two girls, eldest aged 16 years.

Nellie Gilliland married Calvin Wheeler, and to them were born two children: Ruby and John. Ruby Wheeler is married, and now lives at Doniphan, Missouri. John Wheeler, a brother of Ruby, is now an employee with a Bus Line, and drives a bus out from Springfield, Missouri, to Memphis, Tennessee.

Husband of Nellie, Calvin Wheeler, died in 1909, and in 1913, Nellie married Ornal Ball, and to them were born two sons; one, now aged 22; the other, 16. Nellie and husband, Ornal, lives near Walnut Grove, Mo.

Dora, Cousin Nannie's youngest daughter, married Jake Nail, and lives near Walnut Grove, Mo. They have no children.

Cousin Nannie, a widow, aged 84, lives with her daughters.

I have never seen any of Cousin Nannie's family except her daughter, Nellie; and she was then (1886), only a little girl about 8 years old. She and my mother on a return trip from Somerset, Kentucky, stopped over at Savannah, Tennessee, with me for a few days, one year before I married. Cousin Parilee Bryant Shepard, daughter of Aunt Amanda Hail Bryant, now lives at or near Tremont, Illinois. I have no further record of the family.

MRS. JENNIE BRYANT SLOAN AND FAMILY:

Cousin Jennie Bryant, daughter of Amanda Hail Bryant (my mother's sister), was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, near Somerset, 1872. She married George A. Sloan, and to them were born two children: Anna and Thelma. She is now a widow, aged 67, and lives in Somerset. Her husband died five or six years ago. She and daughter, Thelma, visited us here at 944 N. Pollard Street, Arlington, Virginia, July, 1937; when on a sight-seeing trip to the National Capital.

Anna, her elder daughter, married J. M. Blades, physician and surgeon. They have one child: Joyce, aged eight or ten years. They live at Butler, Pendleton County, Kentucky. Thelma lives at Covington, Kentucky, and has been Librarian in Covington City High School for several years.

Recently (last June 17) in passing through Oneida, Tennessee, and Somerset, Kentucky, I enjoyed a few hours visit at each place. We were at the home of C. B. Hail and met several of his family. At Somerset, we drove out to the family cemetery, with Cousin Jennie Sloan, and saw the old two-story house in which I first saw light, 80 years ago. We also enjoyed a real good dinner at Cousin Jennie's home. We then met and talked with Aunt Mary Hail.

AUNT HANNAH HAIL COX: b. 1812 b 1809

Aunt Hannah Hail, daughter of grandfather Christopher Hail, and a sister of my mother, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, and lived there near Somerset, until her marriage. She married Allen Cox, a cousin of my father, and lived on a farm 4 miles out from Somerset, adjoining a farm home, on which my father and family were living at the beginning of the Civil War, 1861. Aunt Hannah and Uncle Allen Cox passed away years ago. To them were born five children, namely: Sue, John, Elizabeth, Nannie and Marcellus, none of whom are now living.

UNCLE CHRISTOPHER HAIL AND FAMILY:

Uncle Kit (Christopher), a younger brother of William Wade Hail, was born in Pulaski County, Kentucky, and lived there for a number of years. He married a second cousin, Elizabeth Hail, daughter of Wesley Hail. He was successful in mercantile business there in Somerset for many years.

To him and wife, Elizabeth, were born fourteen children: only eight of whom lived to be grown. Late in life after all those had married, and moved from the county, and the state, he, too, closed out his business, and moved away. He and Aunt Elizabeth passed on several years ago. He visited my mother (his sister) in Southwest Missouri in 1875.

In last account we had of his children, one son William, was living in Columbus, Ohio; three married daughters, in Ludlow, Kentucky; two in Kansas City, Missouri; one in Danville, Kentucky; and another son whereabouts not known.

In conclusion, I wish to extend many, many thanks to all my relatives and friends, far and near, who have contributed the much needed information in the preparation of these short sketches of our Kin, now scattered to so many different states. A long list of my cousins, nephews and nieces, came to the rescue, in the hour of need, and for which I again thank you.

Errors and omissions to be overlooked.

(2) Mary's maiden name, FULLERTON, is inferred from the executors' bond filed Essex County, VA on 13 May 1714, in the matter of the estate of her father, James FULLERTON, deceased. One of the sureties on that bond was Mary's husband, John "HAILES," who presumably would not have been a surety on the bond if his wife had not been a daughter of the decedent. Dear Mrs. Kaurish:

I enjoyed talking with you about the Hail family last Friday (Oct. 29). If you are ever able to find out more precisely where on Pitman Creek Micajah Hail lived, I would be most appreciative. I did find a 1929 map of Pulaski County at the Filson Club in Louisville, but it did not show a Little Rock Creek joining Pitman Creek as described in the deeds I found at the courthouse.

On arriving home, I checked the family records and found this little history (copy enclosed) that Micajah Hail had written. The typescript was transcribed from a scrapbook he kept in his later years. I can't lay my hands on the scrapbook now, but as I remember, aside from the history it contained only newspaper clippings of no genealogical interest -- inspirational stories, poems and the like. If there is any more information there that might interest you, I'll send it later.

As he notes in the history, Micajah was the grandson of Stephen Hail (m.1767) and Nancy Arthur, and son of Thomas Hail and Jane Moody. Records compiled by my grandmother show Stephen Hail's dates as 1722 1742 -1812 and Nancy Arthur's as 1747-1817. Thomas (1770-1835) and Jane (1752-1847) were said to have lived in Culpepper County, Va. before moving to Kentucky in 1799. They were married in 1792, and Micajah was born in 1794.

The deeds in the court house show a transfer of 75 acres of land on Pitman Creek (near land apparently owned by William Zachary and Robert Cowan) from Thomas Hail and his wife Jenny (Jane) to Micajah Hail on March 28, 1829 (Book 7-I, p.34). The same land was transferred Oct. 3, 1859 from Micajah Hail to Saran Sloan. (I think Saran Sloan was Micajah's cousin, the daughter of his uncle Benjamin Hail -- at any rate, marriage records in the court house show that a Sarah Hail (b.1810), daughter of Benjamin Hail, married James Sloan (b.1805), and we see from Micajah's account that one of Thomas Hail's brothers was named Benjamin.) Micajah's oldest son was Granville Hail, who, also on Oct. 3, 1859, sold property on Pitman Creek at the mouth of Little Rock Creek to John M. Hail. The land was sold to Granville in 1853 by Anderson Gilmore -- both transfers excluded the "mill tract", with mill pond and mill house.

(Book 13 p.[illegible])

In that year, 1859, the Micajah Hail family moved to Missouri according to our family records, born out by their selling their land as above. The records indicate that they settled near Fillmore, Mo. in Andrew County. Micajah had married Elizabeth Vaughn (b. 1803 in Hanover County, Va., moved 1805 to Madison County, Ky.) in 1821. Their daughter, Martha Bell Hail (b. 1846) was my great-grandmother. She married James Whitehead Powers in Leavenworth, Kansas in 1867. Micajah died at the home of another daughter, Sarah (Hall) Keyes, [illegible] on July 7, 1879. Elizabeth Vaughn Hall died in 1858, so that Micajah must have been a widower at the time of his move to Missouri in 1859.

(d.1894)

I could tell you a lot about Martha Bell Hall Powers' life after she married, but doubt that it would be of much interest to you. Briefly, she and her husband had four children, one of whom, Grace Powers Gray (1873-1951) was the mother of their only grandchild, Martha Bell Gray Helms, my mother (1904-1979). I am the oldest of her three children (b.1930). My brothers are James Randolph Helms (b.1934) of Bristol, Tenn., and Matthew Pendleton Helms (b.1941) of Knoxville, Tenn. My grandmother, Grace Powers Gray was born in Salina, Kan., 1873, married the Rev. Jesse Alexander Gray in Gainesville, Tex., 1902, where my mother was born 1904. My mother was married to Jacob Randolph Helms in Bristol, Tenn. in 1927.

I am also enclosing a copy of a letter written my grandmother by her Uncle Thomas Hail when she was researching for her UDC membership. It may be of some interest.

Hope to hear from you.

Sincerely,

Grace Hagedorn

Recollections of Micajah Hail, about his ancestors, from the year 1804 to 1874.

The four or five families, of which I am to speak, claim their ancestry from Adam and Eve, old enough, and about as good as any. Adam and Eve were certainly a little better than a majority of their offspring; more moral, better Christians. It is said that they repented of their sins, prayed to be forgiven, that Jesus presented their prayers to his Father, and requested that they be forgiven, which request was granted. Adam was our representative. We have all joined Adam's party as sinners against God and many have not repented.

My grandfather, Stephen Hail, married Nancy Arthur and moved from Eastern Virginia to Bedford County Virginia in an early day. They had seven sons and three daughters; Thomas, James, William, Stephen, Laban, Benjamin and John, Anna that married Robert Woodcock, Susannah who married William Kemp, and Sarah who married William Johnson. Stephen Hail was of honest report, a thrifty, plentiful farmer, and a good citizen. His house was a place of resort for his children and also for the neighbors, so much so that his home was called the center of the world. This shows his popularity as a neighbor. I remember seeing a large turkey hanging by a cord before a hot fire, from the mantle, to barbecue or roast or cook a vessel while churning was going on, a vessel nearly full. His wife was an exemplary woman, an affectionate wife and mother an excellent housekeeper. They were both members of the Baptist church. His property at his death amounted to about $2200.00. John Moody, my mother's father, married Susannah Ames. He was an honest, well to do farmer. They had four sons and four daughters; George, Samuel, John and Martin, Jane who married Thomas Hail, Mary who married Stephen Hail, Lucy that married William Shadowen, and Elizabeth who married William Humphries. John Moody was an honest temperate, steady, industrious man. He was sometimes called "Sobersides". He went on the dam of his grist mill in time of a freshet, with his son of about 16 or 17 years old to raise a flood gate to release the mill. The dam gave way and threw the old man into the stream and he was drowned. His son, as he went down, caught the lever on which they stood and was hanging by his hands to the pole over his head, the surging roaring water immediately beneath. He had the strength and activity and good luck to elevate himself to the upper side of the pole and walked on the broken crags of the dam to land. In a few minutes the mill was washed away. When daylight appeared, it discovered to the weeping family that the husband and father had sunk to his death in the destruction of the mill. Stanton river was about a quarter of a mile away to receive his body, but it was recovered and buried among the tears and love and sympathy of all who knew him. His property at the time of his death was worth about $27000.00. No debts. His wife was in every way a very worthy woman and a member of the Baptist church.

Samuel Vaughan, my wife's father, of Hanover County Virginia, married Morning Hope. They moved to Madison County Kentucky about 1805 and to Pulaski County in 1808 and to Russell County Kentucky in 1820. They had five daughters and one son: Francis who married John Zachary, Temperance who married Abraham Sublett, Mary who married John Dogan, Margaret who married William Buster, and Elizabeth, who married Micajah Hail, and John the son, who married Elizabeth McFarlin. Samuel Vaughan was of honest report, a good citizen, an industrious farmer. In his young days, he read more than ~~XXX~~ common farmers. He was good company, that is a good conversationalist, of good information, and he was a good neighbor. If a man wronged him or deceived him, he wished never to have any more dealings with him. His wife was an affectionate wife and mother, a good housekeeper, a pious member of the Baptist Church. His property at his death was worth about $2700.00 or $2800.00

(No. 2)

Thomas Hail married Jane Moody, daughter of John and Susannah Moody. He was a farmer and blacksmith. Few, if any, ever lived a more plentiful, contented, happy life, than my father. He took everything more easily and patiently than many others, and thereby shunned much uneasiness. He would hold a good argument with any person for hours rather than give up faith, and the principals and practice of the Baptist Church, of which he was a member. They had three sons and three daughters: Micajah, Silas and Gideon, Sarah, Matilda and Jane. Sarah married John Cundiff. Matilda married Tubal Doss; besides two sons, William and Joseph, who died young, and one daughter, Nancy, who died at about eight years old.

If I can say anything suitable about your more immediate connections, I am willing to do so. I am writing this scrap-book solely for my offspring, and they believe what I say. That stops all about veracity. Your father and mother were married on the 11th day of February, 1821. Your mother when married, weighed 131 pounds. She lacked nearly two months of being eighteen years of age. She was five feet six inches high. She was light of foot and innocent as a spotted fawn of the forest, as cheerful and happy as the singing birds of the woods. She was an affectionate wife and mother, a true friend, a good housekeeper, a kind neighbor, and a pious professor of the Baptist Church. She was as industrious as any bee in its hive. We had four sons and ten daughters: anville, John, Samuel, Thomas, Mary, our oldest daughter, who married Andrew Newman, Eliza who married John Taylor, Sarah that married Horace Keys, Lucy Ann who married Samuel Campbell, Louisa Ellen who married William McClure, Robert Fulton who died at about 19 years, Pamelia who married David B. Powers, Martha Bell who married James W. Powers, Emeline who married Reuben Gossett; six of my ~~XXXXXXX~~ daughters and two sons were living at our last report. Twelve of our children have been immersed in Baptism and thus joined the church, this 6th of November, 1874. Our ancestors appear to have been blessed with the answer to Agur's prayers in those three or four items: they were not more vain than others, or rather had no vanity, they did not tell lies, had neither riches nor poverty, see Proverbs 30 - 8 - 9, they did not take the name of God in vain as a practice, in fact I seldom if ever heard a member of one of the five familes spoken, use or speak a profane oath. In using the word vanity in relation to my ancestors above named, my meaning is that they were not proud extravagant fops, were not self conceited.

~~The~~ above was written by our grandfather Micajah Hail.

(1851-1926)

John William Maxey, a son of Josiah and Mary (Shrewsbury) Maxey, was born on 13 October 1851, in Mercer Co., Va. He was enumerated in his parents' household in that county when the 1860 and 1870 censuses were taken.

On 15 December 1878 John married Nancy Jane Meadows (born 3 March 1859). They were living on the farm of John's father in 1880, in the Rock District of Mercer County. (In 1863 Mercer County was embraced by the new state of West Virginia.)

In the division of the estate of his father, John received 103 acres next to his mother's dower land.[1]

John died on 7 January 1926, and Nancy Jane died on 30 October 1948. They are buried in the Maxey Cemetery on Corn Bread Ridge near Spanishburg along with their children Mary Ella, Edward and Samuel Clyde.

Son Clyde and his wife Elizabeth had the following children: Nancy Jane, who married Theodore Wieciech; John William; Roxie Lucille, who married Roger Thompson; Lois Ann, who married Donald E. Rosenow; Harriet Eunice, who married Billy Gene Doel; and Laura Elizabeth.[2] Elizabeth and her son John were very active in the Maxey Family Association which met for many years in Spanishburg, W.Va., and Roanoke, Va.

Children of John W. and Nancy J. (Meadows) Maxey:

827. JOSIAH MAXEY, JR.
(1781-18)

Josiah Maxey, Jr., a son of Josiah and Phebe ( ) Maxey, was born about 1781 in Bedford Co., Va. He was listed in the personal property tax records of Franklin Co., Va., from 1802 through 1804, from 1817 through 1820, and in 1840, 1841, 1847 and 1848.

Josiah married Elizabeth Ferguson, a daughter of Jeremiah and Jemima Ferguson, on 3 November 1810, in Franklin County. He served as a private in Capt. William Lane's Company, 5th Regiment of Virginia Militia from 10 March to 29 June 1814.

On 18 November 1833 Josiah, like his brothers, sold to

Thomas Dudley for $75, his right, interest and claim to the land which he held as a legatee in the estate of Josiah Maxey (Sr.), deceased, and Phebe Maxey.[1]

Josiah left Virginia for awhile and was located in the 1830 census of Pulaski Co., Ky., where his brothers Walter and Boze had married many years earlier. As mentioned above, Josiah was found in the personal property tax records of Franklin Co., Va., in 1840 and 1841, but Elizabeth was recorded as head of household in the 1840 census of Pulaski Co., Ky. It would appear that they were divorced, or in any case separated.

Elizabeth had been identified as a daughter in Jeremiah Ferguson's will dated 19 November 1828 and proved by witnesses on 26 January 1829. It provided that after his wife's death his property was to be divided among his children.[2] Elizabeth Maxey's brief will, dated 1 August 1842, made mention of her father's will and of her mother Jemima's recent death. Elizabeth appointed Christopher Hail (Hale) to act on her behalf for the benefit of her children (not named) and to collect and divide among them anything that was due her from her father's estate.[3] Elizabeth's daughter Jemima administered her mother's estate and was the main purchaser at the sale of her personal property held on 31 May 1843.[4]

It was noted that Josiah, age 70, was living alone in Franklin Co., Va., when the 1850 census was taken. When Josiah appeared at the Franklin County courthouse in 1850 to apply for the bounty land due him for his service during the War of 1812, he gave his age as 65. Yet in 1855 when he applied for additional bounty land under the new act, he stated his age was 72.

Josiah and Elizabeth seem to have had three sons and two daughters, based on the early census reports, but they have not all been proved due to the fact that there was also a Sarah Maxey (relationship not known) living in Pulaski County from 1830 who had children. Thus the multiplicity of Maxeys there frustrates identification.

8271. JEREMIAH MAXEY
(1826-1850)

Jeremiah (Jerry) Maxey, a son of Josiah and Elizabeth (Ferguson) Maxey, was born about 1826, probably in Pulaski Co., Ky., where his father was located as head of household in the 1830 census.

On 12 September 1844, in Pulaski County, he married Eliza Jane Baker, a daughter of James and Jenny Baker.

STEPHEN HAILE,SR. of BEDFORD CO,VA. & PULASKI CO?KY.

The first authentic story or history we find of Stephen Haile, was on July,26th.1768,he bought from Barnabas Arthur and his wife Elizabeth of the County of Bedford, for forty pounds one certain parcel of land now in the tenure of the said Stephen Haile,on both sides of Chadock's Creek containing by estimation two hundred and fifty acres,being the upper part of a tract of land granted by patent to Wm.Haynes,bearing date March 3,1760 (Bedford D.B.4 page 172.

In Bedford County Deed Book 15 at page 58 Stephen Haile of the State of Caintucky on the 26th. day of Sept,1809 made release of same to Barnabas Arthur. This sale was after forty years,and after Stephen Haile's removal to Pulaski County,Kentucky. which was about 1806,and was perhaps the land formerly bought from Barnabas Arthur.

In Order Book 1782, Oct,1783 " Ordered that Stephen Haile be appointed Surveyor of the road from Anthony's Quarter to Fork of Green's road and the hands as per list filed are required (ordered) to attend the said Surveyor,keeping the same in order.

No military record is found of Stephen Haile,Sr. but at a court held for Bedfrod County,May 27th.1782,at the house of David Wright, present Robert Ewing,Wm.Calloway, Wm.Grigg and James BufordaGent. Cross Scruggs,Wm.Leftwich;

Stephen Haile proved that he furnished ye sd.Com'y 250 pounds of beef for which he was paid 16/8 sts.

Stephen Haile died in Pulaski County,Kentucky,about Feb,1815 where stands the city of Lexington. She met and married William McGavic and settled in Fleming County, where she passed the remainder of her days. James Vansant was a consistent and faithful member of the Presbyterian Church of Flemingsburg, Ky.

VERNON L. VAUGHN was born in Estill County, Ky., May 3, 1863. His father, John W. Vaughn, was born in Clark County, Ky., in 1839, has followed farming and school-teaching all his life, and now resides in Estill County, on a farm. He is a son of Samuel Vaughn, also a native of Clark County, a well-to-do farmer, and a son of Elijah Vaughn, a native of Virginia, who settled in Clark County at an early date. John W. Vaughn was married, about 1860, to Miss Ann Stewart, of Powell County. To this union were born nine children: Mattie, Vernon L., Joseph, Mollie, Troy, Samuel J., George W., Bessie and Hood. Vernon L. was brought up on the farm, and received his education from the Elliott Institute, Madison County, Ky., and Nelson College, Cincinnati, O. In 1882 he commenced school-teaching, which vocation he followed until 1885, and in August, 1886, was elected county clerk of Estill County, on the Democratic ticket, and is the present incumbent of that office. He is a young man of good moral character, and has always been regarded as sober and industrious. He is a member of the F. & A. M. fraternity.

O. H. WADDLE was born in Pulaski County, Ky., March 4, 1851. He is a son of William and Maria (Ham) Waddle. William Waddle was born in Pulaski County, Ky., in 1825, of which county he was deputy sheriff for two or three terms, was constable for a number of years, and has served as magistrate some time, in which latter capacity he is still acting. He resides three miles from Somerset on a farm. His parents were William and Sallie (Waddle) Waddle; the former, a native of Garrard County, Ky., was a farmer all his life. Mrs. Maria (Ham) Waddle was born in Pulaski County, a daughter of Adolphus and Mahala (Hail) Ham. Adolphus Ham was a native of North Carolina, and followed agricultural pursuits. O. H. Waddle was educated at the common schools and at the Masonic College, Somerset, Ky. In 1872 he began the study of law with Judge T. Z. Morrow, and was admitted to the bar in 1873. He then went to Louisville, Ky., and attended the Law School, from which institution he graduated in March, 1874. He subsequently returned to Somerset, where he has since been actively engaged in the practice of his profession. He practiced in partnership with Will C. Curd for about eight years, since which he has been alone. January 20, 1875, he married Miss Mary Austin Hail, of Somerset, Ky., a daughter of J. W. and Lucy (Phillips) Hail. Of the eight children born to them seven are living, viz: Edwin M., Robert B., Kate, Lucy, William, Grace and Andrew. Mr. and Mrs. Waddle are members of the Christian Church. Mr. Waddle is a member of the I. O. O. F., has been Noble Grand and represented his lodge in the Grand Lodge. He votes with the Democrats.

W. A. WADDLE was born in Pulaski County, Ky., October 24, 1858, and is a son of William and Maria (Ham) Waddle. William Waddle, also a native of Pulaski County, was born in 1825; he served as deputy sheriff of his native county two or three terms, was constable for a number of years, and is now magistrate, in which latter capacity he has served several years. He resides three miles from Somerset on a farm. His parents were William and Sallie (Waddle) Waddle, the former of whom, a native of Garrard County, Ky., was a farmer all his life. Maria (Ham) Waddle, also a native of Pulaski County, is a daughter of Adolphus and Mahala (Hail) Ham. Adolphus Ham was born in North Carolina, and was also a farmer by occupation. W. A. Waddle received his education at the common schools and at the Masonic College, Somerset, Ky. He was reared on the farm, and was an extensive stock-dealer until 1876, when, in partnership with his brother, John H., he opened a general store in Somerset, and has since devoted his entire time to mercantile pursuits, under the firm name of Waddle Bros. December 12, 1873, he married Miss Bettie C. Curd, of Louisville, Ky., a daughter of L. and Rebecca (Woods) Curd. They are the parents of two children, Norman and Lance. Mrs. Waddle is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Mr. Waddle is a member of the K. of H., was Grand Dictator one term, and in political preference is a Democrat.

JOHN H. WADE, M. D., is a native of Carter County, Ky., was born June 18, 1848, and is a son of Alfred and Mary (Rucker) Wade, who were born in Prince Edward County, Va., and Carter County, Ky., respectively. His maternal grandfather, Elza Rucker, was born near Richmond, Va., came to Kentucky after having served in the war of 1812, under Col. Croghan, at Fort Sandusky, and died here in 1855. Alfred Wade was born in 1825, was a merchant and farmer, and died in 1848. Dr. John H. Wade was reared in Catlettsburg, to which place his widowed mother had removed about the year 1851, and at which place she still lives. In his childhood years the Doctor was taken care of by an uncle, John Clark, a Scotchman by birth, a merchant and a pioneer of eastern Kentucky, whose death took place in December, 1863. The Doctor received his elementary education in the schools of Catlettsburg, and read medicine there under J. D. Kincaid. Subsequently, in 1872, he graduated from the Louisville Medical College; he began practice on the Big Sandy, and in 1879 settled in Ashland, Boyd County, where he has since been actively engaged in his profession. May 11, 1876, he married Miss Kate Geiger, daughter of William L. Geiger, of Ashland. The Doctor is a Knight Templar, and in politics is a Democrat.

GEORGE W. WAIT, a merchant of Somerset, Ky., was born in Somerset, July 19, 1850. He is a son of C. and Mary (Newell) Wait. C. Wait was born in Massachusetts in 1792, and located in in Somerset, Ky., when a young man. He manufactured salt five miles from Somerset for a number of years, and for many years was engaged in banking. He represented Pulaski County in both houses of the Legislature for four or five terms, and took an active part in educational matters. He was regarded as one of the best citizens of eastern and southern Kentucky; he died in 1868. Mary (Newell) Wait, a native of Pulaski County, is a daughter of John M. Newell, a native of Virginia. G. W. Wait is the second of six children, viz: John, George W., Frank, M. F., H. C. and Maggie. Mr. Wait received his education at the common schools and at the Masonic College, Somerset, Ky. In 1872 he opened a general store in Somerset and has ever since been engaged in mercantile pursuits, under the firm name of Wait Bros. February 24, 1874, he married Linn S. Sanders, of Pulaski County, a daughter of G. W. and Jane (Long) Sanders. Six children have blessed their union, viz: Cy, Ed, Harry, William, Clark and Kinkade. Mrs. Wait is a member of the Baptist Church, while Mr. Wait affiliates with the Presbyterian. In politics he is Democratic.

JAMES M. WALDECK, a practicing physician of West Liberty, Morgan County, Ky., was born in Morgan County, March 19, 1841. His father, Alexander S., a native of Lewis County, Va., was born in 1813, and settled in West Liberty, Ky., about 1836; he was a tanner by trade, which he followed in connection with farming all his life. About 1837 he married Miss Rhoda Maxey, a daughter of Colvil and Leah (Cassity) Maxey, of Bath County, Ky. To their union were born the following children: James M., Leab, Sarah J. Amessetta D., Luella, Margaret E. and Alexander D. James M. Waldeck was reared in West Liberty, receiving his education at that place and Mount Sterling. He began the study of medicine when quite young, and had just commenced active practice when the late war broke out. In 1862 he enlisted in the Confederate army, Company B, Twenty-fifth Wisconsin Regiment, and served until the close of the war, most of the time, however, acting as surgeon. After the war he resumed the practice of medicine at West Liberty, which he has since continued very successfully, and is now regarded as one of the leading practitioners of his profession in eastern Kentucky. March 18, 1868, he married Miss Perry A. Howerton, a daughter of Perry and Sarah A. (Cottle) Howerton, of Morgan County. They have nine children, viz: James A., William W., Lou E., Mary B., Curran M.,

Dear Melanie,

I have read over your letter and the enclosures you sent on your Hail/Haile family several times. I do agree that you have very strong evidence that Christopher was a son of William & Susannah (Maxey) Hail and not of Stephen, Jr.

If a man died intestate his wife was usually appointed to serve as administrator. Quite often if she was unable to do this (for health reasons, etc.) she relinquished this right to her eldest son or son-in-law. Also, it's not uncommon for a widow and son to serve together.

I have a suggestion that might help you prove it. See if you can secure the microfilm (through a branch of the Mormon library if you're near one) of the Court Order Books* (sometimes referred to as Minute books) of the period in which he died. (They may or may not be indexed, so you have to go through each page.) Quite often heirs would be named if there were slaves or other valuable property to be disposed of. It's the only way I've proved relationships in many cases.

I have heard from very few people who were descended from Hail/Maxey marriages. The few I did were so long ago -- I've been doing this for 20 years -- I can't remember who they were. I have a few pages of marriages, abstracts of wills (Francis, Richard, Stephen, Sr.), etc., so I know who you're talking about to some extent. There were a lot of men with the Hail name in Bedford & Franklin Counties, so you just about have to research every one.

Sorry I can't be of more help, but good luck with your search.

Sincerely,
Edythe
Edythe Maxey Clark

P.S. Susannah Maxey was a daughter of Josiah & Phebe (?) Maxey, and not of his first wife.

A Genealogical History of the Descendants of Edward and Susannah Maxey

82. JOSIAH MAXEY

(17 -1793)

Josiah Maxey, a son of Walter and Mary ( ) Maxey, obtained a grant of 455 acres in the county of Bedford, Va., on the waters of Gills Branch on 1 September 1780.[1] This land became part of the new county of Franklin when it was formed in 1785.

There is no evidence that he served in the Revolution although he would have been of an age to do so.

Josiah first married a daughter of Barnabas and Martha (Talbott) Arthur. The will of Barnabas Arthur, dated 2 March 1815 and proved on 20 July, left his grandsons James and Barnabas Maxey each two pounds.[2] However, he did not name a Maxey daughter in his will, and so we have deduced that the mother of James and Barnabas was deceased long before the Revolution and that Josiah had remarried. The death record of Josiah's daughter Mary, who was born about 1779, gave her mother's name as Phebe; and Mary had at least two brothers and a sister who were born before she was.

On 12 February 1787 Josiah Maxey and Phebe, of Franklin County, sold to Matthew Agee, 415 acres of his patent land for 20 pounds.[3] In 1791 his father willed him the 200 acres on the Blackwater River where the Josiah Maxey farm was located.

In his rather brief will dated 2 August 1793 and proved two months later, Josiah left Phebe his estate during her natural life or widowhood, and after her decease his land and personal property was to be divided equally among his children; each to have a share equal to what his sons James and Barnabas Arthur Maxey already had. The will was witnessed by Hail Maxey (a nephew of Josiah), John Epperson and Richard Booth.[4] Besides James and Barnabas, Josiah had 12 children by Phebe. The last, Ozias, was only an infant when Josiah died.

In order to settle the estate of Josiah's father, Walter Maxey, Sr., Thomas Kemp (husband of one of Josiah's sisters) appeared at the January court of Franklin County in 1798 and was appointed guardian of the minor children of Josiah Maxey: Polly, Lucy, Sally, Walter, Boaz, Jeremiah, Pheby, Josiah, Jr., and Ozias Maxey.[5]

The widow Phebe lived for many years after the death of her husband as evidenced by a deed in Franklin County dated 29 June 1833 in which James and Sally Maxey, because of money owed to local merchants, conveyed their interest and right as legatees to a "tract of land belonging to the estate of Josiah Maxey decd. lying on Blackwater, it being the same tract where Phebe Maxey now resides."[6] There are similar deeds on file involving Jeremiah, Josiah, Jr., and Ozias, which indicate they also were in a state of debt.[7] This eventually culminated in 1847 in the sale of the 200 acres on Blackwater that Walter had willed to his son Josiah, plus his remaining 40 acres of patent land. Commissioners were appointed by the court to represent Thomas Odineal, plaintiff, versus the children of Josiah Maxey who were defendants: Barnabas, James, Zebedee, Walter, Boaz, Jeremiah and Ozias Maxey, Polly Agee and her husband*, heirs of Jabez Maxey dec'd., Thomas Shrewsberry and Lucy his wife, Edmond Hatcher and Mary his wife, Levi Agee and Sally his wife, and Susannah Hale. Missing from the list of heirs was Josiah, Jr., although he was still living at that time. Also listed as a defendant was Thomas Dudley to whom the land was sold at auction for $3,300.[8] Thomas may have been a husband of deceased daughter Phebe, but no marriage record has been located to substantiate this.

Walter

Walter Maxey, a son of Edward and Susannah ( ) Maxey, had no original patent land of his own but, by the terms of his father's will, received after the death of his mother one-half of the Virginia plantation on which they lived in Goochland County (later Cumberland County). In 1748 his brother Sylvanus, who had moved over to Albemarle Co., Va., deeded the remaining 200 acres of the patent to Walter.[1] He lived on this land until 10 December 1762 when it was sold to Creed Haskins for 390 pounds.[2] This important deed reads, in part, as follows:

> ...400 acres of land...on the South side of James River...beginning at a corner white oak of John Radfords land on Jones' Creek thence South 100 chains to a corner black oak in a bottom of Fighting Creek thence East 160 chains to an oak thence North 100 chains to a corner oak on Radfords line thence on Radfords line 160 chains to the beginning it being a tract of land granted Edward Maxey by Patent bearing date of 17th day of August 1725 and left to be divided between Walter Maxey...and Sylvanus Maxey by the last will & testament of Edward Maxey bearing date the 18th day of April 1737 Sylvanus Maxey's part conveyed to Walter Maxey ...by deed bearing date the 12th April 1748.

Walter then moved with his family to that part of Bedford Co., Va., which in 1785 became the county of Franklin. The terrain in this area of Virginia is quite different from the original Maxey settlement on relatively flat country west of Richmond, the former being rocky and mountainous and quite verdant, reminding the compiler somewhat of the Welsh countryside. Walter purchased from Samuel and Grizel Smith 528 acres on the west side of the Staunton River and the north side of the Blackwater River for which he paid 420 pounds in two separate transactions on 20 August 1763.[3]

Walter was the last surviving child of Edward and Susannah and without question left the largest number of descendants, many of whom still reside in the area. The original copy of his will (text follows this sketch) as well as other records relating to the probate of his estate are still on file at the courthouse in Rocky Mount.[4] An amusing item in one of the accounts of executor Jeremiah Maxey in 1798 was a charge for a quart of whiskey "for the use of my mother." The children mentioned in Walter's will were Josiah, Jesse, Walter, Jeremiah, Lucy Cowden, Mary Adde, Susannah Syllivan(t), Jane Craghead (dec'd.) and Esther Camp(Kemp).

On 8 May 1798, seven years after the death of Walter and perhaps right after his widow's decease, a suit was brought into court by the children and heirs of Walter in order that a commissioner be appointed to dispose of 130 acres on the Staunton River owned by Walter at his death.[5] A settlement of Walter's estate was further complicated by the fact that Josiah, a son, had died two years after his father, leaving a large family. In 1799 commissioners appointed by the court -- Jeremiah Maxey, John Craghead (husband of Jane Maxey), and Thomas Kemp (husband of Esther Maxey) -- sold the above 130 acres to Thomas Leftwich for 400 pounds, and the proceeds were then distributed to the heirs.[6]

We have nothing to corroborate some earlier genealogists' claims that Walter had more than one wife. We note that the name of his wife in 1763 (when she relinquished her right of dower to the land in Cumberland County) was Mary; that was also the name of his wife when he wrote his will in 1791.

The following letter appeared in the Maxey Family Reunion Bulletin in 1961 written by Mae A. Maxey of Hardy (later Vinton), Va., now deceased:

"The Maxey Cemetery containing the [unmarked] graves of Wal- Maxey, Sr., who died in 1791 and near kin...is located on the old Maxey plantation on a sloping hillside overlooking Blackwater River in Franklin Co., Virginia. Their remains are to be removed and reinterred on a plot at Mt. Ivy Baptist Church which is a very fitting location as it is in the general vicinity in which they lived and died and also more accessible to travel. Their peaceful slumbers are being interrupted by the rising waters of Smith Mountain Lake formed by a dam that is being constructed a few miles below by Appalachian Power Company. All expense of plot, removal and reinterment is being taken care of by the Power Company. Descendants of this brave and courageous tribe of Maxeys are scattered in many states now and a few in foreign countries."

Children of Walter and Mary ( ) Maxey:

+ 82. JOSIAH MAXEY; d.1793, Franklin Co., Va.
+ 83. JEREMIAH MAXEY; d.1810, Oglethorpe Co., Ga.
+ 84. JESSE MAXEY; d. ca.1808, Sumner Co., Tenn.
+ 85. WALTER MAXEY, JR., b.9 July 1745, Goochland Co., Va.; d.7 Oct. 1828, Jasper Co., Ga.
  86. MARY MAXEY; m. Walter Addy.
  87. LUCY MAXEY; m. William Cowden.
  88. SUSANNAH MAXEY; m. John Sullivant.

A study of the Haile family that came to the State of Virginia when it was a colony.

The facts used in writing this study were taken from material found in the Sutro Library in San Francisco and from a few other sources. Work is not complete in the sense that no one has as yet exhausted sources of information that may be found at the county court houses in old records yet existing.

Should anyone be interested in continuing this work I think that there will be found something about Stephen Haile, Junior, at Macon, Missouri. At Bedford, Virginia there was made mention of many Hailes and the will of Francis Haile is ~~not~~ here included. In Caroline County of that state a study of property records may reveal in what year he sold his property there and moved to Bedford County.) Also records there may show when he bought in the latter county.

This should be an interesting study for anyone who has the time and money for the work. To date I have done all of it myself and I may or may not continue with it. If not, I am presenting to my family now and to my descendants who come after me such information as I have collected in hopes that there will be some who will want to know more about his ancestors who came to this country in the early days.

The Ancestors of Francis Haile

The most romantic theory is that Francis was one of the numerous descendants of Nicholas Heale (once spelled Hales in an old record book.) of Lancaster County, Virginia, and that he was a descendant of a distinguished English family from Kent. whose original Nicholas lived long ago. There is no proof.

Nicholas Heale and/or Francis may have descended from another Kentish family, that of Nathan Hale, whose ancestors came to Massachusetts. Members of that family may have come to Virginia. This, too, is rumor.

Thomas Haile, a boy, one of the very early pioneers, may have been the founder of the family of Hailes of Isle of Wight County, Virginia.

The Sagasers of Dakota say an old aunt remembers the Hails speaking of Francis coming from Connecticut. My husbands' family of Hales lived there for centuries. My grandmother claimed my father-in-law, Charles Hale as a relative, as he closely resembled her Hail relatives.

— Margaret L. Hale

What's in our name? Spell it
Haile, Hail, Hayle, Heale, Haehl,
It's an old, old name
And it rhymes with vale.

Long, long ago people probably had no names. Then they were given just one. There was Adam and his wife, Eve; Abraham and his son, Isaac; Jesus of Nazarath, whose disciples, Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, wrote books about his life. But, as the population of the civilized nations increased, more than one name was needed for identification.

In the Scandanavian countries a baby christened John, after his father, would be known as John Johnson. A girl named Annie, whose parents came from Lockerbie, a small town in Scotland, would be known as Annie Lockerbie. A man named Mark, who was a blacksmith, became known as Mark Smith, and, in time, the last name was passed on to his descendants, and was also given to his wife, in English speaking countries, to name one, and with it alone we are concerned.

The name Hale was found in old records that extend as far back as The Conquest, when William crossed the English channel, had himself crowned King of England in 1066, and, in 1086, had the names of his subjects written down in a record that exists to this day. This was for the purpose of taxing the inhabitants. In it is the name, "Heal," meaning a nook.

It is just possible, since King William gave most of the good land of conquered England to his Norman friends, that the Hales came originally from France. But after the invasion it was found that, during the thirteenth centuries, in the central counties, that it had become fashionable to precede a given name with a Latin or French preposition and follow that with a word indicating the location of his home.

The preposition might be either French or Latin. In Huntingdonshire is found "juxta Hayle", meaning, "near the hall." In time the preposition was dropped and the name became Hale. In Essex County in England is found "atte hale,", meaning "from a nook." The name, "Nicholas en la Hale", was found on the Subsidy Rolls for Worchester, and may be found in a four volume work published by the Worchester Society from 1893 to 1904.

Other early uses of the name, found in other records, are: William de Hales, in 1180; Robert attehal, 1212; Morus de la Hale, 1214; John del Hale, 1220; Nicholas en la Hale, 1275; John in the Hale, 1296.

"De is the French word meaning from; "atte" is the Latin. Hale is the dative case of the word meaning "a nook, a narrow or secluded or remote valley" Sometimes the plural form of the word was used, perhaps to indicate that the family came from or owned more than one such valley. Where that valley was, no-one knows. That, as is the case with many other things we should like now to know, has been lost in the mists of time.

There are, as has been seen, different spellings of the name. Some who study this branch of learning, believe that there are different origins of the name. Some think that it came from the Welsh name for moor, "hal." Others suggest that "Haile" may have come from the weather, as do. Snow and Storm. It is in the north of England and in Scotland that the latter spelling is found. Whether or not this is true, no one knows. It may be just the miserable spelling of those days of the clerks who wrote down the names of people who could neither read nor write.

The clerks of colonial America were equally indifferent to good spelling. A man who does genealogical work in Virginia wrote me that in an old document he had seen his last name spelled in three different ways, and the clerk had the same name! It is no wonder, then, that we find Hale spelled first Heale, then Haile, and Hale or Hales. Actually, Hales seems to be the correct name of our family, having been spelled in that manner for centuries.

In the following court order from Lancaster County, Virginia, for January, 1657, is found this spelling: "Court at James City order paid to ---------- 50 lbs tobacco in satisfaction of his Ministry among them. (vis:t) Collect from (list of names) and Nicholas Hales.

This item not only spells the name differently but indicates that it might have been the custom in some districts to consider the first name the important one and the last name merely an identification of his dwelling.place. However, the clerks were not consistent in even this. "Nicholas hale records his mark of cattle and hogs. Mary hale Daughter of the sd. Nicholas hale her mark. Nicholas hale sonne of ditto."(Court 9 Sept. 1663)

Hele and Heale are very common place names in Devon; less frequent in Somerset, and occasionally noted in Hants, Wilts, Worcs, and Surrey.

This surname is from a residence in a nook or secluded place, from ME heles or from OE heale, the dative singular of healh, corresponding to the Anglican dative Hale, the origin of the name Hale.

HELE. Hele, Heale, or Heal, is a manor in the parish of Bradninch, co. Devon. The pedigree commences with Sir Roger De la Heale, who was lord of Heale, temp. Henry III.

Matthew Hele, of Holwell, co. Devon, was high sheriff of the county the year of Charles the Second's Restoration, 1660, and so numerous and influential were the family that he was enabled to assemble a grand jury all of his own name and blood, gentlemen of estate and quality, which made the Judge observe, when he heard Hele of Wisdom, Esq. called—a gentill seat in the parish of Cornwood—' that he thought they must be all descended from Wisdom, in that they had acquired such considerable fortunes.' THE HAILE FAMILY IN VIRGINIA

I cannot tell you from which part of England came the Hailes, who spelled their name in that way, except to say that a study of old English names claims that this way of spelling it was probably quite distinct in origin from that of the name Hale, and was used in early days in the north of England and in Scotland, and probably is a name taken from the weather, such as Snow. Again, the experts may be wrong and it may be that it is just a variation in spelling in the days when spelling was not as constant as it is today. So I shall include in this writing the fact that Hale, a Norman name, signifies those who came from a recess, as a narrow, secluded valley. It was originally written "atte Hales" or de Hales. It could be just an older spelling of Hall. At any rate, though its origin may be lost in the mists of time, it is an old, old, English name and was carried to a new land as it had in the eleventh century been taken from Normandy to England. At least the name Hale was.

A descendant of the California pioneers claims that all of the Virginia Hailes are of one family, and that this also includes the Hailes of Tennessee and of Kentucky, to which states some members later migrated. It is from the last branch that my family is descended for Stephen Hail (e) of Kentucky came to that state after his marriage and later went to Missouri and there died.

I do not know the name of the first Haile who came to this country. A record I found at Sutro Library gave a list of those living at West and Sherlow Island on February 16, 1623, includes the name of Thomas Haile, a boy. A query to the College of William and Mary states that it should have been written West and Shirley, and gives the location of that settlement which was founded in 1613, just six years after the founding of Jamestown in Virginia, the founding of the first permanent colony by Englishmen in the new world. It is not far from Jamestown, just up the James River a few miles and located on a point of land directly across from the spot where the Appomattox River enters into the James River. A description of that settlement is to be found in a booklet by Charles E. Hatch, Jr, and entitled, THE FIRST SEVENTEEN YEARS, on pages 47-49.

If that boy, Thomas Haile, was the founder of his line in Virginia, then he was indeed one of the first to come to the Old Dominion. We do not know who his parents were. It is possible that they died as did some of the others on the voyage or in the first difficult years. Or he may have come with relatives. We do know that Hailes were living in and around that area for a long time after that and that the name Thomas was used frequently by the family. In March of 1779 a Captain Thomas Haile of Henry County was appointed a captain in the Continental Army.

From records taken from the same county we find that a Joseph Haile was ordered to join Captain Haile's company and to go to the assistance of General Green. In 1782 Thomas Haile of that county, probably the one above mentioned, was paid one pound and six shillings for three gallons of corn he sold to the Continental army.

It is possible that the first Thomas married and had children in this new world. Some strayed from the original colony after the first terrible years when many starved to death and even ate insects and bark of trees in order to survive. There was much need of protection against the savage Indians who after a time bitterly contested the right of foreigners to take their land. We find that a Captain Richard Haile, of the County of Essex, on the 26th of October, 1694, was granted 720 acres, "lying in the forest between the Rappahannock and Mallaponey river. Adjoins Goodman's land, the line of Robin's by an old Indian path in a slash, the land of Major Robert Whale and Daniel Swellvant," 23 September 1674, the remainder being "plush land." Due for importing 6 persons. (Va. Colonial Abstracts Book 8, page 8.)

At that time land was granted to those who would advance to immigrants the costs of passage to the new world. The land was, as in England, usually left to the oldest son. We find that Captain Richard Haile left his land to his son, John, who may or may not have been his only child. After a time the son decided to sell some of the land, and payment, as was not unusual at the time, was reckoned in tobacco. There follows a deed, signed by John Haile of Essex County. "To all exparience ppoell to whom these presents shall come, I, John Haile of the County of Essex, son and hare of Capt. Richard Haile, diseased send greetings." After that he sells to John Loveing for 2000 lb of tobo 100 Acres in King and Queen co; being part of a greater tract "granted to my father, Capt. Richard Haile, lying part in Essex Co. Boundaries isuweth out of Beverley run, that cometh out of Mattaponey river, adjoins a portabago path," etc. Signed, John Haile. Witnesses: James Edmondson, Joseph Edmundson (All expareinced popell--all Christian people.) (Original spelling)
(VA. COLONIAL ABSTRACTS, ESSEX COUNTY P. 7)

From existing records I have found that the Hailes before 1800 were not scattered all over Virginia, but were to be found except for Captain Thomas Haile and Joseph of Henry County, in three distinct areas. I base this on records of marriages, deaths as shown by wills, tax lists, census, and other count records.

The first area is located at the mouth of the James River, not far from Jamestown. This area was divided into counties with names that honored places in England. We find Isle of Wight County that was named for the island south of England, Norfolk County, and ~~wel as~~ Princess Anne County, named for a King's daughter. Several families named Hail and Haile lived in Isle of Wight County and their wills show some records of this, according to a book entitled "Isle of Wight County Wills," 1647 to 1800. This may have been the same family and just a of the variations in spelling to be found in early records. There are three volumes of this book. If records were kept before this there are no existing records now.

Book III John Hail, noncupative--proven by May Burnett and Elizabeth Howell, authorized Richard Matthews to be his executor and gave him his little daughter and two youngest sons, Samuel and Thomas. He died April 23, 1714.

Book II Elizabeth Hail mentions her daughter, Mary; her son, Thomas; grandson, Joseph Haile; daughter-in-law, Hannah Haile, (wife of John?); daughter, Sarah; son, Joseph. Executor: son John. She died October 16, 1756. Witness: Tabatha Haile

Book II Edward Haile names his widow, Elizabeth, his executor. He had a son, Benjamin (a will of a Benjamin Haile was filed in adjoining Sussex County in 1799.) Sons: Edward, Joshua, Samuel, Joel, James, Reuben, Jesse; daughters, Rebecca and Naomi. He died on September 19, 1757. Witness: Thomas Haile Book I John Haile the Elder had a widow, Hannah. He had a son, John, diseased; sons Simon and Joseph, grandsons, Lawrence and Edy. After his wife's death the property is to go to Simon and Elizabeth. He died on January 1, 1792. Witness: William Moody. Hannah may be the daughter of John Morris of Portsmouth (died 1772) who had daughters Hannah Haile and Elizabeth Haile.

Book I Hannah Haile is ~~probably~~ not the widow of John Haile, the Elder. She wills property to a son, Simon, and a daughter, Olive Haile. ~~(Olive may have been born after the above will was written)~~ She died on April 19, 1791.

---------Haile was the daughter of Richard Thomas (who died in 1761). It is possible that this daughter, whose name is not legible, moved with her husband from Isle of Wight County to Essex County and there left decendants who bore his name, for a Richard Thomas Haile there filed his will in 1795. He had a grandson with the same name. This is just a guess.

The second group of Hailes was to be found farther north in Virginia in the counties bordering the Rappahannock and the Mattapony Rivers. These are King and Queen, Essex, and Caroline Counties.

On page one it is written that Captain Richard Haile was granted land in Essex County and willed it to his son, John. Over the years a number of wills were filed by other Hailes. Johathan, 1737; Jno, 1744; Jno, 1761; Mary, 1753; Edward, 1756; Richard Thomas, 1795. (sues)

In the U. S. Census of 1790 heads of families in Virginia in 1783 are listed for Essex County. The following Hailes are listed: John, 1 white and 1 negro slave; Lewis, 1 white; Richard Thomas; Wheeler, 1 white and 1 negro; and in King and Queen, Lewis.

A number of Hailes were listed as married in Essex County. John married Sarah Aldridge in 1811; John A., whose father was Benjamin, married Mary Ball in 1848; John L. married Elizabeth Rouse in 1849; Richard L. married M. Alexander in 1816. His father also was Benjamin; Robert married Mary Burke--faher, Robert G. Haile and Elizabeth, mother; Robert married May Coghill in 1844, and William married Lucy Jones.

Captain Robert G. Haile, 6th Virginia Regiment, fought in the War of 1812. He was inspector of tobacco from 1816 to 32. He was then school commissioner in 1845 and died May 12, 1862.

Captain Robert G. Haile, Junior, fought in the Confederate Army and was mortally wounded at the battle of Gaines Mill, in 1862. His portrait hangs in the court house of Essex County.

Lieutenant John Haile of Company F also fought in the C.S.A. he was later Judge of the Justice Court. He died in 1893.

William Haile, M.D. was acting surgeon C.S.A. Died in 1899.

A Thomas Cox and his wife, Ann, affirm that she is the only surviving daughter and heiress of John Haile, diseased, at ffarnham Parish in County of Essex. They sold 100 A.

A William J. Haile attended William and Mary College. He may be the doctor mentioned above.

~~A Francis Haile lives today at Dunsville in Essex County.~~ today she is ~~a school girl.~~

In nearby Caroline County, according to a book called COLONIAL CAROLINE, lived a Francis Haile in 1732. His name is among those owners of slaves brought into the country under the age of 16, registered with the county in accordance with the law. He had just one slave of that age. In 1765 we find, in the same county , we find a Francis Haile again listed. The old or inform were excused from working on the roads or from paying a tithe or tax. He is listed, but whether he is the same Francis who is our ancestor I do not as yet know.

GEOGRAPHY AND COLONIZATION OF VIRGINIA

Before we discuss the third group of Hailes in Virginia let us talk about the colonization of Virginia, for the seacoast was settled before the interior where Bedford County is located, and where we find that Francis Haile died and filed his will in 1780.

It was only after twenty-two years of futile effort to found a permanent colony on Virginia's shores that Jamestown was finally founded on the sandy shores of Cape Henry in 1609. After that for eighty-seven years the infant colony struggled to gain a foothold and build a nation of British blood in the heart of an inhospitable wilderness. Every acre was gained at incredible cost, for a fierce foe, sullen and intractable, lurked in the fringes of the forest.

After that time had passed there came a fruitful time when the land yielded generous harvests. The pioneers pushed westward, hungry for more and more land. Mile by mile they felled the forest; year by year they gathered their crops. They established simple governments, administered justice, and protected the homes filled with happy, healthy children. Only a virile people could have won against such odds.

Finally the settlers reached the Blue Ridge Mountains. Large old grants of land were divided to make new counties. Bedford County was formed from Lumenburg County in 1753. It was named as so many of the Virginia counties were, for shires or lords in England. Bedford was named either for the shire of that name or for John Russell, the fourth Duke of Bedford. New London, the county seat of the old county, was retained. In 1742 there were probably no more than fifty settled families in the whole region south of the James River and west of the Blue Ridge. Here the only Indian trouble was from Indians travelling from north to south through the territory.

The pioneers in this area were intelligent, industrious, public-spirited citizens from older communities of the oldest American province. They came here, bringing with them household goods, farming equipment, livestock, shop and mill equipment. Having arrived, they proceeded to transplant and develope their former type of civilization in a new environment. They had the hardihood to withstand the ravages of frontier life. It was to flower into the highest type of rural life produced in American history.

Here, at the forks of the way from north and east, was the cradle of that later civilization that made West Virginia, Tennassee, and Kentucky, famous in American history. In no sense were these people crude backwoodsmen. John Marshall's statement applies to them: "Those who explore and settle new countries are generally bold, hardy, and adventurous men, whose minss as well as bodies are fitted to encounter danger and fatigue. Their object is the acquisition of property and they usually succeed.

The first colonies of Virginia were located on the coast in what is known as Tidewater Virginia. East of that is the Piedmont Plateau, the Blue Ridge Highlands, and east of the Blue Ridge, the Valley of Virginia. Just east of the Blue Ridge one finds Bedford County. The land gradually rises as it approaches the Ridge. Here are gently rolling hills and deep river valleys.

The James River on the north makes a natural boundary line, as does the Staunton on the south. On the east the Blue Ridge Mountains rise to their greatest height for here are two high twin mountains known as the Peaks of Otter, the highest mountains in the southern states.

The soil of this region was originally fertile but eventually the repeated growing of tobacco injured it. It was also one of the best cattle growing areas of the state. Just when

Canterbury Cathedral

Hales Place was the ancient home of the Hales. It was located in Halden in the county of Kent. In about A. D. 43 the Roman Emperor Claudius decided to bring Britain into the Roman Empire. He easily defeated the native Celts. There is a story that Pope Gregory I saw some fair-haired English slaves in the market place in Rome and sent St. Augustine to England to convert this beautiful people to Christianity. Augustine landed in Kent in A. D. 597, converted the King of the Jutes, and built a church near Canterbury, which has been called "the Mother City of the Anglo-Saxon Race."

A splendid cathedral was begun there in 1070 and completed in 1503. During at least part of that time the Hales lived in Kent and must have watched from generation to generation. Canterbury became the seat of the Archbishop, the head of the English church. During the reign of Henry II the churchmen declared that they could not be tried in the King's Courts. The Archbishop, Thomas à Becket defied the King. It is not known whether Henry knew their plans but four of his knights forced their way into the cathedral and killed the Archbishop on December 29, 1170.

Public outrage was so great that in 1174 the king was forced to make a pilgrimage to Canterbury to do penance at the shrine of Thomas, who had been declared a saint. It became the greatest of English shrines. Many pilgrims came there. Chaucer's Canterbury Tales is based on these people.

THE FIRST HALES IN ENGLAND

The Hales of the thirteenth century would have dressed in the manner of the father, mother, and child, above, left. Their long, flowing robes were no doubt easily made and appear little different than those worn in Bible times. According to a record of the landed, entailed estates of England, ordered in 1574, and called the visitations, Nicholas Hales was the first owner of Hales Place in Halden. These Hales were a younger branch of the Hales of Woodchurch. Just how the property was acquired, I do not know just now. Perhaps it was Edward III who gave it to him. He ruled England from 1327 to 1377. He claimed that he had inherited the throne of France through his mother and landed an English army in Normandy. He won two brilliant victories but the war went on and on. It became known as the Hundred Years War. Edward III, known as the Black Prince, died in 1377 and Richard II ruled in his stead.

The English people and Parliment objected to the frightful cost of the war. In 1381, Wat Tyler led a Peasants' Rebellion. His followers captured the Tower in London. The Hales were prominent at that time and Sir Robert Hales was the Lord High Treasurer of England and no doubt hated for the money he squeezed from the people. He was beheaded. King Richard demanded the right to rule alone but the country turned against him and he was forced to abdicate in 1399. He was the last of the Plantagenet kings.

THE LINE OF NICHOLAS HALES, MASTER OF HALES PLACE, HALDEN

NICHOLAS Hales suddenly became heir to all of his brother's estates when Sir Robert was illegally assassinated. Under the system of primogenitor the eldest living male heir inherited all of the entailed land (which could never be sold) and most of the family wealth and jewels. Sometimes the father, could, should he choose, provide for the others, but often the younger sons turned to the professions or went abroad in later years. So, as it is said, "It is an ill wind that blows no body some good." So Robert's death was a boon to Nicholas.

We know that all of this is so because in both 1574 and 1619 envoys came to all estates of the nobility and enscribed the names of the owners and their ancestors in documents preserved in the British museum to this day and known as the VISITATIONS.

THOMAS, we find, unless the record erred, was the only son of Nicholas. He became the owner of Hales Place and the father of three sons: John, Henry, and Thomas.

JOHN inherited the estate but, as he had no male heir, it went, on his death to Henry, his father's second son.

HENRY had two sons, Thomas and John.

THOMAS , the heir, had one son,Christopher.

CHRISTOPHER, KNIGHT, was attorney general under Henry VIII. He had no male heir and the property went to the son of his father's brother, John.

JOHN, Junior, was a baron of the exchequer. He owned another estate in Dongeon in Kent. Hale's place was to him just another estate.

THE HALES WHO LIVED IN TUDOR ENGLAND

Sir James Hales was the eldest son of John. He inherited the family estate and married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Hales of Henley-on-Thames, and by her had two sons, Humphrey and Edward, and a daughter, Mildred. He was a prominent lawyer of the day. He was among those chosen to receive Anne of Cleves on her arrival in England to become the 4th wife of Henry VIII in 1540. He was created knight on the coronation of Edward VI; judge of the common pleas; a commission to stamp out heresy; a commission to examine and reform ecclesiastical laws, etc. The king wanted Sir James to affix his seal to a document which would prevent his half-sisters, Mary and Elizabeth from inheriting the throne, but he refused to, saying that only parliament had that right. Edward died and Mary was queen, and a staunch catholic who became known as "Bloody Mary" because of the many protestants who were executed during her reign. Sir James showed his regard for strict legality by declaring at the assizes in Kent that the laws against any non-conformists were still in effect. Because of this he was committed to the Kings Bench Prison. In prison he was so upset with arguments of visitors who attempted to dissuade him that he tried to committ suicide. He recovered and was discharged in April of 1557, but he went mad and drowned himself in a shallow stream near Canterbury. His goods and chattels had been seized and confiscated. Shakespeare wrote this: "Sir James is dead, and how came he to his death? It may be answered by drowning; and who drowned him? Sir James Hales; and when did he drown? in his lifetime. So that Sir James Hales being alive caused Sir James Hales to die; and the act of a living man was the death of a dead man." All of this quibbling was no doubt written as a result of lawsuits that arose after his death in which the question arose as to whether the forfeiture took place from the date of the suicide or not.

HUMPHREY inherited his father's estate. Apparently the property could not be seized. He married the daughter of Robert at Water. In the record of the first visitation in 1579 his children were: Sons: 2. Samuell, 3. Humphrey, 4. John, 5. Robert. Daughters: Margaret, Mary, Sussanne, Elizabeth. CHENEY was the oldest son, CHENEY had but one son, James.

THE VISITATION OF KENT IN 1619

When the record was made in Kent in 1574 an heir to Sir James had been found in the person of the eldest son of Edward, the brother of Sir James and the father of Humphrey.

JOHN, he was, married to the daughter of Robert Horne. His brothers were Robert and William and Edward. His sisters were Elizabeth and Jane.

Forty-five years were to elapse between the visit of 1574 and that of 1619, when the new monarch, James, was king. The second document reviews the history of the family from the beginning. Both are written in Latin. Variations: Thomas is in the 2nd named as a son of Humphrey. Only three children are listed: James, Humphrey. The others must have died. A new name was Abigall.

WILLIAM, son of John, was heir. All of John's sons must have died. William married Elizabeth Johnson. Son: Edward. Daughters: Elizabeth and Mary.

EDWARD married first, Martha Carew but there were no children. His second wife was Deborah Harlakenden. At the time of the Visitation of 1619 they had two sons: John, aged 16; Samuel, 10.

No other visitations were ever made. There is a gap of but a few short years between 1619 and the time Nicholas Hale came to Virginia and yet no one has been able find the line of descent for him. There must have been many, many Hales in Kent by that time. He was doubtless descended from a line that did not inherit, but who was part of the landed gentry of the county.

It is very likely that the visitations aroused the interest of the Hales of Kent in the ancient history of their family. The long unused name of Nicholas was on their lips again. One among them proudly gave it to his son. And so history repeated itself and Nicholas, the immigrant to America, in turn became the father of a line as long as that of his progenitor.

Dear Mrs. Hale,

October 10, 1968

I believe That Hales Place, Halden, no longer stands but after some wandering around your letter finally reached another Hales Place in Kent, whose owner sent it on to me (as he is not a Hales). I am afraid you are wide of the mark altogether as I think The name has always been Hales or Hayles & never Hale. However it is possible that in America it became Hale & I think you might have an interesting time trying to discover This? ~~Etc~~ A John Hales of Halden (died 1571) moved to Coventry England & Tho' That branch of the family is extinct in The male line (so far as we know) some younger sons may have gone to America I suppose? The attractive American patriot Nathan Hale came from Coventry, Connecticut. I know that Towns in America were often named by settlers from the Towns in England That They came from & I wonder if you might not have an interesting time pursuing This line of inquiry? If you discover any connection I would be interested to hear of it and would reciprocate with such information as I have about The English background. There were once a good many Hales Places but most of their wealth & property was lost in The Stuart cause. (The existing Hales Place is very attractive, but is not in any sense a mansion & there are no postcards of it & I don't possess a photograph.) (But in any case if your husbands name never (Tudor) quite large — from Anne Hales (Mrs. Edward)

Ah, Nicholas, I do miss Kent. It is so far away. So far! I fear I shall ne'er see England again.
Look not to the past, Mary. Virginia is now our home. Our sons will cut the forests and build fine homes for themselves, too. Their children will know no other world.

ALE - HALE of LANCASTER

The found[illegible] of this family in Virginia was Nicholas Heale (sometimes spelled Hale) who patented 500 acres in Lancaster June 1, 1657 upon the N.E. side of the N.W. branch of Corotoman Run, opposite to the plantation of Henry Davis, being ½ of a patent granted Enoch Hawker July 29, 1652 and purchased by said Heale. Renewed Feb. 9, 1653. (C.P. 346) It was renewed May 18, 1666 for the 500 acres, plus 238 acres due Mr. Heale for the transportation of 5 persons. (C.P. 561)

George[2] Heale, who succeeded to Nichols' property and evidently his son, married Ellen --------, last name unknown. He was a Justice in Lancaster in 1684-95. In 1697 he served as a Burgess and died the next year. His will was dated Dec. 30, 1697, proven Jan. 12, 1698. His legatees were son-in-law, Mr. William Ball and children: 1. Nichols; 2. George; 3. John; 4. Joseph; 5. Ellen. His wife, Mrs. Ellen Heale, made her will in Lancaster Oct. 15, 1716, proven Dec. 13, 1710. In addition to the above children she named: 6. Elizabeth; 7. Sarah; 8. WILLIAM (See later); 9. Hannah, wife of Captain William Ball. Elizabeth m. William Davenport Nov. 26, 1728. Sarah m. Newman Brockenborough in 1715. Ellen m. Opie. William was born after the making of his father's will. (17 W (1) 203, 299)

William[3] Heale, son of George[2], lived in Lancaster Co. where he married Priscilla Downman, daughter of William Downman and Million Travers, daughter of Colonel Raleigh Travers. (See travers herein) William Heale's will was dated Feb. 6, 1731-32, proven in Lancaster. His legatees were: wife, Priscilla; brother, Joseph Heale and his former wife, Elizabeth; brothers, George and John Heale; Mrs. Pinkard, his wife's sister; son GEORGE[4] HEALE (See later); dau. Betty Heale who later married July 1749 Kendall Lee. (17W (1) 298)

George[4] Heale, born Sept. 8, 1726, died April 1808, in Fauquier Co., Va., married Sarah Smith, Jan. 22, 1746/7 in Lancaster Co. She was a daughter of Phillip Smith of "Purton", Gloucester Co., Va., and a granddaughter of Col. John and Mary (Warner) Smith of Gloucester. (See Reade herein.) Mrs. Sarah (Smith) Heale was born Dec. 28, 1732, in Northumberland Co., and died after Aug. 1797 in Fauquier Co. George Heale was a Burgess from Lancaster in 1759 but moved a few years later to Fauquier Co.

Children:

I. William Heale, b. 1748; m. Susannah Payne
II. George Heale, b. 1750; d. before 1757
III. Joseph Heale, b. 1751; d. before 1770
IV. Philip Heale, b. Apr. 18, 1753; m. Catherine Douglas (See later)

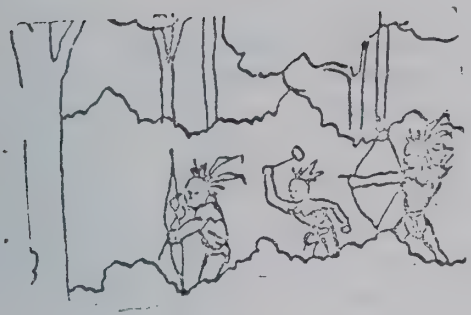
Volume 2

NICHOLAS HEALE AND EARLY VIRGINIA



The records of the earliest days in Va. are very scanty, and of those that are now in the archives at Richmond, only about ten per cent have been published, so it is difficult to find all of the records that we want of those days. Many thousand died and no account of them is to be found.

Some facts are known. For 87 years the infant colony with its headquarters at Jamestown struggled to gain a foothold and build a nation of British blood in an unhospitable wilderness. Every acre was gained at incredible cost, for a fierce foe, sullen and intractable, lurked in the fringes of the forest. A great catastrophe struck the colony, where it extended along the James River, on March 22, 1622, in the form of a well planned and carefully executed massacre by the Indians under the crafty leadership of Opechancanough, the successor to Powhatan. At least a fourth, if not a third of the residents lay dead. When it was over a count was made of all the survivors. None were killed at the West and Shirley Hundreds, and among those living was a Thomas Haile, listed as a boy. There were no others of his name living there. He is the first Hale, possibly, to come to America. Whether he is of the same family as Nicholas, we do not know. We do know that in the lists of wills of that area in Virginia there are several Hailes with the same given name. There is the will of John Hail, noncupative. It was proven by May Burnett and Elizabeth Howell, and it authorized Richard Matthews to be his executor and gave him his little daughter and two youngest sons, Samuel and Thomas. He died on April 23, 1714. (Book III Isle of Wight County Wills, 1647 to 1800). Elizabeth Hail mentions her daughter, Mary; her son, Thomas; her grandson, Joseph Haile; her daughter-in-law, Hannah Haile; her daughter, Sarah; son, Joseph; and her executor, a son, John. A witness was Tabatha Haile. She died on October 16, 1756. (Book II, see above) Thomas Haile witnessed the will of an Edward Haile who died in October of 1756. (Same book as above) and other Hailes are also listed.

If Thomas, and that is listed as being a popular name among the Kentish Hales, did write to England he may have influenced Nicholas enough to cause him to come to Virginia. At any rate he did come and he settled first in Elizabeth City County, near the James River, with his wife, Mary, and his sons and at least one daughter, Mary.

We find in the records that tobacco was first grown at West and Shirley Hundreds at a very early date, and Nicholas as well as many of the planters became rich and prosperous in so doing. The land was rich and fertile for Tidewater lands were built up over millions of years from silt washed down into the ocean by the rivers.

The known sons of Nicholas and Mary were George, John, Francis, Joseph, Nicholas, and Mary, who married Henry King. They married and their descendants spread all over the Tidewater, and, later, to the west, as, mile by mile land was cleared and made into prosperous plantations.

NICHOLAS HEALE

It may be noted that when the names of the members of the Nicholas Heale family are used they are followed by "Gent." This, of course, stands for gentleman. It meant that they were of the upper class, so to speak, as were many of the colonists of Virginia, but that they did not have any other title. Yet they soon acquired vast acreage and were accepted by the others in the upper brackets of society. Heales married members of the Ball family, a very fine one, maternal ancestor of George Washington.
In a list of early Virginia immigrants, compiled by George Cabell Greer, are listed a number of Hales who came from England. Following the namea are ther names following the word "by." The by usually means that the passenger had had his fare paid in exchange for his headright, of 50 acres of land. In other words, any one who would bring in another person and pay his fare would receive 50 acres. If a person paid his own passage he would receive the 50 acres and might sell it to someone else if he wished to do so.

Barbara Hales came to Virginia in 1651, but must have paid her own way; Edward Hale came in 1653 by Col. Wm. Clayborne (the Sec. of State); James came in 1651, by Capt. Stephen Gill of Northumberland Co; Thomas came in 1652 by Richard Longe; Nicholas Hale came in 1653 by John Maddison of Gloucester Co.; Thomas came in 1652 by Richard Hill of Northampton Co.; Ann came in 1641, by Thomas Morrey of Isle of Wight Co.; Nathaniel came in 1653 by James Turner; Lew came in 1636 by John Gater, Elizabeth Co., Susan, 1637, by Capt. Thomas Panlett, Charles City Co.; and Thomas, in 1638, by John Gater, Lower New Norfolk Co.

Evidently Nicholas did not remain long in Elizabeth City County, where he is first supposed to have gone. Perhaps he stayed with relatives when he came, in order to look around for the best location. He patented 500 acres in Lancaster County on June 1, 1657, "upon the N. E. side of the N. W. branch of Corotoman Run, opposite to the plantation of Henry Davis, being ½ of a patent granted Enock Hawker July 29, 1652. Renewed Feb. 9, 1653. (C. P. 346) It was renewed May 18, 1666 for the 500 acres, plus 238 acres due Mr. Heale for the transportation of 5 persons. (C.P. 561)

On page 224 of Lancaster County Records is found this item: "Wm Wroughton of Carotoman in Co. of Lancaster having leased to Nicholas Hale and Robert Pollard, land, etc, extends lease ten years from New Years day next." (This is a long and complicated legal instrument) It was dated 18th of July 1661, and signed "Nich Hale Robert Pollard" It was witnessed by Hen. Ward and Will Thomas.

Some years

[illegible] Nicholas Haile, who lived in York County [illegible] signed some documents in 1654. He signed his name with his initials, N. H. He was a member of the Va. House of Burgesses and died in York County in 1657.

MARY TRAVERS HEALE AND HER BROTHER, RAULEIGH TRAVERS

There seems but one hint to date as to the maiden name of the wife of Nicholas Heale, the immigrant. Some years ago Mrs. Earle McKellar, of Redding, California, came across a brief item which stated that a Rev. Mr. Travers, of England, had remembered, in his will, his daughter, Mary Heale, and Rauleigh Travers, of Virginia. Mrs. McKellar had not recorded where she came across this and now the item can not be found. It is unfortunate that it was not, for if there was a clue as to where Rev. Travers lived, a search of the local records might also give us a clue as to where Nicholas lived as a young man. It is fairly clear from early Virginia records that Rauleigh did live in Virginia and not very far from Lancaster County.

Someone has written an article about the Travers (Traverse, Travis) family. It is to be found in Volume 2 of Historical Southern Families by John Boddie, pages 253 to 257. The author studied the records of early Virginia but did not know the relationship between Mary and Raleigh.

The author states that Raleigh was the first of his family in Va. He patented 300 acres of land on the southside of the Rappahannock River, about two miles from the plantation of Mr. James Bagnall, on March 9, 1653, for the transportation of 6 persons, and on Dec. 29, 1662, he patented 300 on Morattico Creek. On Oct. 24, 1665, he patented 3350 acres on the south side of Potomac River.

His wife was Elizabeth, the former wife of Thomas Stevens, who, on August 17, was granted, in 1654, the administration of her deceased husband's estate in Lancaster.

Apparently there was another Travers in Virginia at the same time, for Elizabeth Travers gave a power of attorney to her nephew, William Travers to convey her rights in the Travers mill to her "couzen," Mr. Will Travers, to be her lawful attorney and to acknowledge to John Chinn a quarter right in the mill.

Raleigh Travers had 20 tithables in the Lancaster list of 1668 and the same number in 1669. He was a Burgess from Lancaster 1657, 1663--66, and 1669, and a Justice in 1656. He appeared in court last in 1670 and an inventory of his estate was filed in 1671. He died intestate. (Elizabeth married six times in her life.)

The children of Raleigh and Elizabeth were John, b. abt. 1656; Raleigh, b. abt. 1658; Giles, b. abt. 1660; Elizabeth; and Million.

Million married William Downman, who died in Richmond in 1712. His will was dated May 11, 1711, and probated June 4, 1712. His children were: Raleigh, Robert, Travers, William, Million, Elizabeth, & Priscilla.

Priscilla married William Heale, son of George Heale and his wife, Ellen. William was the son born after his father's death. It would seem, then, that Priscilla was the second cousin of William, and so descendants of that line are doubly related, and the information about the Travers is of more than passing interest to them.

The information on this page is not complete, but abbreviated.

THE TRAVIS FAMILY OF VIRGINIA AND ENGLAND

THE following pages are included not because they prove that the Travis family is related to the Heale family by marriage, but because it is material that may help to prove it if at some time someone wishes to work on it. For this is without doubt the family of Raleigh Travers of Virginia that was left property by the will of Rev. Travers of England. Which clergyman he is is still a mystery.

EXCURSUS—TRAVERS.

The names TRAVIS and TRAVERS appear early in Va. archives. They pro. had a common English origin Travis does not occur in Burke's General Armory. Traves and Trevis occur once as same name. Travers and Trevor occur frequently, but not with same arms.

Edward Travers rec'd 1080 a. in Va. Feb. 27, 1643. (L. Bk. II., 364.) This was pro. the Edward Travis noted as Burgess from J. City Co., 1644. (Hen. I., 283.) Edward Travers, "sone and heire" of Edward Traverse, dec'd, rec'd 326 a. on J. City Is. Feb. 10. 1663, said land having been pat. by Edward Travers, Sr., Mar. 10, 1653. (L. Bk. V., 342.)*

The Travers records from Lanc'r, Rich'd and Stafford Co.'s, Va., are too incomplete to make a positive deduction possible. There were apparently "three brothers" of the name in these counties in the 17th century, i. e., Colonel William, whose will names his brothers, Rawleigh and Samuel. Mr. R. M. Conway held tenaciously a tradition that Rawleigh Travers, his ancestor, was son of a Giles Travers. I have carefully searched all published English records at hand to find some foundation for this tradition, with the result here given.

There was a Giles Travers in Staff'd Co., Va., 1708, but his name may have come from the Hussey or Cole connexion, as will be seen.

The Travers family of Nateby, Co. York, Eng., trace to a Travers ancestor whose name is on the Battle Abbey Roll. Arms, "a chevron betw. 3 escallops," and "a chevron betw. 3 boars' heads couped."

The Travers family of Surrey has not these arms, although it may have the same ancestors. In the Surrey line occurs Giles Travers, Esq., who certainly was not the father of Rawleigh Travers of Va., unless the latter was disowned for coming to Va., but he may have been of the same immediate family. (Her. and Gen. IV., 109.)

A grant of 900 a., Chickpook's Cr'k, to Edward Travis, cir. 1737, states that 200 a. had previously been granted to John Johnson, with Walter Travis among the head rights. The names Edward, Champion and Edward Champion Travis occur in early Va. records.

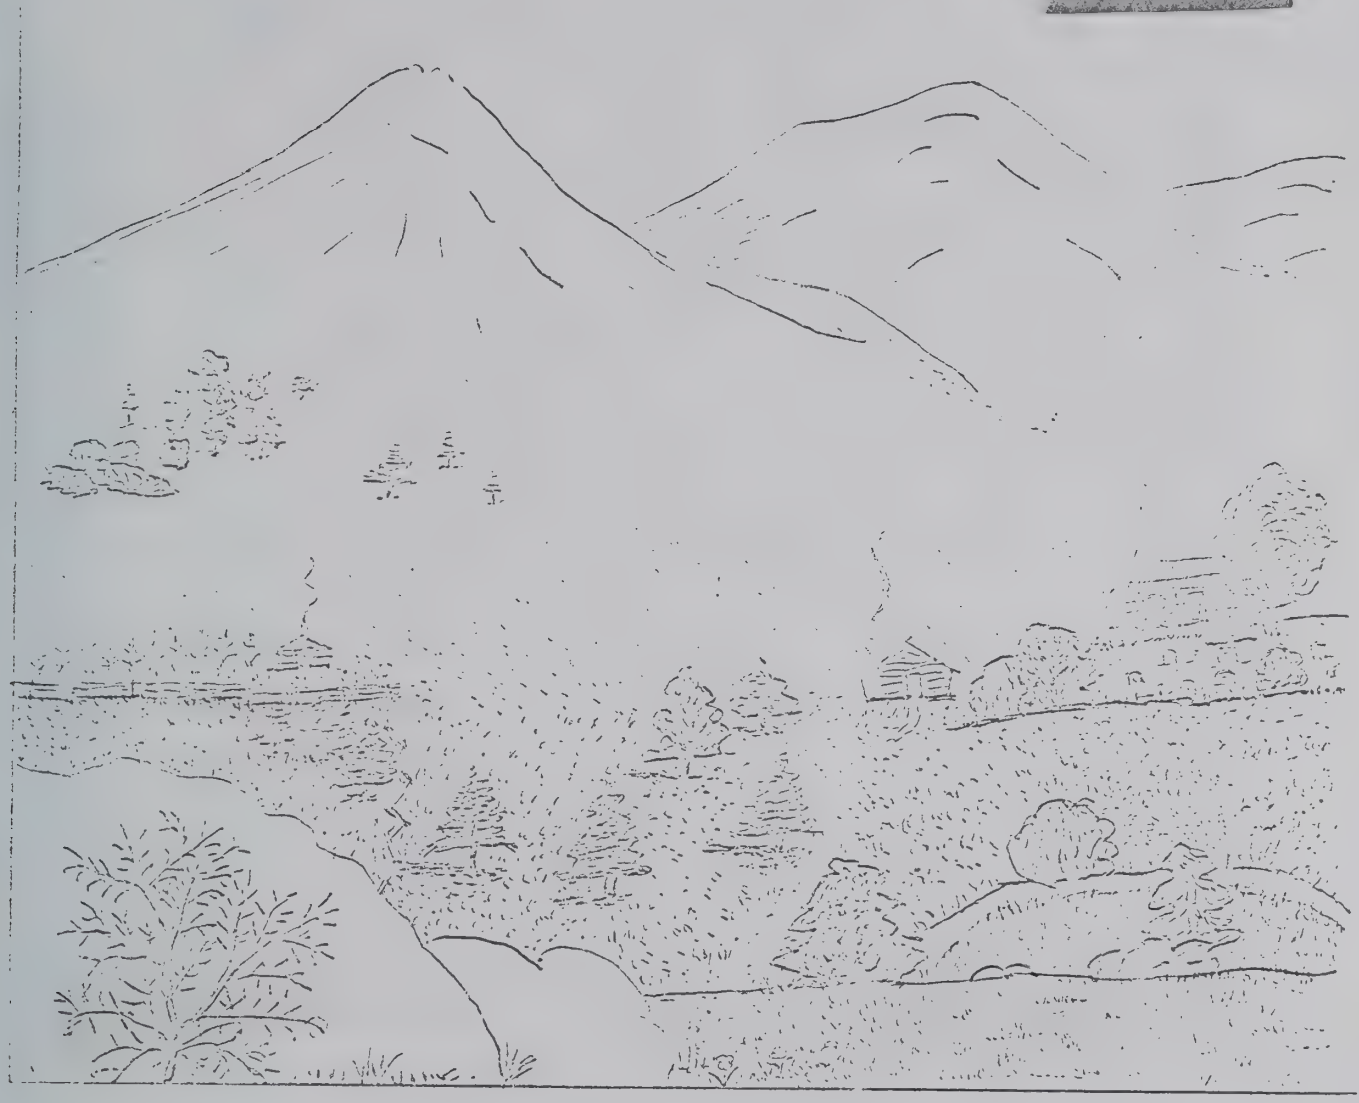
SECTION 5



THE TWIN PEAKS OF OTTER

THE BLUE RIDGE MOUNTAINS RISE HERE TO MAKE AN IMPOSING BACK GROUND TO SET OFF THE PASTORAL LIFE IN BEDFORD COUNTY. THE PEAKS OF OTTER ARE THE HIGHEST IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

IT WAS NEAR THESE PEAKS THAT FRANCIS HAILE CAME TO SETTLE. IT WAS HERE THAT HE DIED IN 1780. HERE SOME OF HIS SONS LIVED AND REARED LARGE FAMILIES OF THEIR OWN.

IT WAS HERE THAT SOME OF THE CHILDREN OF STEPHEN HAILE WERE MARRIED. IT WAS ONLY WHEN THE LURE OF NEW LANDS IN THE WEST DREW THEM AWAY THAT BEDFORD COUNTY AND THE PEAKS OF OTTER WERE LEFT BEHIND.

LITTLE REMAINS OF THE HOMES THEY BUILT HERE. YET THE MOUNTAINS WILL STAND FOR COUNTLESS AGES AS A MONUMENT TO THEIR COMING AND TO THEIR TOIL.

HALE'S FORD NO. TWO. This covered bridge, built in 1879 according to a design popular in those days, served the traveling public crossing the Staunton River until 1940. Its short span indicates the size of the Staunton (Roanoke) River until Smith Mountain Dam turned much of it into a lake.

Hales Ford, Its Bridges Have Seen Much History

By KENNETH E. CROUCH

Most citizens of Bedford and Franklin Counties and thousands of travelers know Hale's Ford primarily as the site of the fine, modern bridge which spans the upper end of Smith Mountain Lake, which is formed from the Staunton (or Roanoke) River, the boundary shared by these two counties.

But there is a lot of interesting history connected with Hale's Ford and the region roundabout. Some real headliners of Virginia, even national, history have haled from there.

Well Traveled Bridge

Hale's Ford and its bridge on Route 122 from Moneta to Rocky Mount, now has much traffic, with the growing attractions of the lake for recreational purposes but the traveler need pause as he travels a six-mile stretch of that road south, for in that space much history has been made.

The first member of the Hale family in the colony was Nicholas Haile, an immigrant who came to Elizabeth City County in 1645 and in 1648 had a plantation in York County. After its formation in 1651 he is shown as a landowner in Lancaster County.

Among his children were George and John, who laid out the town of Lancaster in 1682. George spelled his name Heale, was a justice in Lancaster County in 1684 and a member of the House of Burgesses from Lancaster County from 1695 to 1697.

Name Becomes Hale

George and Ellen Heale had several children, one being Nicholas, who changed the spelling of his family name to Hale and settled in Maryland. His son, Nicholas Hale, Jr., who was in Augusta County in 1748, in 1749 was a justice in Lunenburg County and in 1752 was active in the formation of Halifax County.

Nicholas Hale, Jr., and his son, Nicholas Hale, III, born in 1724, had large holdings along the Roanoke (Staunton) River and the ford over the river as well as Hale's Old Mill Creek, which empties into the river near the ford, took their names from this father and son.

The earliest Bedford County deed for the Hale's was in 1758 when Nicholas Haile and others sold 350 acres on Rentfro Road and Indian Run to William Rentfro.

Moshac Haile was the first of the family to purchase land in Bedford County, a deed being recorded in 1771 for the purchase of 200 acres on the south side of Falling Creek from Peter Finny.

By marriage the Hale family is related to the Claiborne family, which played a part in the political life of the eastern United States since the late 1700s.

Franklin County Formed

Nicholas Hale, Jr., for whom Hale's Ford received its name, had a brother John Hale, the father of Thomas Hale. Thomas was born in 1742, died in 1812, served in Dunmore's War in 1774, was a sheriff of Franklin County and in 1764 married Jane Armstrong. He established a plantation at the forks of the Pigg River in 1774, that section then being a part of Pittsylvania County but in that portion which was cut off in 1777 in the formation of Henry County. In 1785 when Franklin County was formed from Bedford and Henry Counties this area became part of the new county.

The Pigg River valley received its name from John Pigg of Amelia County, a pioneer settler in that part of what is now Franklin County about 1740. One of his neighbors was Patrick Henry, after serving as governor of Virginia, bought land in 1779 in the Leatherwod Creek area and lived there endeavoring to recover his health.

Hale had a son, John Hale, born July 29, 1765, in Augusta County. He saw action in the Revolutionary War, owned a large plantaiton in Franklin County near where Gills Creek enters the Roanoke (Staunton) River and built his home, Liberty Hall, there in 1800. He was married Sept. 27, 1792, to Theodosia Saunders, born 1769, died 1842, and he died Dec. 31, 1815.

Rocky Mount's Mayor

The children of John and Theodosia Saunders Hale included Giles William Bruce Hale, born in 1805 at Liberty Hall. He served as commissioner of the revenue of Franklin County from 1828 to 1830. His son, Giles William Bruce Hale, Jr., was born in Richmond April 20, 1840, and died in Rocky Mount Sept. 8, 1933. He was raised on a plantation at Hale's Ford as an infant and when this was divided he received the Liberty Hall estate. In the War Between the States he was a captain in Company D, Second Virginia Cavalry, Confederate States Army. He was elected the first Mayor of Rocky Mount in 1873. He was married Feb. 18, 1863, to Josephine Hortense Eugenia Claiborne, daughter of Nathaniel Herbert and Elizabeth Archer Binford Claiborne of Franklin County.

Captain Hale acquired the Hale House in Rocky Mount, the Franklin County county seat, and moved there from the Liberty Hall estate on the river.

The present bridge at Hale's Ford is the fourth bridge there. The first was a toll bridge, the date of its erection is not known but it was washed away in the 1877 flood.

Known Only as Booker

The Negro educator Booker T. Washington was born on the Burroughs plantation, which runs alongside Route 122 on the east side, on April 5, 1856, to Jane Ferguson and for 12 years was known only by the name Booker.

After slaves were set free his family went to Malden, West Va., where he worked in the mines. Upon entering elementary school he signed his name Booker Washington, later adding the T. when he learned his mother had named him Taliaferro.

He later attended Hampton Institute, worked as a waiter in a summer hotel in Connecticut, taught school for two years in Malden, West Va., and then studied at Wayland Seminary in Washington, D. C. He founded Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Ala., in 1881 and died there in 1915.

A National Monument

His birthplace was established as a national monument by the Department of the Interior on June 18, 1957, and designated as Booker T. Washington National Monument.

For a while a postoffice was in operation at the birthplace site, known as Booker Washington Birthplace. Route 122, which runs from Big Island to Rocky Mount, was designated by the Virginia Department of Highways as the Booker T. Washington Memorial Highway and signs along the route record this recognition to the educator.

Hales Ford Baptist Church, located at the intersection of Route 636 with Route 122 just beyond the Booker T. Washington National Mounment, has a unique history itself.

Exactly one mile south of Hale's Ford Bridge is the birthplace of the father of deposed Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., of New York.

A short distance down the road, also on the west side of Adam Clayton Powell, Sr., was born May 5, 1865, on the farm of Llewelyn H. Powell, a former treasurer of Franklin County. His parents were slaves owned by the Powell family and they assumed the Powell name upon being set free.

The original house was built by John Hook in 1790. Hook formerly lived at New London, the county seat of Bedford County, but when Campbell County was formed, with New London in the new county, he settled on the river near Hale's Ford.

Grandfather's Grave

The grandfather of the former New York congressman is buried in a slave burial plot about 250 yards behind the Adam Clayton Powell built Abyssinian Baptist Church in New York's Harlem into the largest Negro congregation in the world. The Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., living on the island of Bimini in the Bahama Islands since being removed from office by a censure vote, is now pastor of this church with a membership over 15,000.

The senior Mr. Powell worked in the mines in West Virginia, in 1888 entered Wayland Academy (now Virginia Union University) and later studied at Yale University Divinity School in New Haven, Conn.

FRANCIS HAILE AND ADARA, HIS WIFE

Frances Haile, of Bedford County, Va., according to Nathaniel Hale, in Roots in Virginia (page 10) states that Francis "had left the Tidewater with Richard and others to acquire lands on the Staunton River. He was a cousin who had come to the Piedmont from Essex County on the Rappahannock in eastern Va., and it is possible, though not likely, that he may have preceded John. He seems to have tended strictly to his farming, entering little into public affairs, settled down in Bedford County and died there in 1780."

So here we have the first of our line in the interior of Virginia, the Blue Ridge Mountains forming a backdrop in the east, and two of the highest hills of that range, the Twin Peaks of Otter, rising high among them. For they were in the area that was to be Bedford Co.

The old, huge land grants were being broken up. Old Lumenburg County was divided and the part between the Staunton River in the south and the James on the north, became Bedford County in 1753, but this was probably after the time that Francis came there, and early records of the old county may contain information about the family not as yet found. Francis settled on the north bank of the Staunton and there lived until he died, with his wife Adara, and his children.

We have no account of the events in the life of the family, but in Va. and the other colonies war clouds were gathering and there were no doubt many a discussion on this subject. It was a serious matter to rebel against one's king in those days and that was just what was being planned, unless England would lower taxes, change its economic, political, and religious regulations. The Tidewater ruled the state, and, though feeling was divided there, the small farmers of the Piedmont were constantly rebelling. In 1767 Nathaniel Bacon and his followers rose against the royal governor, Berkeley. Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee, and Thomas Jefferson were constantly rebelling. It was in 1775, the year in which George Washington, whose mother had been a neighbor of Francis' ancestors, was made commander-in-chief of the colonial forces, that Francis Haile made his will. He lived until 1780, and so lived through most of the years that would end with victory for the Americans and independence for a new nation.

His will (Bedford County Will Book No. 1, 1763-1787) leaves all to his wife, Adara, for use during the remainder of her life; after that everything is to be divided among all of his children, who are: Richard, Stephen, Lewis, Elizabeth, Mary, Ruth, Ushely, and Mourning. Stephen and Lewis are executors of the will, which was written on Dec. 5, 1775. Property appraisement in Will Book I page 376.

THE CHILDREN OF FRANCIS AND ADARA

Richard, mentioned first in the will of his father, was probably named for the Richard Haile who came with Francis from Essex Co., and who may have been his brother, and who died in 1784, leaving a wife, Elizabeth. Francis' son died young, but not so young as to die childless. He may have lived in Franklin County, south of the Staunton River, for, according to a record of that county, Francis Hale, an orphan of Richard, was bound out by his mother to work until he was 21. Later, a Francis Hale of that county, was father of a number of children in the marriage book. I am, of course, not certain that that Francis was our Richard's son, but I am of this one. In the records of Bedford County, Book 12, page 20, Stephen Haile qualified as guardian of Lewis, the orphan of Richard.

Lewis who was born in 1746, married Mary Burwell, who, according to Nathaniel Hale, "was a descendant of an old and distinguished family. He and Mary sold their lands south of the Staunton at the mouth of the Blackwater River during 1778-79. They then moved to the New River Valley and settled on Elk Creek. Lewis was a Revolutionary soldier in 1781, and appointed a justice of Montgomery Co., in 1786, and was one of the first justices of Grayson Co. in 1792. He died in Grayson Co. in 1802." Lewis' children bear almost the same names as did Francis': Richard, William Dudley, Francis, Lewis, Stephen, Elizabeth, and Mary. The last one married John Hale, the 3rd, who was a grandson of old John Hale who came to the Piedmont about the time that Francis did years before.

At this time, nothing is known by me of the daughters of Francis. They no doubt married and had numerous offspring to populate the country with names other than Hale. (A Virginian wrote me that Usheley and Mourning never married.

Stephen, who was born in 1750, was born in Bedford Co.(3), and married Nancy Arthur in 1770. The Arthur family came early to Bedford Co. We know that Stephen was living in the county of May 27, 1782. On that date court was held at the home of David Wright. Present were Robert Ewing, William Callaway, William Grigg, and James Buford, gentlemen. Also present were Gross Scruggs and William Leftwich, who, presumably were not. A John Divers proved that he furnished Christopher Irvine, Commissary under ye provision law with 290 lb. Beef for which he was paid 16/8 pr. Ct., 25 diets, 8 d. each; 16 pecks corn, 8 d. each; 10 pecks oats, 3/3, and pasturage 7/2. Stephen Haile proved that he furnished ye sd. company 250 lb. of beef for which he is paid 16/8 per Ct. (rder Book 1782-83) The same order book appointed Stephen Haile Surveyor of the Road from Antonu'. uarter to the fork of Green's Road, and the hands as pr. listed files are ordered to attend the said surveyor keeping the same in order.

While Stephen's children were growing to adulthood the United States of America was growing out of infancy. Its government was gaining strength under a new constitution and its states beginning to acknowledge its sovereignty. Its borders were expanding in the west.

Stephen was not a Haile family name. Is it possible that he was named for Stephen Hales, a relative, who was born in Bekesbourne in Kent in 1677, and whose fame spread to Va.? He was an Anglican clergyman and inventor of a ventilating system employing a type of large bellows. He wrote: Vegetable Staticks (1727, on psysilogy of plants) and Haemostatics (1733 on blood pressure and circulation).

PIONEERS! O PIONEERS!

Come my tan-faced children,
Follow well in order, get your weapons ready.
Have you your pistols? Have you your sharp-edged axes?
Pioneers! O pioneers!

For we cannot tarry here,
We must march, my darlings, we must bear the brunt of danger,
We the youthful sinewy races, all the rest on us depend,
Pioneers! O pioneers!

O you youths, western youths,
So impatient, full of action, full of manly pride and friendship,
Plain I see you western youths, see you tramping with the foremost,
Pioneers! O pioneers!

Have the elder races halted?
Do they droop and end their lesson, wearied over there beyond the seas?
We take up the task eternal, and the burden, and the lesson,
Pioneers! O pioneers!

All the past we leave behind,
We debauch upon a newer, mightier world, varied world,
Fresh and strong the world we seize, world of labor and the march,
Pioneers! O pioneers!

We detachments steady throwing
Down the edges, through the passes, up the mountains steep, Conquering, holding, daring, venturing, as we go the unknown ways,
Pioneers! O pioneers!

We primeval forests falling,
We the rivers stemming, vexing we, and the piercing deep the mines within,
We the surface broad surveying, we the virgin soil upheaving,
Pioneers! O pioneers!

THE CHILDREN OF STEPHEN AND NANCY HAILE

Stephen and Nancy found, as most parents do, that the years went all too swiftly by. Where once the house was filled to overflowing with children of all ages, now there were young men and women. To be sure, they were of more help now, but now they had sweethearts and would soon be marrying and going to homes of their own.

Marrying carried with it in those days responsibility of a financial nature. Some responsible person must stand surety and post a bond to guarantee that the marriage was truly legal. The following is a bond from South Carolina, which was no doubt very similar to those of Virginia and elsewhere in the colonies:

> "Know all men by these presents, that we, _____ _____, and _____ _____, all of the county aforesaid, are held firmly bound unto our sovereign lord the king, in the penal sum of five hundred pounds to the which payment well and truly to be made we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents. Sealed with our seals and dated _____ _____ _____.
> Where as _____ _____ and _____ _____ hath applied for a license, pursuant to the act of assembly of this province entitled an act for preventing clandestine, and unlawful marriages, to be joined together in the Holy Estate of Matrimony, etc."

The first of Stephen's children to marry, or at least in Bedford County, was Sally (Sarah) who was born on Feb. 22, 1772. Her husband was William Moody. They were married on Feb. 18, 1792, when Sally lacked four days of being 18, but William died in 1795 and on Sept. 7, 1796 she married Joseph Johnson, born on Feb. 22, 1773, died in March of 1832. One of their sons was Laban, born on Nov. 22, 1812, died Nov. 23, 1891, and who married Sarah Ann Brown, a widow. A son of that union was William Ballew Johnson who was born Nov. 26, 1836, died June 19, 1917, married Martha Malinda Ford, who was born Dec. 18, 1842, died March 31; 1914. Their son was James Grant Johnson, born Feb. 14, 1871, and who married Katherine Ballow Baker, who was born on Apr. 25, 1874. A daughter of those two was Delila Anne, who married John Britton, who lives at 7012 Stockton Drive, Knoxville 19, Tenn. She is a member of the D.A.R. through Stephen Hail, Sr., who furnished provisions for the Revolutionary Army. Joseph Johnson, who married Sally Haile Moody, was the son of Rev. William Johnson and his first wife, Martha. Rev. Johnson was very active among the Baptists of Virginia and later of Knox County, Tenn. The Baptists condoned slavery and so was popular in the south.

William Moody, Sally's first husband, was the son of John and Susannah Moody. John was born about 1740. He came from Fluvanna County, Va. and settled on the Staunton River, no doubt near the home of Stephen Haile. He served in the Revolutionary War:

"However, the records of this office show that John Moody served in that war as a private in the company designated at various times as Capt. Reuben Lipscomb's and Capt. Henry Young's Co., 7th Va. Regiment. Also designated as 3rd and 7th Va. Regiment, commanded successively by Col. Alexander McClenachan; Lieut. Col. William Heth; Lieut. Col. Holt Richeson, and Col. William Russell. He enlisted on Feb. 16, 1778 for one year and was discharged on Feb. 18, 1779." There were three marriages between John's children and those of Stephen Haile. John's children:

1. George Moody, b. about 1760, married first, on Nov. 8, 1786, Mary Hughes of Bedford County. 2nd, Rachel Mitchell.
2. William Moody married Sally Haile, daughter of Stephen Haile.
3. Susannah Moody married Sept. 29, 1800, William Boyd, Bedford Co.
4. Mary (Polly) Moody married in 1803 Stephen Haile, Jr.
5. Jane (Jenny) Moody married on Feb. 10, 1793, Thomas Haile
6. Lucy Moody married William Shadowen
7. Elizabeth Moody married William Humphries
8. Samuel Moody married Ruth Cadwalader on April 13, 1799

Anne Haile, daughter of Stephen Haile, married Robert Woodcock on July 6, 1793. They moved to Pulaski County, Ky. One of their children married a Mr. Quarles (Quarles in an English name meaning coming from a place near a quarry). A descendant is Pamela Quarles Plater, who lives in Louisiana.

Laban Haile, son of Stephen, married Molly Haile on Oct. 7, 1799, with the consent of Stephen Haile, her guardian.

John Haile, mentioned in the will of his father, is a son.

Thomas Haile and Jenny Moody have a descendant in Henry Hail of Pulaski County, Ky; their son, John, had a son, Jeptha; a son, Carroll.

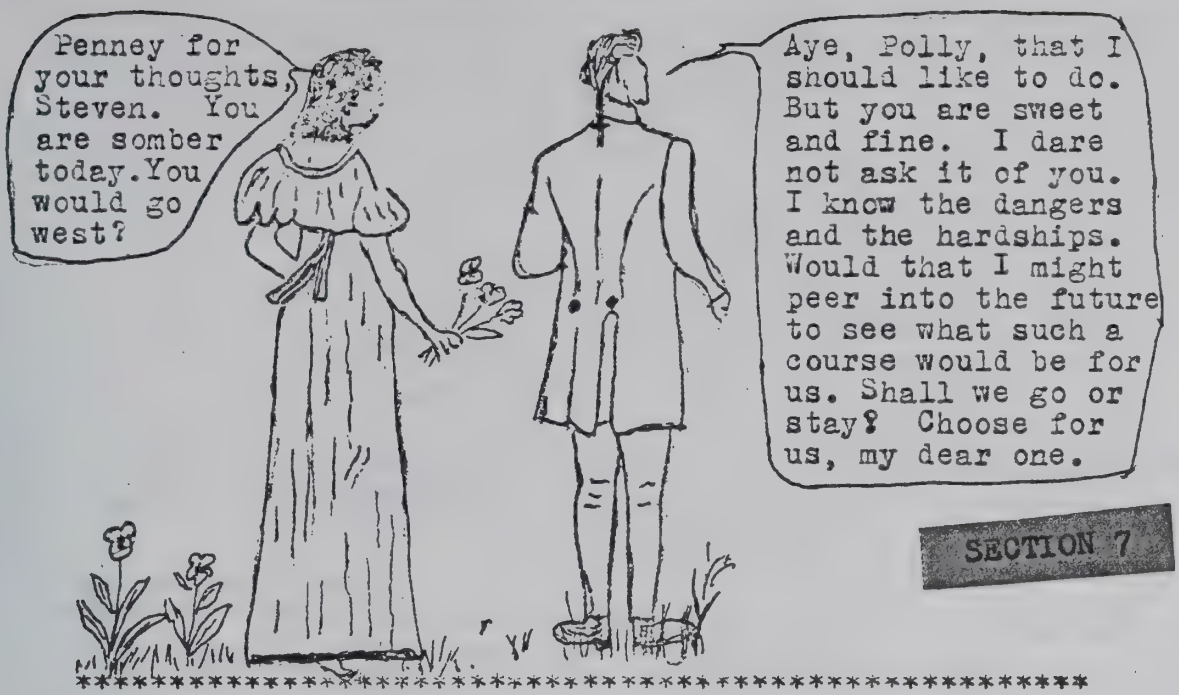
"STEVEN HAIL OF THE STATE OF THE STATE OF CAINTUCKY on the 26th day of Sept. 1809 made release to Barnabus Arthur." Deed Book 0-15, page 58, Bedford County, Va. By the above date Steven, Senior, had moved to Pulaski County and sold all or part of his holdings to Barnabus, possibly a relative of his Wife, Nancy, who was probably dead. Then, about five years after the above will was written Steven died, surrounded by his children and grandchildren.

Say that Stephen had ten children; each of his children; each of his grandchildren ten; each of the great-grandchildren ten; his great-great grandchildren five; the great-great greats five; the great-great-great-greats three; and the next three children each, Stephen and Nancy by now would have had 225,000 descendants. Just think of that. How many, I wonder, would Nicholas, the immigrant have?

Some of these descendants live now in Pulaski County; some were born there and have since moved away. Many thousands of others have scattered to the four winds and do not even know of Stephen and Nancy.

A few of his descendants are members of the D.A.R. Pamela Quarles Flater of Louisiana is one. She descends from Anne and Rob't Woodcock. Mrs. John Britton of Knoxville, Tenn, daughter of James G. Johnson, descends from Sally or Sarah and her second husband, Joseph Johnson, who was the son of Rev. William Johnson and his first wife, Martha. Rev. Johnson was very active among the Baptists of Va. and Tenn.



Penney for your thoughts, Steven. You are somber today. You would go west?
Aye, Polly, that I should like to do. But you are sweet and fine. I dare not ask it of you. I know the dangers and the hardships. Would that I might peer into the future to see what such a course would be for us. Shall we go or stay? Choose for us, my dear one.

STEPHEN HAIL, JUNIOR, AND POLLY, HIS WIFE

Stephen and Polly were married in 1803. In the lovely land along the Staunton their love blossomed. And yet the sense of tranquility that had settled upon the land with the ending of the war with England was being replaced with another factor that called for decision on the part of these two.

Even before the Revolution young men in buckskins were continually coming and going to "Caintucky". This was probably the Indian name for "dark and bloody ground," for it was a battle ground for the tribes. Perhaps even Daniel Boone came to the Hail home and told some of his fascinating tales to round-eyed youngsters.

More and more frequently whole families with their cattle, hogs, sheep, household goods, farming equipment, and sometimes slaves, were heading west. Virginia was a great, natural gorge through which flowed such a stream of settlers that it flooded the virgin land. Onward and onward it flowed until the shores of the Pacific Ocean were finally reached.

When Queen Elizabeth granted the territory of Virginia to Sir Walter Raleigh its boundaries reached from present day Pennsylvania to South Carolina and it had no westward limits. But the once vast dominion was beginning to break up. In 1784 Virginia gave up its claim to the Northwest Territory and in 1792 a part of it became Kentucky.

One can imagine that there was a great deal of discussion among the children of Stephen Hail, Senior, married and unmarried. The bolder among them wanted to go; some of them may have already been. Parents wanted them to stay. Memories of Indian atrocities were still fresh in their minds. But in the end, they went.

FROM BEDFORD COUNTY TO PULASKI COUNTY

Perhaps Polly consulted with her friends as to just what she should take with her for the journey and for setting up housekeeping on arriving in Kentucky. Perhaps she folded her bride's quilts new and shining. Maybe she spun thread and wove cloth enough to do her until their own cotton and flax and wool had been produced. Everyone helped them and parents contributed livestock, meal, and dried fruits. When all was ready there must have been tearful farewells on both sides and prayers that they would meet again.

Adults and older children rode horseback. That was much more comfortable than the wagons for roads were little more than trails. They would be weeks making the journey. Time had to be taken to shoot game for food and care for the sick. Watch was kept so that any stray Indians would not surprise them. The cries of wild beasts in the night were terrifying. But still they came through the Cumberland Gap over the Wilderness Trail. At length they reached Pulaski County. It had been formed in 1798 and was named for the Polish patriot, Count Pulaski, a brigadier general who was killed during the American Revolution. Seven cities and seven counties in the United States have been named for him.

Stephen and Polly chose to build their home in the eastern part of the county on Buck Creek. Then, no doubt with help from the others, trees were felled and in perhaps two days the home was constructed and a fireplace made from boulders from the creek. Drinking water was hauled from the creek, too; fuel from their own woods. From there, too, would come their meat supply. Doubtless Stephen and Polly had help in all of this from their very own slaves. Soon they had a comfortable home and it was time to clear the land for farming; for planting the precious seeds they had brought with them; for becoming self-sufficient. The work they did was not new to them. They had little or no schooling but they did know the work they would have to do.

FUN AND FAMILY

When Stephen and Polly were living there were few spectator sports, though horse racing was always popular. There were few books or reading material of any sort, and even fewer who could read them. Often the preacher doubled as teacher because he could read. He might be a farmer as well to round out his meager salary.

Horse back riding to various homes was a pleasure in itself and, indeed a part of every day life, for young and old, but for the young there was a special zest derived from it, as they went in groups from various homes to visit or take part in the doings of the community. In the farming community where the Hails lived as elsewhere on the frontier there was always work to be done, and it was sometimes easier to do it together and always more fun, less tedious, than doing it alone. Men could discuss the latest news from the east; women could exchange recipes and gossip. If the men were having a log rolling, a barn raising, a roof raising, a house raising the women cooked vast quantities of food for all while they worked and the children played. For the women rag tackings, bean hullings, apple peelings, corn shuckings, and quilting parties. There were hunting parties for the men. And, of course, there was always church, for they had faith in God. But it, also provided a place and time of greeting neighbors. It may seem to children today that life was dull, but it was not. And there was the satisfaction which came when their land was cleared and crops matured and year by year they prospered.

Stephen and Polly were blessed with children to fill the cabin. A second cabin was built beside the first, with a space between them that was fenced and known as the "dog trot." Here sheep might be kept at night to protect them from wild beasts.

When Stephen knew that his first child was on the way, he might have chosen a special log from his woods, cut a special section from it to a specified length, and then proceeded to hollow it out in a special way. When he had finished he took to Polly a rockable cradle that would last for many a year. In the midst of harvest, on September 25, 1804, a little girl was born and placed the cradle. Lucy was the name the parents gave to her. Eight sons in turn occupied the cradle . . . . . Then, on March 2, 1827, the very last was born. Nancy, they called her, for her grandmother Hail.

LUCY HAIL TATE

Lucy Hail was twenty when she married John Tate on February 28, 1825. John's grandfather was Major John Tate of the militia of Washington County, Virginia. He helped to win a victory at Kings Mountain in S. Carolina. In 1803, his son, Samuel, acquired a large tract of land on the Cumberland River and Indian Creek at the present site of Tateville, in Pulaski County. Samuel had 7 children. John was born on Nov. 24, 1803 and died on Nov. 14, 1841.

One must imagine their wedding day. It probably differed little from other frontier nuptials of that time. These ceremonies were always eagerly attended, for they were almost the only social events, except church, where work as not involved. So we shall say that on his wedding day that John and his attendants assembled at the groom's home. They timed it so that they would arrive at the Hail home at noon. The procession would be in double file if the road or path were wide enough. If not, then they road in single file. The journey might not be without mishap. Sometimes practical jokers would lie grape vines across the path, or fire off guns, to trip or scare the horses. Sometimes riders did fall to the ground and then good naturedly climb back into the saddle.

The ceremony by custom preceded the dinner--a meal which had kept the Hail household busy for days in advance. There might have been a variety of meats, boiled or roasted, beef, pork, fowl, or if the hunting had been good, venison or bear meat. Potatoes and vegetables in season would accompany this. The greatest hilarity always prevailed during the meals at weddings and no doubt this one was equally enjoyed. Dessert concluded the meal, and it might include pies, pound cake, and egg nog. A bucket of whiskey with a dipper for all to drink from possibly accompanied all of this. After dinner dancing began and might continue most of the night. The bride, during the night, was stolen away by some of the girls and led to a bed in the attic; the groom followed; from time to time food was brought to them and they made to eat it. There might have been a house warming on property furnished by parents, in a house built in two days by friends and relations. Furniture might have been mostly home made. The cabin of Lucy and John stood for many years. When it was torn down Mrs. Harry Waite had the rock chimney moved to her log cabin in her yard!

Lucy bore nine children: Samuel, Mary Jane, Margaret, Mahalia, Nancy, Stephen Hail, Cecilia b., Martin Owens, and Cerena.

John died in 1841 when little Cerena was two. Stephen Hail Tate, her brother, a Judge in Pulaski County, took the father's place when she was married: "Peter Lewis and Cerena Tate. Feb. 9, 1857. Surety, Stephen H. Tate." Attached to bond: "Consent of Lucy Tate. Witnessed and proved, Stephen H. Tate."

Lucy died on the 26th of May in 1879, aged 75.

Lucy married into a fine family. The Tates were one of the first families to come to Pulaski County. During the Revolution Major John Tate joined the Washington County Militia (Virginia), commanded by Col. William Campbell, who led them to victory against the Royal forces at the Battle of King's Mountain, South Carolina, on Oct. 8, 1780. About 1803 his son, Samuel, left his home in Virginia and acquired a large tract of land on the Cumberland River and Indian Creek at the present site of Tateville. Samuel and his wife had eight sons. Lucy married John. There were at least two children of this marriage. A Pulaski County marriage bond gives us the names of two of them: "Peter Lewis and Cyrena Tate. Date of bond, 9 Feb. 1857. Surety, Stephen H. (Hail) Tate. Attached to bond was consent "for my daughter, Cerena, etc, signed, Lucy Tate. Witnessed and proved by Stephen H. Tate." In the book of marriage returns, was found this, on page 331 of Book I: "------rites of matrimony between Peter Lewis and Cyrena Tate on February 11, 1857, at the residence of Lewis Tate in the presence of Claibourn Sloan and Stephen H. Tate. A gravestone in Tateville cemetery shows that Cerena Lewis was born on Nov. 28, 1839 and died July 2, 1903. Mrs. A.S. Frye, who now lives in Somerset gave me the information about the daughter of Lucy and thinks that the Tates of Monticello, of Wayne County, descend from the Stephen Hail Tates, if not, then from another of Lucy's sons. A Mrs. Pearl Catron De Rake, of Baltimore, deseased, wrote a history of the Tate family. Lucy was her grandmother. She writes of many intereting gatherings at her grandfather's farm, the same farm Lucy must have known, and, since our great-grandmother, Nancy, lived there, too, she also probably visited there.

Most of the information concerning the trip to Pulaski County by the pioneers and life in early Kentucky, came from A HISTORY OF PULASKI COUNTY, KENTUCKY, compiled by Alma Owens Tibbals. Published by Grace Owens Moore, 1952, at Bagdad, Ky.

There are few written details of the very early days in Somerset. No newspaper was published and few letters were written. In the history I mentioned above, there are references to some Hails but they lived there after Stephen left for Missouri. It may be of interest to mention them though I have no means of knowing what relation they bear to us.

Elias Hail, during the civil War, was a private in a regiment known as the first Federal Kentucky Cavalry Regiment, Company L was organized in Pulaski County in 1861 and was mustered out in 1864. A book has been written about them by Eastman Tarrant, THE WILD RIDERS OF THE FIRST KENTUCY CAVALRY. Louisville Kentucky: R. H. Carothers Press, 1894.

A Stephen Hail was sheriff in 1863. George Hail, 1863--68.

J.W. and S.M. Hail owned a general store in Somerset.

THE TATE FAMILY

THE TATES were Irish, Scotch, and Englishe descent and came to this country before the Rev. War, as many served in that war from VA

John and Robert Tate (from Washington, D.C. records, War Dept. Samuel (Irish) enlisted Sept. 4, 1755. Henry and Robert took oath of allegiance in Henry County, Va. John Tate was the founder of Augusta County, V.. He settled in Va. in 1743. He came there from Pa. He owned a farm and a mill; married Mary Doak, and died in 1801. He had five sons: James, John (Married Mary Bracken), Wm., Rob't, and Thomas. A daughter married Francis Beaty.

Col. John Tate married Mary Bracken and was Sheriff of Russell Co. in 1794. James came from Pa. with his parents early in the 18th century and lived near Greenville, Va. He was killed at Guilford, Va. Gen'l William Tate was at Point Pleasant and Brandywine. His descendants were numerous. He, or Capt. Robert Tate, had three sons and six daughters. Col. John Tate moved into this section for the first time in Nov. 1772. He, with his family settled on Moccasin Creek but five months later the whole valley became totally vacated for fear of Indians. This was four years before the Rev., and fourteen years before Russell Co was formed from Augustus Co. After the county was formed, 5/9/1786 he took an active part in county affairs for several yrs. He was first Constable in Captain Dortons and Captain Frazier's companies of the militia in Russell County.

The next year Col. John Tate was Captain of the militia on the Moccasin. A year or so later he became one of the County Commissioners, the same as a judge. From this time until his death his name is mentioned on almost every page of the Court Records. He died 12/15/1828, aged 85. Grave on H. John Tate's farm, of my father's, Leland B. Tate, Lebanon, Va (descendant of Joseph). Mary Tate, his wife, died 3/13/1817, aged 75 years.

Robert Tate, their son, was born in Russell County, Va on 7/31/1768, where his parents remained until their deaths at Zumberg. Robert married Winnie Atkerson, who was born in S. Carolina 8/17/1766. She was a descendant of Fr. Huguenots. Soon after their marriage they, with his brother, Samuel, removed to Pulaski Countty in 1806. They lived and died on a farm one half mile west of Tateville on the C. and S. R.R. The old house with wooden latches and strings still stands on the old farm where John and Reuben Shadoan, grandson's of Marie Buster, lived. The house was built by Robert and Samuel who lived on the next farm. South Two miles of this place is the Milt Short bend of the Cumberland River, where the Granfather of the writer lived when in Ky. Robert and Samuel are buried in the Tateville Cemetery.

Robert was a slave owner but whould never punish any of his negroes. He always sent for his brother, Samuel to do all the punishing. He was a Methodist until the time of Alexander Campbell, when he and his family became Disciples of Christ. He was a very religious man. He always were fancy deer skin clothing and hunting shirts to the religious meetings.

His brother, Samuel was a Major after the war of 1812 and served for 20 years in the militia of Pulaski County. Children: William, John, Samuel, Robert, B.G., and three daughters, Cecil, Severa ----- Isaac, Tate, another son of John and Mary, left Va. about the year 1833. He came to Kentucky and then went to Missouri. His sister married in 1758 John Calloway, in Va.

Major Samuel Tate's son, John, has two distinguished sons, Samuel, bo born 12/18/1825 and Judge Stephen Hail Tate born 12/12/5/1828, still living in Somerset. Samuel married Minerva Martin in 1846 and had ten children, all living: John, George, Robert, W.S.

The Tates are a healthy family. None were ever known to have died of consumption. They usually held some office in their county. John Tate and Mary Bracken's children are: Robert, Samuel, Homer, John, Lydia, Isaac, Mattie, and Hannah.

Hannah married a Fugate, and she lived and died five miles S.W. of Tateville. Children: Jane, married W. Lewis. Polly married George Ellis. Minnie married Lewis Shadoan. Robert married Minnie Adkinson. Martha married F. Clooundh.

Robert's daughter _____ born 12/5/1811 died 12/13186--married Milton Short on 1/8/1829 in Pulaski Co. where they resided until 1831, when they moved to Indiana. It was here that they freed their slaves that they had inherited from Robert Tate.

Robert's daughter, Lydia, born 8/15/1808, died 12/9/1845 married Joseph Smith, first, 1824. Children: Jane (Shadoan) who died in Ky. Rebecca, who died in Indiana; Mary Bracken (Baker) who died in Indiana. Sam was killed in the Spanish American War.

Note: Judge Stephen Hail Tate was the son of John Tate and Lucy Hail, ~~not of~~

LABAN HAIL, SON OF STEPHEN HAIL, POLLY MOODY HAIL

THE LEWIS FAMILY

BY Ora Parrigan of Burnside, Ky. 42519

I have a very nice Lewis record. The first of mine is:

John Lewis m. Nancy _____ . Their children:

1. William Lewis m. Jane Buster, Oct. 12, 1829. (daughter of Martha Tate and John Buster.)
2. Elzirey Lewis m. Laban Hail
3. Martha Ann Lewis m. Thomas Haynes or Heath
4. Charity Lewis m. Robert H. Keeley
5. Nancy Lewis m. Martin Silvers
6. Jerelda Lewis m. Conoway Warmon
7. Sicley Lewis m. Zephemiah Heath
8. Joel D. Lewis m. (1/15/1823 Anny Kelly (dau. of Joseph Kelly and Jane Buster). There were two John Buster's and two Janes. Joel and Anny Kelly had nine children. One,
9. Rev. John Shelby Lewis, Sr. m. Mary Jane Kelly, a sister to Anny. They had seven children. One, John Shelby Lewis, Jr., m. Hetty Jane Martin and they had eleven children. Joel and Anny Lewis also had a son they named John Lewis. He married Anna Martin and they had eight children. Five of the Shadoan girls married five of the sons of that Lewis marriage.

The Lewis record includes the Shadoan, Martin, and Tate records. Also the Kelly's.

This is the immediate family of Elzirey Lewis Hail.

REMINISCENCES OF ADELIA LEWIS HALE (WIFE OF JOHN E. HALE)

Sophronia Zeli on March 18, 1849 in Platte County, Mo., married William Sloan.

Grandfather's farm--900 acres in one place and 300 in another. The house farm was about 300 and 900 was down on the creek bottom. The Civil War broke him up, too. He was old and had no body to farm. He lived just a mile and a half from us in Platte Co. but we never lived with him. That was when he lived just a mile and a half out of Platte City, Mo. William Sloan came to Platte Co. in the fall of 1838 from Kentucky near Somerset. He married Cicily Tate of that community. Grandma Hale (Margaret Kelly) folk lived within a Stone's throw of the Tates in Ky.

Lydia Sloan married a Tate and they had a son, John, who never married. "Well, John, what are you going to do?" "I'll tell you, Nilly Martin, I've joined the Mormons. I'm going to be an elder in the Mormon Church at Salt Lake City." A year or so later Uncle Bill got a letter from John Tate asking him to come out to Salt Lake and join the Mormons as he would be a great leader because of his spirituality. Uncle Bill replied that he wouldn't join for all purgatory.

I went home in 1846 and lived with Grandfather Sloan, my mother's father (who migrated from Ky. in 1838). He was born and raised in Va. He pre-empted lands in Ky. that his father had acquired as pay for Rev. War service at the Battle of King's Mountain.

Cecily Tate Sloan's father was named Samuel Tate. He was a minister in the Rev. War.

Cother, an Englishman, pre-empted Grandpa Sloans farm.

My grandfather, Jesse Lewis, said that his wife was the daughter of a wealthy planter who disinherited her because she married him. (This may account for the fact that we have not been able to find mention of Miranda Sloan in the records of the Sloan family, or among the children of Lt. Archibald Sloan, whose daughter I believe she was. Consulted: James Lewis and Ann Elizabeth Stewart Lewis of North Carolina and Missouri; their ancestry and descendants by P. Lloyd Lewis, July 27, 1934)

We had a big loft and many a time after eleven o'clock we heard a tap-tap on the window and we let a southern boy sleep up there. We'd have been burned out if they had found it out.

I rode "Old Bet", a 6 year old mare at the first Platte City Fair. I was just a fill in between acts, I guess. Old Bet was just a flyer. She got as much interest in it as you would, she'd take the bit in her mouth and go.

[illegible] in July, 1933

My grandmother, Cecily Tate, the daughter of Samuel Tate, the minister, was raised in Va. When she was 16 her father and she rode on horseback to Ky. from Va. on a church mission (Presbyterian). Grandma Sloan was one of the smartest women I've ever seen. Just as bright as could be. I don't know just when they moved to Ky. Anyway, when her mother died in Ky. and left a lot of slaves and property, Grandma Sloan got her part in money, and she took mother and mother's five sisters to Barry and ordered new side saddles for them all, and she paid $50.00 each for them in gold. In time mother gave her saddle to me and it was green plush instead of leather. They said you could stick on them a lot easier that way.

Belva: "I talked with Cousin Judd about her mother. Judd remembered hearing her mother tell about the saddles. 'Mother was a regular queen and everyone adored her. Our father worshipped her. Lide and Joe, the colored folks in the home, and everyone else, adored mother. Emery Bird Thayers used to have a footman in uniform to assist their customers from their carriages. How pleased he was when Mrs. Hale drove up with her spirited dapple grey horse named Frank."

William Sloan lived in Platte County and bred horses for Fort Leavenworth during the Civil War. When Pennoclis' Command came through Platte City he was ten years old.

William Lewis said that in 1910 or so he made a trip to Oregan, Mo., to go over to the cemetery. He found there the grave of Miranda Sloan of Va., the daughter of a rich planter.

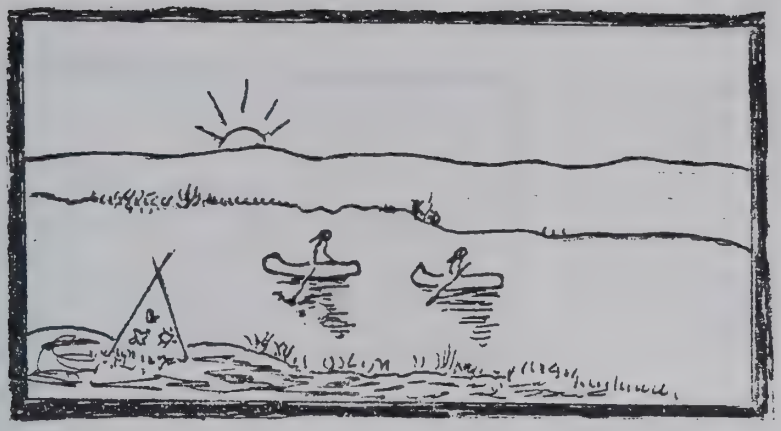
William Sloan (James' Sloan's son, a nephew of Benj. Sloan.) m. on Mar. 15, 1793, Cecilla Beverly Tate, born in Russell Co., Va. on July 29, 1799.

David Sloan who fought in the Rev. War. married Martha Watsbn.

A Trip to California for Gold

I can remember seeing them start. I can see the Platte City Liberty Road. We had to cross 80 acres to reach it. Uncle Bracken was along. I don't know how many wagons there were but a long line of them, and fully five yoke of oxen to a wagon. The wagons were made in Independence. Those wagons broke down from being made of green lumber. Once they were nine days without water. When they did get water father passed it around to nine of them before taking a drink himself. Cousin Bob Tate's tongue was swollen out of his mouth. He almost died. None of them did die. They went to the Sacramento Valley. I had a Deguarreotype of my father mining. He had a placer mine. I can remember his bag of nuggets as long as to your elbow. My father and Uncle Bracken and Uncle Jed (Jet-eye) started home together. When they got to Sacramento "Jet-eye" died and was buried.there. I don't know when Uncle Billy or Cousin Bob Tate came back but they made good money.

Aunt Frank Hale (96) told how Aunt "Sis" (Uncle Stephen Hale's son of Stephen Hail, Jr.? wife) father was sick at the Isthmus of Panama and died there.



MISSOURI
Probably means "people of the long canoes." Indians lived on the banks of the Missouri when the white men came.

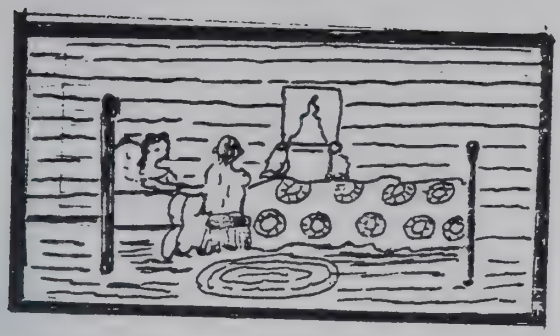
Missouri, the state, has been called the "Mother of the West."

SECTION 8

Stephen Hail, industrious, prosperous plantation owner, loving husband, and father of ten children, respected member of his community, lived in Pulaski County for approximately thirty years, surrounded with kinfolk and friends of long standing. He and Polley would have been content to remain there for all of his remaining days. But tragedy struck him and his in a most insidious way. Out of the goodness of his heart he signed several large security notes for otherpeople. Whether the notes were signed by some of his older sons who were just getting a start on plantations of their own is not known. All we do know about the matter is that the money was not repaid in time and Stephen sold his land and his slaves to pay it himself. One can imagine the shock, the grief, and the embarrassment of that unhappy family when once the facts made an impression upon them and they realized that they were homeless.

Stephen did what frontiersmen had always done before him. He went west. Missouri was the new frontier then, and it was to Macon County in that state to which he went. Perhaps he and some of his almost grown sons accompanied him on the first trip to the new home. They chose a spot in a new township that was just opening up--Jackson Township. Three families had come there during the previous year; three new ones and Stephen and William Haile during 1839. They liked the look of the soil here. The great ice sheet of long ago had left rich deposits of soil on this glacial plain. It was well suited to the growing of corn. About one fourth of the township was covered with trees at that time.

Very probably but maybe not, Stephen and his sons put up a log cabin before the women came. We have no record of the journey, the paregrination that led to the end. Imagine the pretty Polly of Virginia, the petted Nancy, doing the grimy, dirty jobs that housekeeping of that day and age demanded, and which, for all of their lives, negroes had done for them. Cooking had to be done over a fireplace that was hot enough in winter and must have been torture in the heat of summer. The clothes had to be washed in wooden tubs with lye soap made by the women. Perhaps the spinning wheel and loom had been brought to the new home, to be used as soon as possible for new clothing. It was very difficult for Polly and Nancy; probably equally so for the men who worked the fields. There was no way out of it. The only escape was death.



"Farewell, my love"

Nancy Hail was 12 years old when she came to Macon County, Missouri. Three years later her mother died; of overwork, perhaps; of heartbreak, perhaps.

As she lay dying did she dream that she was a child again in the land along the Staunton?

Did she see the vast fields of pennyroyal that had never known a plow when she and Stephen came to Pulaski County? Did she remember picnics in the woods with her children when in sheltered spots shy violets bloomed? where the hills were covered with redbud in the spring and rhododendron in the summer? Did she recall the Indian pinks that rivalled the color of the Kentucky cardinals? and the pure white trillium, wild anemonies, poppies, and bloodroot? the caves and waterfalls the children enthusiatically explored? Who can tell?

But when Polly closed her eyes for the last time I am sure that she firmly believed that some day she should meet again her loved ones in Paradise; that the parting with Stephen was but a day.

They buried Polly far from Virginia; far from Pulaski: in the new land of Missioni. And, despite the grief of her loved ones life had to continue without her. If life had been difficult for Nancy when her mother was there to guide her and conncil her, what must it have been without her. She must cook and clean for several almost grown brothers and her father; there was no end to the drugery. "What," she must have wondered, "had life in store for me?"

The goddesses who spin our fates had it all planned. Romance was just around the corner.

THE RED CLAY OF PULASKI

There's a sunny, hill-girt Valley
Where the Cumberland winds its way,
Where the morning-glory clambers
And a cardinal sings all day.

There's a cabin in the clearing,
And a hound dog in the shade,
A scent of woodsmoke in the air
And sorghum freshly made.

And I know that hazy mornings
Say that frost will be here soon.
There'll be bittersweet and asters
And a golden harvest moon.

For the mist is on the river,
And it's there that I would go
To that cabin in the clearing
That was built so long ago.

For the friends I loved are sleeping
Where I would rest as they,
In the shadow of the mountains,
Wrapped in old Pulaski clay.

--Jennie Wirt Hall

NANCY HAIL AND HENRY TAYLOR

We do not know just where Nancy met the young school master, Henry Taylor. It is not very possible that she was a student at a district school after the death of her mother. There was no time for that. There were schools in Pulaski County when Nancy was a girl and no doubt she learned there to read and write and add sums, for she could do that.

We have no painting of Nancy and photographs were unknown then. We don't know whether or not she was pretty. She was always slender, no doubt, for a faded snapshot taken after she had been many years married shows her so. In it she is as tall as her husband; one at least of her sons would be six feet tall.

Henry would have been drawn to her for two reasons. She was named Nancy and that was his mother's name. She had recently lost her mother and Henry lost his through death when he was a child.

It is easy to imagine their courtship. There would have been long evenings when the day's teaching was over for Henry and he had perhaps ridden to the Hail homestead on horseback. Perhaps he shared with Stephen and his grown sons the meal prepared by Nancy. Perhaps Nancy endured a great deal of not very subtle teasing by those brothers--those unnamed in this writing because they are unknown. One William Hail came to Macon County with Stephen and may have been a grown son. There is a gravestone at 10 mile cemetery in that county of a William Hail who died when he was 68. Also one of Isaac Hail who died on April 30, 1864, aged 16. Was he killed during the fierce fighting which took place in Missouri during the War between the North and the South? It is just possible for the war was not over until the following year. The daughter of Nancy's youngest daughter, Ida Taylor, dimly remembers "the carpet-baggers took everything he had" and thought that it referred to Stephen. But he died long before the war. No doubt her mother had told her that long ago and it was nearly forgotten.

During those long evenings Henry no doubt listened to tales Stephen told of his early life in Virginia and Kentucky. Then they in turn heard Henry's touching story. It would melt a heart of stone, not to mention a soft-hearted sixteen year old girl.

HENRY TAYLOR AND NANCY SMITH

HENRY TAYLOR was named for the father he never knew, though he bore the same name. It may be that he was of Irish descent, for a daughterwas to write in later years that the family was Scotch-Irish. She may have meant Scotch and Irish. This point is important, for I should like to show that Henry was the grandson of Major John Taylor whose home was Pennsylvania, who came from Ireland, who fought during the Revolution, for whom Fort Taylor im Va. was named. The three sons of Major Taylor were named Henry, John, and Samuel. In Miami County, Ohio, there are graves for Revolutionary soldiers with all three names but no one knows who the two latter are who lie at rest in them. Henry's grave is not that of our ancestor. It has been checked out with one of his descendants who is a member of the D.A.R. She can trace her own line but knows nothing of the other two, so we know nothing. There is just one thing that makes this believable. When Margaret, a daughter of Nancy Hail and Henry Taylor, sat down to write a history of her families in 1929, she made a statement which aroused my curiosity and started me on a search for them years later.

Hails: "Grandfather (Stephen Hail, Jr.) was of English descent and was a direct descendant of Nathan Hale of history." Now Nathan Hale was never married and had no known descendants. What Margaret wrote she had heard from her mother years before. It is likely true that the story of Sir Robert Hales had been passed on from father to son for generations. But Nathan Hale was the only famous Hale these backwoods people would have heard about. And is it possible that there was a Revolutionary hero, Major Taylor, told about, too, and half remembered?

Henry Taylor, in 1818, when he was 21, married Nancy Smith, whose parents came from Scotland when she was a child, and whose mother was in 1818 a widow who supported herself by weaving. Henry was a cobbler who made and mended shoes.

Now during the year of 1818 the government bought the central part of Indiana (meaning land of the Indians) at a council of the Indian chiefs and the land began to develope rapidly. Thousands of acres of land were opened to settlers for a few dollars per acre. They poured in from the east. So many people used it as a path that Indiana became known as the "Crossroads of America." The Erie Canal was built and opened an easy route to the east.

Henry decided to go there and find some land for himself and Nancy. He had a sister named Delphia Harmon who had moved to near Zionsville, near the edge of Marion County. She was much older than Henry and had a son, Will, who was planning to marry, and who asked his uncle to make his wedding boots. All footwear was made byhand then. He cut the boots from leather, while his sister made new socks. He complained of feeling well and lay down for a while, maybe an hour. Then he came out and bade each one farewell, fell into Will's arms, and died. There were no coroners. He was buried in Cottonwood Cemetery.

THE ORPHAN

NANCY TAYLOR gave birth to a little son on April 21, 1819, in Miami County, Ohio, and she named him for his father he would never know.

A cheerful fire in the huge fireplace; the whirring of the spinning wheel; the creaking of the loom were no doubt the lullabies little Henry heard most often, for the two women now must earn sufficient money to support themselves, and Nancy now lived with her mother. This life continued until in two years Nancy married a man named Edward Coleman. They had a son and he also was named for the father. Then, when Henry was about four years old Nancy died. Henry's step-father took his own son back to his people but Henry was left alone and never again was to see his little half brother.

Grandmother Smith felt that she was too old to rear another child. Like Henry, Nancy was no doubt the youngest or nearly so of a large family. He was sent to his uncle, Hiram Smith, who treated him with much cruelty. He must have told his children in later years of this for Margaret states that he did not fare as well as his uncle's dogs. The helpless, hapless child lived on his uncle's place for six long years, until the day when another uncle, William Smith, came from his home near Zionsville, Indiana, to Cincinnati, the nearest market. When he stopped at Hiram's place to visit he saw how the little orphan was being treated. He spoke with him privately and told him that if he would run away and meet him at a designated time and place he might come and live with him. Henry gladly left this foster home but somehow he missed his uncle, who went on home without him.

Henry was about ten years old by this time and had never travelled anywhere before. But he knew his uncle lived near Zionsville. He had a tongue in his head to ask the way. Perhaps the hospitable folk of that day invited Henry to share their meals or sleep in their cabins. At length he reached his goal; was welcomed at the already overcrowded cabin; began school when he was 12 years old; worked two days a week for his room and board and fifty cents a day, which was considered handsome pay in those days. School terms did not begin until crops were harvested in the fall and then dismissed when spring work began so Henry was quite ignorant when he reached the age of 21 and was free to do as he chose. He set about getting an education, studied the "higher branches" by himself, as there were no high schools in Indiana then. He must have had a good mind for Margaret says that at one time he was considered the best mathematician in the state of Indiana.

Barb: In searching further on this Stephen Hale that married your Nancy Turpin, I think I told you he was the son of Laban Hale and that Laban married Elziray Lewis who was the sister to my g.g. grandfather Joel Daniel Lewis, and I think I told you that Laban might have been a son of Wm. Hail or something like that but upon finding a family group sheet that was sent to me, I find that Laban was the son of a Stephen Hail. do not know who this Stephen married through. Barb, I am all wet about this Laban Hail being the father of this particular Stephen Hail, the Laban Hail that married Elziray Lewis didn't get married until 1831 either so it could have been a brother and that maybe a Laban Hail might have been his father but another Laban Hail. Now I am getting myself all confused. I searched thru what Gloria had sent to me and she sent me some info that showed some Hail marrying Tates etc. but didn't find anything on your Stephen and Nancy Turpin Hail I think I have her line here somewhere, she has a Turpin connection and it might be with this particular marriage I do not know and when I find it, I will get back in touch. Love and Hugs...Anna Melanie: I enjoyed our chat last night. While rummagine thru my materials this morning I came upon a little info that you might be interested in. It was sent to me by David Heath, Atlanta, Ga.

This is some information on John Heath, it has been rumored that he was also married to an Elizabeth Smith, but indeed I think that that was all it was a rumor. He indeed I believe was married to a Nancy Heath and this is the lady who bore his children as it shows them as marrying in NC, Stokes Co. in 1794...in the NC Marriage Records....Anyway I will post this info anyway and let you make up your mind.....John Lewis. Born about 1780 in NC, died in Pulaski Co. Ky. in 1838 or 1839. He married about 1798 it is believed, to Elizabeth Smith of Va, born about 1782 and died before 1830. One daughter was born in NC around 1800, through Tn., where 2 children were born before they settled in Pulaski Co. Ky. The 1810 Pulaski census lists John Lewis, age: group 26 to 45 years and a female (wife) age group 26-45 with children. They are again listed on the 1820 census. The 1830 census lists John, age group 40-50 years,with children. A female of John's age group is not listed. It is presumed she died. Record of a second marriage of John Lewis was not found in Pulaski Co.> William Heath, Jr., Nov. 22, 1839, bought 25 acres of John's land from his heirs. (Deed Book 10, Page 578,Pulaski Co.) The parcel of land was lying in the forks of the Cumberland River, beginning on a white oak near Big Cave, thence N. W. through a small hollow to Benj. Sloan's line, which was made by John Lewis and Wm. Heath. John's children, listed by names and names of husband's and wives,signed the Deed of Sale. "Nancy Lewis" was listed but not identified as widow or otherwise, and did not sign. The 1850 census lists a Nancy Lewis, age: 70, born in NC as head of family with a Samuel Hanford, age: 17, born in Tn., a farmer. It appears her residence was close by Thos. and Anna Lewis Heath. John's children:
(Marriages obtained from Pulaski Co. records and ages are estimated from the census.
1. Ruth Lewis, born about 1799 in NC., married April 14, 1814, Bazdile Griffin. Ruth died before 1818. Bazdile Griffin married a second time, Feb. 26, 1818, Eliz. Heath, daughter of Wm. Heath, Sr. Jeselda Griffin (daughter of Ruth and Bazdile, born about 1815, married August 7, 1838, Conway Warman. Jeselda died before 184?. Conway Warman married second time, June 16, 1845 to Catherine Massey. (I think there is something wrong with the information I have here. Robert T. Lewis, Burnside, Ky. sent me the family group sheet where he lists Jeralda Ruth Lewis as marrying twice, first to Basil Griffin and second to Conway Warman. In the Pulaski Co. Marriage Book I, it lists Jeralda Ruth Lewis as marrying Ruth Lewis which is probably the same girl on 14 April 1814 and he is shown again as marrying Eliz. Heath on the 26 Feb. 1818 unless that is a different Basil Griffin. It shows a Conway Warrman as marrying a Cathrine Massey. I am thoroughly confused but according to the marriage book this is the way it is....Anyway this is all I can confuse you with on the first child of John and Nancy H. Lewis.
2. Charity Lewis, born about 1801 in Tn. married Mar. 10, 1819, Robert H. Neely, born 1798. Pulaski Co. Census of 1850 lists Robert, age: 52, Charity 49, Sarah 18. (Thompson Hail, 16 and Christine Warman 13, were living with them.) The 1860 census lists Robert, age 61, Charity 59, and Malinda 30. The 1880 census lists Robert, age 80, born in NC and Jane 40 born in NC probably 2nd marriage. Some Bruckner grandchildren living with them.)
Malinda W. Neely married April 18, 1850, William Smith who died before 1860. Malinda W. Smith, age 32, married, second time, May 7, 1861, Anderson Haynes, age 45, at his residence. Anderson was former husband of Lois Heath (deceased),daughter of Thomas Heath.) Witnesses: William Lewis and W. C. Heath. Minister John S. Lewis. Elzira Neely married April 26, 1842, Michael Silvers. Surety: Robert H. Neely, and consent of Sarah Silvers. Nancy Neely married May 2, 1849,

Stephen Silvers. Surety: Martin Silvers. Ruth Neely married Oct. 21, 1839 John L. Cox, Surety: Robert Neely.
Anna Lewis, born Dec. 27, 1803 in Tn., married Sept. 9, 1820, Thomas Heath, son of Wm. Heath, Sr. I WILL TRY AND POST YOU SOME MORE I
